McDonough Plan Up to County Today.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough will appeal to the county board this morning for approval of his new plan to encourage tax payments, obviate property liens, and lighten the penalty load on tax delinquents.

The county treasurer would promise under his plan, with advance court assurance, to prevent tax sales of homes and other delinquent real estate of deserving owners. He would prevent forfeiture to the state of properties for nonpayment of taxes. His plan also provides for remitting one-half of the penalties which monthly accrue against delinquents.

Pay in Four Installments.

The property owner, on the other side of the agreement, will be asked to pay his taxes on the installment plan, 25 per cent before July 25, the date when judgment will be asked against delinquents. Another 25 per cent is to be paid in sixty days following, the third 25 per cent in the succeeding sixty days, and the final quarter in another sixty days.

Hayden Bell, county tax attorney, and Thomas D. Nash, Treasurer McDonough's lawyer, conferred with County Judge Jarecki yesterday afternoon. The judge said he would agree to the plan if the county board approves it. Mr. McDonough explained the scheme to County Commissioner Maurice Kavanagh, chairman of the board's finance committee, and Kavanagh said he favored any reasonable plan which will get the tax money into the treasury.

Appeals from Teachers. . .

Mr. McDonough and Mr. Bell have received appeals from 111 school teachers who desire the protection of their homes. The teachers have not been paid for several months and the school board owes its employés in excess of 20 million dollars.

Attorney Nash said last night that he would have a formal application prepared within a couple of days so that every one who desires to take advantage of the installment offer may do so before July 25.

"If the local governments are to exist," explained McDonough, "more taxes must be collected. Only half of the 290 million dollar tax bill of the county has been paid. Public employés have been unpaid from three to eleven months and in THE TRIBUNE last week it was estimated that the bond defaults of the local governments now total more than 12 million dollars.

Lists Unpaid Taxes.

"Of the 1930 taxes 144 million are unpaid, 51 million of the 1929 taxes, 19 million on the 1928, and more than a million on the 1927. Perhaps many persons have enough money to pay one-fourth of their taxes now, another one-fourth in 60 days, and so on. If we could get in 80 million by that process we could save those owners $3,200,000 in penalties. Or if we could get in 40 million we could save the owners $1,600,000 in penalties and, in addition, save them trouble over their mortgages.

"In the treasurer's office on April 30 I laid off 195 employés. Overtime has been eliminated. Every employé has been forced to take a vacation without pay.

Employés' Salaries Cut.

"In addition the salaries of all employés were cut by the county board, which also cut 60 employés off my pay roll which the Circuit court judges decided were necessary after an investigation of the work of my office. Because of the unprecedented amount of work which the office must do in the next 60 days the workday was extended today from 8:30 o'clock in the morning to 6 o'clock at night. On top of all that there has been no money to pay employés since the last half of March."

The treasurer made public the taxes assessed and paid for 1930, as follows:

Property—	Assessed.	Paid.
Personal	55,492,289	26,401,189
Railroad	13,340,177	19,414,237
Totals	$290,284,505	$146,182,297

More time has been given the property owners to pay the 1930 taxes than on any assessment in 30 years. Bills for 1930 started out on Feb. 23, after two extensions of the penalty date. It is considered improbable that the banks will buy any large amount of tax warrants until more of the 1930 taxes have been paid.

FIGHT ATLANTIC FOG IN RACE ROUND WORLD

No Radio, No Boat, No Parachutes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., July 5.—James Mattern and Bennett Griffin, American round the world flyers hopped from here at 7:28 p. m. [5:28 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time] for Europe on the second leg of their race for a new globe circling record. The plane disappeared in a fog. A moderate southwest wind was blowing.

The airmen took off two hours and 21 minutes after they had landed here on their flight from New York, which almost ended in disaster.

Behind Record Holders.

Fog caused the two men, who left New York at dawn, to overshoot Harbor Grace by about 140 miles. They finally found their way, however, and landed at 5:07 p. m. Newfoundland daylight saving time.

Their flying time of ten hours and 37 minutes was nearly four hours slower than that of Harold Gatty and Wiley Post on the New York-Harbor Grace leg of their round the world record flight. Post and Gatty flew to Harbor Grace in six hours and 52 minutes.

Mattern and Griffin encountered fog after leaving Nova Scotia and their plane was headed for Arctic regions before they suspected they were off their course. At Cape Freels, about 140 miles north of Harbor Grace, Griffin dropped a note which read:

"Please point the direction of the Harbor Grace airport."

Again Miss Goal.

Obtaining this information the flyers flew south. Again they overflew Harbor Grace and went as far south as Brigus. Once more they changed their course and fighting a thirty mile wind, poor visibility, mist and rain, reached their goal without further mishap.

Mattern and Griffin must better the Post-Gatty record of 8 days 15 hours and 51 minutes to set a new mark for a round-the-world flight.

After landing at the Harbor Grace airport, the flyers rushed their refueling operations in order to make up time lost in the fog. They hopped off in less than the three hours and 40 minutes Post and Gatty took for refueling here.

Expect to Break Record.

"We hope to girdle the world in six days," they said. "If all goes well when we reach the British isles, we may go right on to Berlin. We ought to get there in 15 hours. The plane has enough gas to keep us aloft 25 hours and we hope to maintain an average speed of 154 miles per hour."

Griffin supervised the refueling of the plane, while Mattern sped to a restaurant to get a bite to eat. He returned within a few minutes, carrying coffee and sandwiches for his companion.

The refueling required one and one-half hours. The plane was loaded with 450 gallons of gasoline and 35 gallons of oil.

Before their departure from Harbor Grace the flyers received reports that bad weather extended half across the ocean, but that the weather for the remainder of the way was "fair."

Carrying Sandwiches.

Their food supply included sandwiches, bars of chocolate, oranges, and water.

"Let's get going," Mattern said as he took his seat at the controls.

The motor was tuned for twenty minutes and the plane took off. The monoplane was headed due east and then crossed to the southeast before being lost to view.

The craft, a trim monoplane painted red, white and blue, is the counterpart of the "Winnie Mae" that Post and Gatty used on their dash. It practically is a "flying gas tank." The entire wing and fuselage is filled with fuel reservoirs except for the two cockpits occupied by the two airmen, who will sit 15 feet apart during the entire flight.

The plane has neither radio nor lifeboat. The flyers are not even carrying parachutes.

Hope to Reach Berlin.

The two flyers are heading across the Atlantic for Ireland and England, but will not stop unless they are short of fuel, having a cruising range of 3,100 miles. They expect to be able to

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 5.—Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney took the witness stand today in her trial on a charge of murdering Thomas William Scott Stephen, her youthful lover, and related her story of the two men who have played important rôles in her life.

MRS. ELVIRA DOLORES BARNEY. [Bassano Photo.]

The first was her American husband, John Barney, a cabaret singer, who, she testified, treated her cruelly. The second was Stephen, man about town and son of a prominent British financier. The beautiful daughter of Sir John and Lady Mullens admitted she had been Stephen's mistress and testified she had supported him for two years, even to the point of furnishing him with money for gambling. He had been a designer of women's gowns but had been without work.

Lawyers Sit on Floor.

Mrs. Barney is accused of shooting Stephen while in her west end apartment after an all night cocktail party. Her defense is that Stephen was shot as they struggled over her revolver, when she had threatened to commit suicide.

Old Bailey's tiny courtroom was packed by an expectant throng as the session opened. Barristers were so crowded they overflowed the seats reserved for them, and some were forced to sit on the floor. Aisles were so crowded it was impossible to enter or leave the court. There was breathless silence when, after several others had testified, Sir Patrick Hastings, one of England's great trial lawyers, almost in a whisper called Mrs. Barney.

Mrs. Barney, trembling and pale, rose from her seat in the great dock and, accompanied by two prison officers, walked to the witness stand. She seemed like a woman in a trance, apparently oblivious to everything around her.

Tells of Married Life.

She began the evidence by telling the story of her unhappy married life. As she spoke she gripped the witness stand and swayed slightly at times.

SONS OF PHONE CHIEFS ON TOUR; ONE IS KILLED

Brookings, S. D., July 5.—(AP)—Edwin Carter, 22, son of E. F. Carter, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, was killed, and Walter Sherman Gifford Jr., 14, son of W. S. Gifford, president of the company, both of New York City, was injured in an automobile accident near here tonight.

The boys were on their way from New York to Alaska on a pleasure trip. Carter had just finished college.

Gifford was learning to drive at the time the accident occurred, authorities reported. He did not notice a turn in the road and the car went over a ditch, crashing through a fence. Carter was dead when Frank Ryan, Sioux Falls salesman, reached the scene.

The Gifford youth was taken to a hospital here. He suffered a crushed left arm.

But Mr. Dreiser Seems to Have Done Well Here

New York, July 5.—(AP)—Theodore Dreiser, novelist, who frequently has declared his sympathy with the Russian soviet government, announced today through his secretary that he intended to vote the communist ticket in the coming presidential election.

The secretary said Dreiser was out of town today.

"Capitalism," Dreiser's statement said, "has failed as a system of government. In a land overflowing with natural resources which could have been developed and organized for the mental and physical welfare of the nation, it has contented itself with greedily and brutally reserving for the few the opportunities and privileges which mere decency would have suggested be extended to all."

Robber Writes His Holdup Note on Telegram Blank

"This is a robbery," read Miss Helen Kelty, 7111 Constance avenue, clerk in a Western Union Telegraph company office at 1459 East 53d street, when she was handed a telegraph blank by a well dressed youth last night. The robber then pointed a pistol at Charles Newton, 6826 Yale avenue, the manager, and took $50 from the cash drawer.

Youth Falls 800 Feet Down Mount Hood; Dies

Portland, Ore., July 5.—(AP)—Glen Gullickson, Portland youth, died today from injuries he suffered when he fell 800 feet down the icy slope of Mount Hood. News of his death was brought to a government camp tonight by Gordon Nugent of Chicago and Wayne Aden of Peteraburg, Ill., Gullickson's companions in a trip to the summit.

Tobacco Heir Shoots Self as Bride Watches

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 6.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Smith Reynolds, 20 year old heir to the R. J. Reynolds tobacco millions, was reported dying in a local hospital early today from an apparently self-inflicted bullet wound.

Physicians said he had no chance for recovery, the bullet having entered his head just behind the right ear and passed completely through and out the other side.

Reynolds, his wife, the former Libby Holman, Broadway torch singer, A. B. Walker, friend of Reynolds, and a young woman cousin of Mrs. Reynolds had spent the evening at Reynolds' home.

Friend Tells of Shooting.

Walker said that as they prepared to retire about 1 a. m. he went downstairs to close up the household, and from a lower window saw Reynolds go out on a balcony outside his bedroom. A moment later a muffled shot was heard, and Mrs. Reynolds, a bride of a short time, screamed that her husband was shot, Walker said.

Reynolds was said to have been seen on the balcony cleaning the pistol earlier in the day. Members of the household declined to hazard any speculation as to a possible suicide motive.

LIBBY IS SECOND WIFE.

The marriage of Reynolds and Libby Holman was revealed in New York last May after a honeymoon in Honolulu which followed their secret wedding several months before that. Mrs. Reynolds is six years older than her husband. She is his second wife.

Reynolds' first wife was Anne Cannon, daughter of Joe F. Cannon, a southern manufacturer. They were married at 3 o'clock in the morning of Nov. 16, 1929, in the presence of Mr. Cannon and the Cannon chauffeur, and separated soon afterward, Reynolds making a $1,000,000 settlement.

Last fall when his first wife decided to get a divorce Reynolds flew her and their infant daughter to Nevada. The divorce was obtained at Yerington on a charge of cruelty.

Plane Rains Lollypops on Children Campers

Philadelphia, Pa., July 5.—(AP)—Childhood's wish for a mountain of ice cream was matched with one that came true yesterday when it rained lollypops upon some 900 youthful campers at Camp Happy, Philadelphia's recreational project for children. More than 10,000 of them—red, yellow and green of various flavors—were dropped from an airplane into the midst of the gleeful youngsters who scrambled for as many as they could hold.

Fight for Beer Grows Heated in Both Houses

Washington, D. C., July 5.—[Special.]—Congressional wets prepared today for the battle of the session—the fight scheduled to begin in the senate tomorrow over the Bingham amendment to legalize beer.

MILLARD E. TYDINGS.

Senatorial wets in the preliminary skirmish sharpened their oratorical weapons for the onslaught on the dry citadel. The attack will start when Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], Republican generalissimo, moves the adoption, as a rider on the home loan bank bill, of his proposal to modify the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of beer of 3.2 per cent of alcoholic content by weight.

Over on the house side, the demand for a showdown on beer became so uproarious that the Democratic leadership took refuge in a forced adjournment. Upbraided by Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], for failing to live up to the modification pledge of the Democratic platform on which he will run for the vice presidency, Speaker John Garner was literally driven from the rostrum.

In the senate, where the first phase of the battle will be fought, indications are that the contest will be close.

See Turn Toward Wets.

Win or lose, the wets are certain to show the greatest strength yet mustered since prohibition went into effect.

As leader of the Democratic wets Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.], predicted today that a majority of the senate's 47 Democrats would follow their party plank and support the amendment.

Senator Bingham was confident a half dozen Republicans would join the 17 Republicans who have already cast favorable votes on former beer proposals.

Should both predictions come true, it would bring the modificationists extremely close to the 49 votes necessar, for passage.

Smoot Stirred to Retort.

Senator Tydings challenged the Republicans to say that any one of them would or could write a resolution embodying the Republican resubmission plank. He could poke no one into a reply until he remarked:

"No one having arisen, I must assume that not only it is not going to be done, but that it cannot be done."

That shot told, and the target on which it registered was Utah's Smoot.

"Nothing could be done on this side of the chamber which the senator would approve," he said. Then his usual sepulchral mumble mounted to an excited pitch.

"Unless," he hurled out, "it was straightout saloon, liquor, beer, any

WARNING GIVEN BY PRESIDENT; CALLS LEADERS

Demands Exclusion of Some Sections.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 5.—[Special.]—At a hastily called White House conference President Hoover tonight served notice upon congressional leaders that he would veto the compromise unemployment relief bill if the two billion 125 million dollar measure is approved by congress in its present form.

The warning was delivered to sixteen leaders of both political parties who had been summoned to the White House by the President in a last minute effort to reach an agreement on the controversial points in the huge relief measure. Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], senate majority leader; Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], Democratic leader, and Speaker John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.], vice presidential nominee, headed the delegation.

The meeting, which was said to have been none too cordial, broke up without agreement having been reached on any of the major points at issue. Agreement was reached, however, whereby a committee of six senators and representatives will meet with the President and his advisers tomorrow morning to make a new effort to iron out differences. Democratic leaders agreed also to postpone action on the relief bill from tomorrow until Thursday.

Gives His Objections.

Those attending the conference stated when the two and one-half hours parley broke up at 8:30 that the President had stated his objections to sections of the compromise bill which provide for the apportionment of the 500 millions for direct relief loans to the states and which call for new federal expenditures on public works. One of the major White House objections was directed at a provision of the bill which would authorize the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make loans direct to private individuals unable to make loans through banks.

The White House conference was called immediately after the senate and house conferees had met and voted to report favorably on the Wagner-Garner compromise relief bill on which agreement had been reached last Friday. Immediately after the night parley President Hoover issued a brief statement stating that a general disposition had been shown at the conference to reach a compromise agreement acceptable to all.

White House Statement.

The White House statement follows:

"At a conference with the leaders of the senate and house the President stated his objections to the form of the relief bill as it stands. There was general discussion of these objections and a general disposition to meet them and to reach a compromise agreement acceptable to all. In an effort to arrive at a definite conclusion it was agreed that a subcommittee should meet with the President tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock."

Brookhart Stays Away.

Representing the administration were Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, Gov. Eugene Meyer of the federal reserve bank, and Jesse H. Jones and Wilson McCarthy, members of the Reconstruction Finance corporation board.

Among those invited the only absentee was Senator Smith W. Brookhart [Rad. Rep., Ia.].

The one tangible result of the President's action was to halt at least temporarily the steady march of the compromise relief bill toward congressional approval. Before leaving the White House, congressional leaders said that steps would be taken to hold up action on the measure pending the outcome of the White House conference tomorrow.

The relief bill as attacked by the President carries approximately 1 billion 500 millions for loans to self-liquidating corporations of a nonfederal nature, 325 millions for public works, 200 millions for loans to states for direct relief and 100 millions for relief loans to be administered by the President.

The President, according to his callers, said he did not wish to have the authority to pay out the 100 millions and did not desire to make loans direct to municipalities. The President also stated that he felt the 200 millions should be loaned to the states on a basis of need rather than population.

Opposes Loans to Individuals.

President Hoover also voiced objection to the provision of the bill permitting the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make loans to individuals who are unable to be accommodated at the banks. Mr. Hoover also opposed the public works section of the bill providing funds for constructing public buildings, roads and river and harbor improvements.

Precisely at 3:30 the door of the cabinet room opened and Senator Harrison emerged. He was followed immediately by Senator Robinson, Speaker Garner and the rest of the delegation. Speaker Garner was in no mood to talk when he left the White House and climbed into a White House car. One newspaper man who stood close beside him heard him say that he was in a mood to press the fight on relief to an issue at once.

Senator Robert F. Wagner said the disagreement was principally over the question of private loans to individuals.

On his departure Senator Robinson was not communicative. All he would say was that nothing like an agreement had been reached and that the President was opposed to loans to private individuals.

Will Report to House Today.

Acting Chairman Crisp of the house ways and means committee said he had been authorized by the President to tell the house of representatives tomorrow the President will not approve the relief bill in its present form.

Majority Leader Rainey was glum as he walked out of the White House. "We have not reached an agreement," he said to newspaper men. "The President objects to the bill."

Chairman Norbeck of the senate banking and finance committee said no agreement had been reached. "We are in disagreement on about everything," he said.

"I think," said Senator Watson "that we are in a fair way to agreement upon some sections but not on others."

Secretary Mills was the last man to leave the White House. "I think we have made progress," he said. "I hope we can reach an agreement."

Main Provisions of Bill.

The sum of 100 millions shall be available until July 1, 1933, to the President for the relief of persons who may be in need of the necessaries of life. In disbursing such sum the President shall have authority to use and employ such agencies as he may create for that purpose and may cooperate with organizations, states, territories, counties, and municipalities "upon such terms and conditions as he may deem best, and may disburse such sums as gifts either of money or of supplies to the beneficiaries."

The sum of 200 million dollars shall be available to be used in furnishing relief and work relief to needy and distressed people and in relieving the hardship resulting from unemployment. Such amount shall be apportioned among the several states and territories in proportion to population.

Billion and Half Loan Fund.

A total of $1,500,000,000 is provided by issuance of additional obligations of the Reconstruction corporation for aid in financing agriculture, commerce, industry and housing, including the facilitation of exportation of agricultural and other products and to assist in the relief of unemployment. The corporation is authorized and empowered to make loans upon such terms and conditions, not inconsistent with the act, to any person, when in the opinion of the board of directors such person is unable to obtain funds on reasonable terms through banking channels. Any receiver of any national bank is authorized to contract for such loans, and to pledge any assets of the bank for securing them.

The reconstruction corporation is directed to make loans in such amounts as may, in its judgment, be necessary for the purpose of financing sales of crop surpluses in the markets of foreign countries.

AMERICANS HOP FOR EUROPE ON WORLD FLIGHT

Both airmen are pilots and they expect to alternate at the controls to reduce the time spent off the ground. Each will take cat naps and they both expect to get in some good sound sleeping when they have reached Moscow, the next scheduled halt after Berlin. From Moscow they expect to follow the Post-Gatty course to Nova Sibirsk, where they expect to head northward instead of following the route the record holders took to Khabarovsk.

Soviet Troops Feared.

Soviet troops are in the vicinity of this latter place and the flyers have been instructed to stay away from there. Instead they will fly to Irkutsk, where they are scheduled to take on enough fuel to carry them "across the top of the world" to Nome, Alaska.

Their route as outlined across northern Siberia will carry them over the southern tip of Tomuskhaya mountains, over Kolymsk mountains, over the town of Markovo just below the arctic circle, across the Anadyr gulf and Bering strait to Alaska.

From that point Mattern is familiar with the country, having flown a refueling plane over the rugged country last year for the unsuccessful Seattle-Tokio flight of Reg L. Robbins and H. S. Jones.

Plan Stop in Canada.

Mattern won his flying spurs as an army pilot in Honolulu. He has since had a varied career, having flown in practically all nations of the world. He is 27 years old. Griffin was a pilot during the war. He was born at Barton, Miss., 36 years ago and attended high school at Lexington, Okla.

Plans Sea Hop to Chicago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TRAVEMUENDE, Luebeck, Germany, July 5.—Wolfgang von Gronau is preparing for another Atlantic flight to Chicago via Greenland. With his plane Groenland Wal D2053, he flew today from Travemuende to List on the island of Sylt, west of Schleswig-Holstein, from where he may take off at the end of next week. Von Gronau has two ocean flights to his credit. The Groenland Wal is the same twin motored seaplane he piloted to Chicago in September, 1931, on his second trip.

Surrendered to Grant, but Won't to Hoover—Virginia

Appomattox, Va., July 5.—(AP)—"We surrendered to Grant, but will not surrender to Hoover," is the campaign slogan adopted by fifty Appomattox county citizens meeting here tonight. Assembling not far from the spot where Lee laid down his sword at the end of the war between the states, the group organized what they hoped was the first Roosevelt-Garner club in Virginia and perhaps the nation.

Hoover Disarm Plan Headed for Pigeonhole; Recess Near

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, July 5.—Arrangements were made today for propping the disarmament conference into a lifelike pose while speeches are being made about President Hoover's proposal to reduce armaments one-third. The steering committee met and figured that the conference could meet again on Thursday and remain in session for a couple of weeks and then take an adjournment until autumn.

During these two weeks there will be no debate on Mr. Hoover's proposal, but the 47 countries which did not get a chance to reveal their reactions to it on the first day will be allowed to express themselves.

Will Extol Plan's Virtues.

Then it seems that a resolution to adjourn will be passed. But, first of all, if the declaration, as outlined by Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, goes over the conference will extol the virtues of the Hoover plan, its breadth of vision, and the impetus it has given the delegates, and leave its essentials for "consideration" by the powers during the summer recess. It would go on record for certain "common ground" agreements.

The British foreign secretary stressed the importance of this kind of an achievement during today's meeting of the steering committee. He said there were ten points in the Hoover plan on which everybody is in agreement. The Germans and Russians expressed dissatisfaction and inquired what they might be.

"Why, any one of us could write them down any time with a pencil and paper," the British foreign minister replied.

The Germans and Russians still wanted to know what they were, however. So Simon produced three points, citing the ban on chemical and bacteriological warfare, an international check on armaments, and "a measure of agreement" on aerial bombardment.

Fights for Hoover Plan.

This, together with an eulogy of the Hoover plan, would then be proclaimed as achievements and the conference's first law.

Hugh S. Gibson's American delegation has been fighting for weeks to keep the Hoover plan from being ignored. Simon this morning told Mr. Gibson that the British would not oppose any public discussion on the proposal and would not demand a debate on details in which Japan immediately would have spiked proposals of a naval reduction.

Count Rudolf Nodolny of Germany and Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov of Russia became sarcastic. They said that it was "all window dressing to hide the conference's failure up to now."

Asked if there would be debate during the discussions of the Hoover proposals, Chairman Arthur Henderson said, "O, no," but he did admit that there would be a debate on the resolution to adjourn.

536 PLACED BY JOB BUREAU AT N. U. EARN $60,280

The employment bureau at Northwestern university announced yesterday that the 563 students whom it had placed in jobs during the last school year had earned a total of $60,280.

Of this amount men earned $38,539 and women students $21,471. The highest earnings of a single student were those of Miss Mildred Ruff, a senior in the school of education, who was paid $796 as a playground director in Chicago. Charles Apley, a sophomore in the school of speech, earned the next highest total, $600. He worked as a clerk in a clothing store, as a waiter, and as a soloist in a church choir.

ROBBED OF $1,000 AND CAR.

Two robbers overpowered Albert M. Newman, 4452 North Keystone avenue, a salesman for the Chicago Tobacco company, 419 South Halsted street, as he was entering his automobile yesterday at Larrabee and Division streets. They took $1,000 from him and threw him out of his car a half block away.

3 FLYERS FOUND DEAD IN CANADA; SOUGHT RADIUM

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, July 5.—(AP)—A famed northland pilot, Andrew D. Cruickshank, and two mechanics have lost their lives in a venture to open up the radium ore fields of the far north.

Canadian Airways received word today that the bodies of Cruickshank, Horace W. Torrie and Harry King—missing nearly a week—had been found near Lake Mazenod, 60 miles north of Fort Rae on the aerial trail to the rich Great Bear lake area.

Their plane obviously had crashed and buried its nose deep in a ridge after wandering aimlessly in poor visibility. Although details were scant, it was believed the men had been dead for five days.

Cruickshank, who was a war time pilot, left Cameron bay last Wednesday with a load of mining equipment for Fort Rae and had not been sighted since.

FIVE FINED FOR SHORT WEIGHTS.

Five merchants were fined a total of $118.75 yesterday by Judge Howard Hayes on short weight charges brought by City Sealer Joe Grein.

Hold America Must Stand Burden of Reduction.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, July 5.—While the big drive to get the French and Germans to agree on Germany's final "reconstruction" payment was still meeting obstacles at the reparations conference here today, the European war debtors' brigade was taking shape.

Germany and its reparations creditors tonight are still 1,400,000,000 marks [about $350,000,000] apart on the lump sum Germany should pay, but the brigade that is eventually to face America on the war debts question found its basis of organization. These Europeans who are about to abandon their claims on Germany for a hypothetical lump payment are so worried about the American attitude that they have agreed to consult each other before any of them conclude an agreement on debts with the United States.

Want Same Yardstick for All.

This is intended to ward off any attempt by Washington to apply different yardsticks to measure the capacity of payment of her debtors by which one might come out worse than the others.

The British, it is understood, have agreed in addition that they will keep the French informed of any and all negotiations they conduct at Washington and not to take any decisions against the French interest.

Premier Herriot of France returned from Paris today. He appeared at Prime Minister MacDonald's hotel this morning before the Briton had finished his toast and marmalade. He was shown copies of the draft agreement among the five big creditor nations—Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, and Japan—on how large a lump sum Germany should pay. He also was shown the "gentlemen's agreement" to make Germany's payments dependent on what concessions the United States makes on war debts. Although called a "gentlemen's agreement," it has cautiously been put on paper by the five creditors.

Agreement Must Be Unanimous.

There are two parts to the draft agreement—the agreement finally reached here is not to go into effect until it has been ratified by all the creditors, and then the creditors agree not to ratify until a "satisfactory settlement on their own debts" is reached.

The Germans have accepted the terms of the draft agreement by which there will be two installments on the bond issue composing the German forfeit. The first would be 1,000,000,000 marks, if the German offer of a total of 2,600,000,000 marks is accepted, and would be issued as soon after a three year hiatus as possible. This installment would be marked at 90. The balance would be issued later under the same safeguards. A time limit of ten years was set.

The French, however, insist that the lump sum be four billion marks.

Premier Herriot tonight stressed the fact that, although an agreement is held up now on the figure of a final payment, the figure is not really so important as getting the United States to agree to cut war debts.

Dave the Hero in "Great Unkissed."

DAVID HUTTON.

The Rev. Aimee McPherson Hutton's big boy Dave played to a S. R. O. crowd in Superior court. His show for the day was "The Great Unkissed Male," with him in the title rôle.

Mrs. McPherson's mother and rival evangelist, the former Ma Kennedy, and her latest husband—Guy [what-a-man] Hudson—played before a select congregation of journalists at Hermosa Beach.

Love Goes Through Window.

Their playlet wound about the old theme, "when poverty comes in the door love flies out the window." Mrs. Hudson, who most joyously proclaimed Guy as "what-a-man" when they returned from a two day first honeymoon, asserts he is unable or reluctant to connect with a job.

"What-a-man" retorts that two street car tokens to carry him back and forth to Los Angeles and the stipend Mrs. Hudson supplies him to buy lunch are insufficient to provide strength to chase a job in Los Angeles, where jobs admittedly are few and seekers plentiful.

So they have decided to make permanent the interlocutory "economic separation" declared a week or so ago.

Aimee McPherson-Hutton's Baritone Dave was on the stand for the third day of his defense against the charge of Miss Myrtle St. Pierre's suit in which she alleges $200,000 damages were caused her soul and heart when he deserted her and married the Rev. Mrs. McPherson.

Attorney Lorrin Andrews, acting for Miss St. Pierre, had demanded Hutton's remembrance of an occasion when, according to the pretty plaintiff, he kissed her on the knee.

"No such occasion," boomed 240 pound Dave.

"The Great Unkissed."

Then Attorney Andrews wanted to know about asserted hugging and kissing matches in the kitchen of one of Miss St. Pierre's girl friends and in Dave's automobile, while he warbled tender songs in the ears of the comely nurse.

"I never kissed her," Dave said.

One thing led to another, and the attorney was informed by Dave of a total forgetfulness of any kisses at any time.

"So you stand before this jury and call yourself the great unkissed?" the attorney challenged.

"Yes, sir."

Mr. Hutton came into court with one eye black and swollen shut and a number of bumps on his face. He said he had been ganged by a swarm of bees while visiting his evangelist wife in the mountains.

Mrs. Katherine Elsoff, superintendent of nurses at a hospital, identified Miss St. Pierre as a patient who had been brought to her hospital in October, 1926, at which time an operation was performed. Mrs. Elsoff said that Miss St. Pierre was received under the name of "Mrs. Eben" and had been brought to the hospital by Edgar Eben, an organist who was subpoenaed in the Hutton trial as a defense witness.

GETS DIVORCE

ETHEL CATHERWOOD M'LAREN.

Reno, Nev., July 5.—(AP)—Ethel Catherwood McLaren of Canada, most beautiful athlete in the 1928 Olympic games, got a divorce here today from James Gillan McLaren of Toronto. Nonsupport was charged. Miss Catherwood and McLaren were secretly married at York, Canada, Nov. 28, 1929. In San Francisco, last December, Miss Catherwood announced that as soon as she obtained her divorce she was to be married to Byron Mitchell, socially prominent there.

Ma's side of the story, in her own words, is this:

"After a year of fruitless attempts at establishing 'Jack,' as I call Mr. Hudson, in a permanent position, I have made up my mind it would be to our mutual advantage if he went his way and I went mine. It isn't merely that he hasn't found a job. I don't hold that against him, or the fact that I have carried the financial load through the year we have been married. And I have only the best wishes for him now—but—"

Hudson's statement, made in interruption, came at this minute—

"You can say for me that if there is a separation or a divorce in this family, it is not of my choosing. All I want is a job. You boys can imagine the feelings of a man when she only gives him barely enough lunch money each morning, and a couple of street car checks to get down town and back on. And that to keep a man going all day while he walks the streets looking for work."

"Getting Out from Under."

"As I was saying," continued 'Ma' placidly, "I will strive to help Mr. Hudson get started on his way to wherever he wants to go, or where he feels that he might be successful in securing a position, but I am cutting loose. I am getting out from under."

"I only want a chance to get a new start at my profession," Hudson interrupted. "My profession is that of salesman. I ought to have enough money to go east and get hooked up with one of those new lines to represent out here. But I can't do it broke—"

"And," said 'Ma,' while I used to cry about the way things were, those times are gone. It's just a comic strip, that life of ours, and getting funnier. And I want it understood I am not responsible for any debts or other obligations he has incurred."

"The way I feel about it," interjected What-a-Man, "the times have made it hard on many couples in their first year of marriage. All I need is a job. I don't want to be kept around the house; there is not enough work to do on our lawn to keep me busy."

At which 'Ma' resumed, with careful reference to 'my home' instead of, as Hudson said, 'our lawn,' "Jack is always welcome in my home. But when a person runs out of money, that person is broke."

ROOSEVELT AND FOUR SONS PLAN A VACATION TRIP

Small Yawl to Be Used on Voyage.

Albany, N. Y., July 5.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt revealed today that he would take a cruise with his four sons in New England waters next week, using a 40 foot yawl.

The Democratic presidential nominee was jubilant about this trip and apparently was just as happy about the many congratulatory messages regarding his nomination which continued to pour in. He said many were from avowed members of the Republican party who declared that this year they were going to bolt, and he indicated his firm conviction that big inroads would be made in the ranks of the rival party in the election.

When he received the correspondents the governor was wreathed in smiles as he related the plans for the cruise with his sons.

Rents Yacht at Small Cost.

"How's everybody this morning?" he said. "Well, here is the news: I'm going on a cruise next week with my four boys and nobody else. We agreed three weeks ago to make this cruise whether I won or lost at Chicago. We are determined that nothing shall interfere this time. My son, Jimmy, has rented a 40 foot yawl for $150. It was cheap, and that's why we could afford it.

"We will get aboard early Monday or Sunday night somewhere on Long Island and go up through the sound, through the Cape Cod canal and on to Portsmouth, N. H. The trip will take about a week and we will wind up at Jim's summer home at Little Boars Head, N. H.

"There will be just the five of us along, myself, Jim, Elliott, Franklin Jr., and John. We are going to do our navigating, cooking and washing. I'm going to do the navigating. I want to do a lot of swimming and get some real rest for the campaign that lies ahead. We have wanted to do this for a long time but every year something has come up to prevent it. Now we are going to get together and have a real trip."

He told the correspondents that he wanted to be free and clear of politics if he could, but he agreed to a program which would call for a boat following to make a contact once a day.

Awaits Reply by Walker.

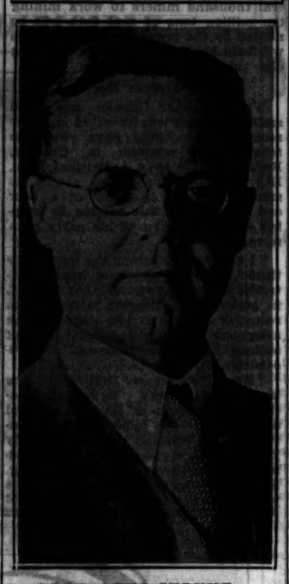
But the governor admitted that he would not spend the whole voyage vacationing. He will take along any number of documents relating to both state and national affairs, and if Mayor Walker's reply to the ouster against him is filed before he departs the governor will give some time on the water to perusal of it.

By the time he leaves Albany, however, he hopes to have completed the organization of an emergency force of workers now setting up headquarters on the third floor of the executive mansion to reply to congratulatory messages. The governor's desk was crowded with them this afternoon.

Lenz Quits Bridge Group Over Culbertson Pact

New York, July 5.—(AP)—Sidney S. Lenz, the bridge expert, today announced his resignation from Bridge Headquarters, Inc., sponsor of the official bidding of contract. Lenz resigned, it was learned, because of the recent settling of hostilities between Bridge Headquarters and the organization of Ely Culbertson, and what he termed "the impending indorsement of the Culbertson system of play" by the official group.

SUCCEEDS FROST



PROF. OTTO STRUVE.

RUSSIAN REFUGEE SUCCEEDS FROST AS YERKES' HEAD

Dr. Otto Struve Kin of Noted Astronomers.

Dr. Otto Struve, whose ancestors for three generations were noted astronomers under the Imperial Russian government, this week will assume charge of the University of Chicago's Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wis. He succeeds Prof. Edwin B. Frost, blind astronomer who has headed the observatory since 1898.

Prof. Struve, who is less than 35 years old, has been professor of astrophysics at the university for several years. He was born at Kharkov Russia and received his early education there. In 1917 he joined the imperial army and served as a lieutenant. Following the bolshevik revolution he entered the White armies and fought under Gen. Denikin and Wrangel.

Flees to Turkey.

With these forces conquered, Dr. Struve fled to Constantinople. While he was there Dr. Frost, knowing the distinguished record of the family and the tradition of astronomy in which the young refugee had been reared, obtained an appointment for him as student graduate assistant at Yerkes. He became a co-worker of Dr. Frost in stellar spectroscopy, a field in which the older scientist had long been the recognized leader.

Dr. Frost recalled yesterday that Friedrich George Wilhelm Struve, great-grandfather of the new director, was observor at the telescope of the University of Dorpat, now in Esthonian territory, in 1815. He was later made director of the observatory at Pulkova, near St. Petersburg. His son, Otto Wilhelm Struve, succeeded him as director.

His Father an Astronomer.

Three sons of Otto Wilhelm also were astronomers. One of these, Ludwig, father of the new director at Yerkes, directed the destinies of Pulkova, of Dorpat and of Kharkov. He made important astronomical discoveries, including the determination of the diameter of the moon and of the constant of the precession.

Dr. Frost will live in a house adjacent to Yerkes observatory. He plans to finish two works on astronomy and to give occasional popular lectures.

FIRST SHOT HITS ROOSEVELT PLAN FOR FORESTATION

Hyde Opens Campaign; Moses Takes a Hand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 5.—[Special.]—The first Republican shot of the presidential campaign was fired today at Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee, by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, following a series of conferences with President Hoover. The immediate target was the Roosevelt plan for relieving unemployment through inauguration of a huge program to reforest "abandoned farms and cutover lands."

Secretary Hyde ridiculed the Roosevelt reforestation plan as impractical, ineffectual, "utterly visionary and chimerical." He asserted that to carry it out on an emergency basis would throw more people out of work than would be employed. The cost, he said, on the basis of New York's reforestation program, "would be around two billions of dollars."

Hyde Consults President.

Secretary Hyde issued his statement after spending the week-end at the President's Rapidan fishing camp and after calling three times at the White House today before finally informing newspaper men that a statement was to be ready.

"Gov. Roosevelt has given us the specifications of one item in his 'new deals,'" Mr. Hyde's statement declared.

"He will employ 'a million men' to reforest 'abandoned farms and cutover lands.' 'Immediate employment and economic foresight march hand in hand,' in this program which, he says, will be 'self-sustaining.' 'The growth of tremendous crops will provide adequate security' for the issuance of bonds.

"This grand project is worthy of the 'economic foresight' of the governor. With only a reasonable degree of efficiency one man can plant about an acre, or something near 1,000 trees, per day. One million men, therefore, could plant about one billion trees in a day. But all the nurseries in America, whether publicly or privately owned, do not possess one billion seedling forest trees. They probably do not possess two hundred million. But suppose there were three hundred million seedling trees available, a million men could plant them in about three hours! Thus 'immediate employment and economic foresight' marching hand in hand a la Roosevelt would speedily meet an untimely end.

"The tremendous crop which the governor anticipated would be from 25 to 60 years in maturing. In the meantime the debt would have doubled or tripled. The oversupply of forest products would have depressed the market to 'nothing flat.' This is, in Gov. Roosevelt's opinion, 'self-sustaining.' This is 'adequate security' for a bond issue with a vengeance."

Moses Alleges Surrender.

The Hyde attack was followed at once by a Republican senatorial denunciation of Gov. Roosevelt for his plea of yesterday for Tammany support. Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.] termed the Roosevelt telegram "a surrender to Tammany Hall," an inauspicious beginning for the New York governor's "new deal" which he announced at Chicago he would give the American people if elected.

"The fourth of July, 1776," said the sharp tongued New Hampshire senator, "was the day when the United States declared its independence from British domination. The fourth of July 1932 was the day when Franklin D. Roosevelt made known his surrender to Tammany Hall.

"His telegram to the Wigwam on yesterday can be interpreted in no other sense, though it has its ludicrous features as well. Gov. Roosevelt surely must have had his tongue in his cheek when he appealed to Tammany Hall to stand firm against interests of personal greed.' Shades of Samuel Seabury."

TAMMANY ACTS TO DRAFT SMITH FOR GOVERNOR

New York, July 5.—[Special.]—A Tammany movement almost reaching organization proportions is under way to renominate former Gov. Alfred E. Smith for a fifth term in the executive chair at Albany, it was learned today. Prominent Tammany leaders want Mr. Smith drafted for the post, and it is learned from persons close to John F. Curry, leader of the hall, that the renomination of Mr. Smith would be very acceptable to the Tammany chieftain.

HERBERT H. LEHMAN.

It previously had been assumed that Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman would fall heir to the gubernatorial office if Gov. Roosevelt received the Democratic presidential nomination, but Tammany spokesmen declare that it is their understanding that Gov. Roosevelt would like Col. Lehman as his secretary of the treasury should he be elected.

HOTEL MANAGER HELD UP.

BEAUTY MONITOR AT HOLLYWOOD WEDS AN ACTOR

New York, July 5.—(AP)—Mme. Sylvia Ulbeck, who beautified the stars of Hollywood, was on a honeymoon today after her marriage to Edward Leiter, an actor eleven years her junior.

They were married last Friday in Egremont, Mass., with Charlotte Granville, actress, as their only attendant. They will live here, and Mme. Sylvia, as she is better known, will continue her radio broadcasting and writing on beauty secrets.

Mme. Sylvia, born in Norway in 1881, was divorced from Andrew Ulbeck in Mexico. They have two grown sons in motion picture work on the Pacific coast. She came to this country in 1922 and lived for a time in Chicago with her husband.

Leiter is the son of Mrs. Ella Leiter of Los Angeles, and a nephew of the late Joseph Leiter, Chicago grain trader. He is a graduate of the University of Southern California and studied in Budapest and Vienna. He played opposite Ruth Chatterton last season in "The Devil's Plum Tree."

DAMAGING RAIN AT CANTON.

DRYS FUME AT BOTH PARTIES; "BIGOTS IN DIXIE"

Say Charge of Smith's Wetness Was "Alibi."

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., July 6.—[Special.]—Prohibitionists, in their national convention, poured vials of wrath on President Hoover today as making the ardent drys walk the straddle plank into the sea—the Red sea they styled it—as they talked of Borah as a Moses to divide the waters and give them a passage to dry terra firma. They ripped into Roosevelt and the dripping wet Democratic plank, terming it filled with corkscrews and bungholes.

Meanwhile the anti-repealist third party movement seemed still glued to the sidewalk.

Delegates tonight seemed divided over tomorrow's nominations; some want to draft Borah, others seek to nominate some old line prohibitionist, still others talk of postponing the naming of a ticket until a national conference of all dry organizations is held in Washington July 14 or 15.

Hoover Special Target.

Hoover was a special target. In Cadle tabernacle enough fire and brimstone was spouted almost to fill the fiery pit. Drys in southern Hoover states of 1928 who voted for the sopping wet plank in the Democratic convention in Chicago last week were blistered by speakers, who argued it showed that religious prejudice was the real issue four years ago, and Al Smith's wetness was only an alibi down south.

And the keynote denounced religious bigotry. The viewpoint seemed to be that Hoover had fed the rabid drys to the sharks, while the reconstructed drys, now for repeal, had run out on Hooverocratism and were floating back towards Democracy on a wet plank.

Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist church, South, ex-political boss of Virginia who was hooted in the Democratic resolutions committee in Chicago ten days ago, was on the scene as an observer. The cockles of his Methodist heart were warmed by the fiery blasts, it seemed, for over the bishop's stern visage, ever and anon, stole a smile.

Shots for Both Party Planks.

As keynoter, Dr. Clinton N. Howard of Rochester, N. Y., the "little giant of prohibition," stirred the 300 delegates into raptures, with an excoriation of the liquor planks that sounded like an acetylene torch.

"The Republican ambidextrous, amphibious and porous plaster plank is capable of bending in any direction like a piece of whale bone," cried Dr. Howard. "It takes off from dry land and cracks up in a still.

"The Democratic plank is perforated with corkscrews and bungholes. There is nothing ambiguous about that plank. It and the candidate are for forthright repeal."

The keynoter turned to the drys [politically] of the south, and dusted them off. "The dry Democrats of the south, and many in the north," he shouted, "must assume responsibility for return of the legalized liquor traffic if they support that platform.

"If they were justified in rejecting Alfred E. Smith, and if they rejected him, as they said they did, not on account of his religion, but because he was wet, even when the Democrat platform was dry, how can they consistently support the ticket now, with both candidates and platform calling for repeal?

"Smith did not stand for repeal then; he stood for modification. The party and its candidates are wetter now than was Smith in 1928. Will the dry Democrats confirm the charge of bigotry hurled against them in that year for bolting a wet Catholic candidate and supporting now a wetter Protestant?

"If they do, the Lord have mercy on their bigoted souls.

Upshaw on the Scene.

"As a late Hoover Republican I would prefer, if the liquor traffic is to come back, that it be brought by the party of Smith, Raskob, and Roosevelt than by the party of Abraham Lincoln. I decline the invitation to ride into the White House on the rail of Al Smith with a Republican label."

William D. Upshaw of Georgia, former congressman who said four years ago he swung from the Democrats to Hoover, rushed to the platform. He brandished his crutches like a drum major twirling two batons and gave Dr. Howard a hug. "In the name of the constitution and the 18th amendment, I give Dr. Howard an embrace," he yelled.

Meanwhile much talk has been floating around about a candidate who might get some votes, which would meant a new day for the Prohibition party.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho has been talked of as a Moses who might smite the rock and ten million dry votes might come gushing forth. The talks have been loaded with Old Testament figures. Pharaoh, Moses, Aaron, Joseph, and Potiphar—not his wife—being the favorites.

Borah, the drys conjecture, is flirting with the idea of growing a patriarchial beard and coming down from Mount Sinai, so to speak, with tablets of stone in his hand. But Borah has a penchant for political flirtations and of walking out when it gets to the serious stages.

Others have been talked of. Henry Ford was in the mention today as a dry who, if submitting to being "drafted," is well enough heeled to furnish a campaign fund.

Some have been talking of Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, author of the eighteenth amendment, as a good man for the ticket despite Texas in recent political events has been cracking from dry to wet.

Oh, For a Candidate!

Also in the mention is Senator Cameron Morrison of North Carolina, a lifelong dry, who has just been defeated by Robert R. Reynolds, a repealist, by the largest plurality ever recorded in a North Carolina primary. Morrison is talked of for Vice President by some.

Another lame duck in the mention is Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart of Iowa, dry pillar, who was recently taken to the cleaners in the Republican primaries by Henry Field, also dry.

Some talked of Gen. Smedley Butler of marine corps fame, who as a dry candidate for senator in the Pennsylvania Republican primaries with the backing of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, was run ragged by Senator Davis, a repealist. Dr. Leigh Colvin, national chairman, however, intimates that Gen. Butler may run for senator as a prohibitionist.

Some mentioned Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma, whose state delegation voted dry in the Democratic national convention, and others spoke of Dan Moody, former governor of Texas, who was among the victims of the recent flop.

5,000 ASK FOR HELP IN FILING SCHEDULES FOR PERSONAL TAXES

Nearly 5,000 householders appeared yesterday at the assessor's office in the county building for assistance in filling out personal property schedules.

"Once in a while we get a kicker who howls against paying any taxes," said H. E. Bollman, in charge of the personal property division, "but the attitude of most of the callers is willingness to do the right thing and cooperate. The number who have never received a personal property schedule before is surprising. One judge of the Superior court came in this morning. He said he had never received a schedule before."

There were 22 clerks assigned yesterday to assist in preparation of the schedules. All are qualified to administer the oaths which must be attached to the schedules.

Within a week, Assessor J. L. Jacobs said, he expects to add 90 clerks and put on a night shift for the general work in connection with the 1931 quadrennial reassessment.

FIGHT FOR BEER TO START TODAY BEFORE SENATE

Garner Runs Out Before House Issue.

God's thing that will make a man drunk."

"Now that the senator has diagnosed my position with such honesty and candor," said Senator Tydings, quite smooth and unruffled, "will he not diagnose his own?"

"Certainly," the gaunt Mormon elder shot back. "I want the whole world to know it. I am for prohibition, not only by my word of mouth, but I have lived it all my life, and no matter what happens, I will live it until I die. Does the senator understand that?"

Not Bound by Platform.

"Then the senator is not in accord with his own party's platform declaration," taunted the Maryland wet. The galleries tittered, but Senator Smoot disposed of such petty pesterings with a wave of the hand.

"I do not care what the platform is, so far as I am concerned," he declared. "I do not care if the 18th amendment is repealed. I will do all I can to prevent that, but it will not make a particle of difference to me personally. I do not care what action is taken. I am a prohibitionist. I believe in it and I believe that the curse brought on the world through the use of liquor has been greater than that caused by any other agency in all the earth."

Senator Tydings still smiled happily. Senator Smoot's outburst had not altered the situation; no Republican, he said, had yet come forward to say that a resolution in consonance with the Republican plank would or could be drawn.

"That testifies eloquently to the fact," said he, "that the thing was a political plank and not a plank of conviction."

Sheppard Blocks Action.

The smoking out of Smoot was the climax to a discussion begun when Senator W. Warren Barbour, wet New Jersey Republican, demanded immediate action on the repeal resolution which he introduced last March 2, but which the judiciary committee, headed by the hitherto bone dry Senator George W. Norris [Rad. Rep., Neb.] has failed to report.

Senator Barbour called for a decision on prohibition in the "interest of a complete and courageous record on the part of the senate."

On behalf of the drys, Senator Morris Sheppard [Dem., Tex.], co-author of the 18th amendment, leaped into the breach and objected to immediate consideration of Senator Barbour's motion.

Senator Thomas P. Gore [Dem., Okla.] followed up by offering a resolution instructing the senate judiciary committee to prepare and report out two repeal amendments, one based on the Republican plank, the other on the Democratic plank.

"The day is not distant when congress must deal with this question," said Senator Gore. "It must deal with amendments based on those two declarations. And before congress is called to pass judgment the country may be called to pass judgment between these two proposals.

"If the judiciary committee would report on them now it would enable the country to compare the two and discriminate between them. It might facilitate an intelligent judgment between the two."

Bingham Upbraids Committee.

Senator Bingham upbraided the dry members of the judiciary subcommittee who have had the many repeal resolutions in their hands for having wilfully failed to take action. Three of the committee of five—Senators Borah [rad. Rep., Idaho], Dill [rad. Dem., Wash.], and Walsh [rad. Dem., Mont.]—were drys, said Senator Bingham, and they had absented themselves and refrained from voting on the excuse "that this was no time to consider matters of this kind."

Senator Ashurst was sure that the judiciary committee, if entrusted with the task of drawing up repeal resolutions in accordance with the Gore resolution, would meet that duty "like lawyers."

Sees Hope in Democrats.

Senator Tydings got into it by referring to the Republican prohibition plank as "that huge literary gem."

"I did my best to perfect that literary gem some time ago in Chicago," interposed Senator Bingham. "I failed and shall give no further effort to any such attempt."

But he trusted that, the Democrats having adopted a forthright plank, would proceed to live up to it.

"So that with a combination of votes," he hoped, "we shall accomplish what the senator from Maryland and I, believe should be done. Namely, we shall increase the revenue sadly needed by the government by about 375 millions; we shall put at least 100,000 farmers to work raising grain for the breweries; we shall put several thousand miners to work mining ten million tons of coal that will be needed by the breweries. These things will help business more than anything else this body can do."

Garner Dodges Decision.

While Speaker Garner was still smiling acknowledgement of a noisy reception the house gave him in token of his triumph in Chicago, Representative Fred A. Britten[Rep., Ill.] suddenly opened an attack to smoke him out in favor of a beer and repeal vote this session in keeping with the pledge of his party platform.

"I cannot understand the mental attitude of this Democratic house, controlled as it is by the speaker himself, in seriously considering a motion to recess or adjourn at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon for the apparent lack of serious legislative business," Representative Britten said.

"Everybody knows that within the last five days the Democratic national convention at Chicago adopted a plank for 'the immediate modification of the Volstead law.' Everybody knows there are dozens of bills pending in the house to do this very thing. Everybody knows further that one word from the speaker himself would bring about the passage of a rule to make a modification bill immediately in order and that it would be passed overwhelmingly by Democratic and Republican votes.

"Refusal of the speaker and other Democratic leaders to give serious consideration to the dictates of their Volstead modification plank is in itself an admission that their Chicago plank does not mean what it says.

"Mr. Speaker, how can you consistently allow your Democratic colleagues in the house to force an adjournment this afternoon with this prohibition plank staring you in the face?"

The speaker [sic] under the onslaught. Turning his gavel over to Representative Clifford A. Woodrum [Dem., Va.] he hurried from the chamber. But the house was in a runaway mood and when Woodrum put the question for adjournment, it was shouted down.

On a roll call a moment later the motion again was defeated, 138 to 171. In the very hour of his Chicago triumph, the speaker saw his control over the house slipping away and he hurried back to the dais. Again the Democrats moved adjournment and the wets, realizing they would be forced to keep answering roll calls on motions to quit, gave up the fight temporarily.

TWO GIRLS MAKING WHOOPEE AT COUNTRY CLUB ROUT POLICEMAN

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—Two young women and the swimming instructor of the Westchester Country club were fined for disorderly conduct and two of them for assault at Irvington today as the result of a festive party late Sunday morning at the Woodland lake casino at that place. The complainant was a policeman who said he tried to quiet them and was kicked and otherwise mistreated.

Mrs. Frances Meany Schofield, sister of Helen Meany, the swimming champion, of Greenwich, was fined $25 for disorderly conduct and $100 for assault in the third degree; Sidney C. Ehrenwald, the swimming instructor, was fined $25 for disorderly conduct and $50 for assault, and Miss Ivy Rogers of New York, was fined $25 on the disorderly conduct charge. She paid her fine and left. The others remained in jail in default.

The manager of the Casino, Edward Schrettner, said that he went to the table where the three sat and asked them to be quiet. The result, he testified, was a barrage of bottles, glasses and remarks. Patrolman Michael Erdley came in to ask quiet and get, he testified, what glasses were left and the bottles, too.

G. O. P. MAIN BASE HERE; DEMOCRATS ARE IN DOUBT

BY PARKE BROWN.

Geography constituted the principal problem of both Republican and Democratic national organizations in the aftermath of the two Chicago conventions yesterday.

Where should the campaign headquarters be? It had been expected that Chicago, centrally located, would be the base of operations, but the makeup of the ticket aroused doubt at least in the case of the Democrats. There was a question whether they should not operate from the Atlantic seaboard.

The question so far as the Republicans are concerned was answered more or less definitely yesterday when Everett Sanders, former Indiana congressman and the new chairman of the Republican national committee, came to Chicago and said positively that he would conduct the Hoover campaign from here.

G. O. P. Headquarters Here.

"I have engaged headquarters rooms on the sixth floor of the Palmer house," he said, "and I expect to spend most of my time here.

"Of course, there will be activity directed from Washington and, to some extent, I shall be in New York, but we expect to direct the campaign from here. We haven't the furniture in yet but expect it in a day or two and then we'll be ready for work.

"Henry Allen, the former governor of Kansas, will be in charge of the publicity. Mrs. Ella Yost of West Virginia is to continue in charge of the women's activities. And I hope that Robert Lucas, who has been in charge of the executive work, and Ray Benjamin of California, who has been of material assistance, will continue their services with the committee."

Farley Favors New York.

There was no such certainty of location in connection with the Democratic organization. James A. Farley, New York state chairman and Roosevelt preconvention manager, who has been elected chairman of the Democratic national committee, has indicated a tendency to favor New York as the center of operations.

It was expected among the Democrats who delayed their departure from Chicago that Farley's preference for the Biltmore hotel headquarters from which he operated so successfully will keep him there until November.

But, regardless of the location of national headquarters, it is probable that both parties will have western headquarters in Chicago. One of the thoughts in the minds of the Republicans is said to be that of opening an office for each of the 48 states in the Union.

TELLS STORY OF GIRLS ADOPTED BY CAPT. MORRISON

George Leitner, 72 years old, 742 Weed street, formerly gardener at the home of the late Capt. Edward W. Morrison, the "millionless millionaire," testified yesterday that the two sisters whom his employer adopted in 1916 lived with their foster father less than four weeks. He appeared as a witness in the court of Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor Jr., who is hearing the contest for Morrison's $2,000,000 estate.

"The girls came to live with Capt. Morrison in August, 1916," Leitner testified. "Early in September they left because they said that things looked pretty bad and they had no chance of getting any money."

The sisters are Mrs. Alice B. Schenker and Mrs. Margaret B. Brown of Dearborn, Mich., who are seeking a share of the estate. Probate Judge Horner held that the adoptions were invalid and rejected their claims. Judge Taylor also is considering the claims of William B. Foulkes, who asserts that he is Capt. Morrison's son.

Mayor Johnson of Gary Gets a Change of Venue

Mayor R. O. Johnson of Gary yesterday obtained a change of venue to the Superior court of Porter county, Ind., at Valparaiso, for his trial on charges of misfeasance, malconduct and oppression in connection with the use of city labor for work on his summer home in the dunes. His attorneys affirmed before Judge Maurice J. Crites at Crown Point that Johnson could not obtain a fair trial in Lake county. The case cannot be heard in Valparaiso before September.

BLAMES SENATE FOR INCREASE IN JULY 4 INJURIES

Refusal to Ban Fireworks Told.

If the anti-fireworks bill had been passed by the Illinois senate at the last session of the legislature the 55 injuries sustained by Chicagoans on July 4 would have been reduced, Sidney J. Williams of the National Safety council asserted yesterday.

"A bill banning the manufacture, sale, and use of fireworks in Illinois passed the house of representatives," Mr. Williams recalled. "Records show that it was referred to the senate committee on license, which tabled it. The action in the senate was most disheartening."

About the only help the city council could give yesterday was to repeat the annual warning to sufferers from fireworks burns, urging that they seek anti-tetanus treatment without delay.

Report for Treatment.

"No matter how small a burn may have been incurred, it should not be neglected," read the bulletin. Tetanus poisoning or lockjaw resulting in death can develop from a minor scratch or skin abrasion. Victims should report to their physician, to a hospital, or to the health department for immediate treatment to prevent poisoning."

The fireworks bill was introduced in the Illinois house by State Representative Thomas J. O'Brien. Armed with statistics which showed the mounting deaths and injuries from holiday explosives, Mr. O'Brien obtained favorable action on the bill in the judiciary committee and later in the house itself.

Republican leaders in the house, notably Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago and Roger F. Little of Champaign, opposed the bill and talked of the high patriotic significance of Independence day. The majority of the house chose, however, to agree with Mr. O'Brien and with James T. Burns, Kankakee, and Thomas J. O'Grady of Chicago, all three Democrats, for the bill passed.

Moves to Table Bill.

In the senate it went to the license committee, presided over by Victor P. Michel of Peoria. When it was considered, Senator William R. McCauley [Rep., Olney] moved to table it. Senator Martin R. Carlson [Rep., Moline] objected. He denied the assertion that the business of fireworks manufacturers would suffer from passage of the bill and contended that the manufacturers made their money from fireworks displays used at celebrations, which are generally conducted under supervision, and not from "Fourth" sales.

McCauley persisted, however, and a majority of the committee voted with him. The bill died.

Four Chicagoans Injured in Iowa Auto Collision

Stuart, Ia., July 5.—(AP)—Four Chicagoans suffered cuts and bruises today in a collision of two automobiles near here. The injured are the Rev. George B. Blomgren, 5016 North Paulina avenue; Mrs. Blomgren, their young son, Gerald, and Mrs. John A. Palmer, 1714 Carmen avenue.

ORGANIZE TO FORCE NEW YORK ASSEMBLY TO REDUCE EXPENSES

New York, July 5.—(AP)—Half the counties of the state have been organized or are being organized by the New York state industrial council in an effort to force the legislature to reduce state expenditures as a means of reducing taxation. Announcement to that effect was made by George W. Wickersham, the council's chairman, in an address tonight.

After pointing out that the taxpayers had given "singularly little attention" to the enormous expenditures of federal, state and municipal government that are constantly growing, and after declaring that the initiative in reducing the cost of government "cannot come from people in public office," Mr. Wickersham asserted:

"It is my confident belief that in the thorough organization by legislative districts of the thinking taxpayers, both men and women, we have the surest promises of quickly making an end of government extravagance."

SHERIFF DANCES A JIG; DROPS GUN, WOUNDS WOMAN

Nashville, Ind., July 5.—[Special.]—The neighbors from out among the Brown county hills were celebrating the Fourth in a cabin near here last night when Deputy Sheriff Thurman Percifield, 40, was called on for a solo dance.

Brown county's old log jail has not had a prisoner in it for many months, but the county's law officers always carry a gun, a badge and other trappings.

Percifield elected a jig at which he is adept and got right sprightly as the music and crowds clapping hands warmed him up. Suddenly his revolver was jolted out of its holster and discharged as it hit the floor; a bullet shattered one knee of Miss Elsie Brown, 32, a visitor from Indianapolis.

TRADE HOLIDAY ENDS TODAY IN CHICAGO HEIGHTS

The business holiday declared last Friday in Chicago Heights, following the closing of the First National Bank and Trust company in the suburb, will end today.

All business houses which have been closed reopen their doors, as will the Citizens National bank, the only remaining bank in Chicago Heights.

During the moratorium a citizens' committee obtained signatures of most of the bank's depositors to an agreement not to withdraw more than 10 per cent of their deposits in the next 30 days. Mayor Daniel Bergin announced.

Mrs. Louise Dinehart Allowed $150 Alimony

New York, July 5.—(AP)—Award of $150 a week alimony to Mrs. Louise Dinehart, wife of Allan Dinehart, the actor, was made permanent today in a court order which relieved Dinehart of paying additional fees to his wife's attorneys in her separation suit.

3C POSTAGE GOES IN EFFECT; NEW STAMPS ARE HERE

12 Million of the New Issue Received.

The new postage rates of 3 cents an ounce on first class mail and 8 cents an ounce for the first ounce on air mail went into effect at midnight last night. Letters carrying the old postage of 2 cents for first class mail and 5 cents for air mail, which were postmarked after midnight were sent to their destination, where the extra postage will be collected. This custom will be followed until tomorrow noon, postal authorities said, after which letters with insufficient postage will be returned to sender.

Chicago prepared for the new rates yesterday by purchasing 250,000 of the 12,000,000 new 3 cent stamps received at the Chicago postoffice. The new stamps, part of an allotment of four billion being printed, are purple, and made in four different issues. Two bear the picture of George Washington, one a bicentennial series, a third carries the picture of Lincoln, and the fourth, the Olympiad, a runner getting off his mark.

No New Air Mail Stamps.

The 8 cent air mail stamps are not printed yet, postoffice officials said, but they will be ready before fall. The 8 cents postage will carry a letter weighing an ounce or less. For each additional ounce or fraction of an ounce 13 cents more will be needed.

The new rates, it is estimated, will increase the federal revenue $160,000,000 in the next year. Chicago's share of this is figured at approximately $12,300,000, or $3 for each resident.

"It will save much confusion and possible delay," Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder said, "if those using the mails will comply with the new laws from the beginning. Those who receive mail will probably not be pleased to have to pay an extra cent for each letter."

The new rates do not affect postal or post cards. Registry rates, which were 15 cent for values up to $50 and 20 cents to $100, will be graduated from 18 cents up to $50 to 30 cents for values up to $100. Insurance rates have been boosted from 8 cents to 10 cents for $25 value and from 10 to 15 cents for $50.

Heavy Buying by Collectors.

New York, July 5.—[Special.]—The current joke about the man who is laying in a supply of two cent stamps before the postal rate goes up, which it did at midnight tonight, appeared to have a basis of truth. Stamp collectors of Uncle Sam staged a run on one and two cent stamps in all the metropolitan postoffices today.

Lightning Kills 8 in Two Days in Central Europe

VIENNA, July 5.—(AP)—Lightning killed eight persons in Austria and Jugoslavia yesterday and today. Near Gmuend, Austria, Prof. Ferdinand Diensti died when lightning struck a radio antenna while he was listening to a broadcast of the weather report. A shopkeeper was killed in Pristina, Jugoslavia, and in a field near Belgrade five peasants were struck. A mother was killed in a nearby village, but an infant in her lap was unhurt.

JUDGE FISHER ORDERS RETRIAL FOR EDELSTEIN

Voids Sanitary District Graft Conviction.

The sentence of three months in jail and a $2,000 fine imposed upon Martin Edelstein as one of the conspirators in the sanitary district graft case was vacated yesterday and a new trial granted by Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court.

JUDGE FISHER.

Edelstein, a brother-in-law of the late Michael Rosenberg and of Moe Rosenberg, both Democratic leaders, served as real estate agent under the whoopee régime of Timothy J. Crowe.

At previous hearings both the state's attorney's office and the judge had indicated that "something should be done for Edelstein," but neither would accept the responsibility at that time for initiating action. The ruling yesterday of Judge Fisher placed responsibility for the future freedom or incarceration of Edelstein directly in the hands of the state's attorney.

Judge Suggests Double Trial.

"It will not cost the taxpayers anything to grant Edelstein a new trial," Judge Fisher said. "The state still has to try Timothy L. Connolly, former purchasing agent of the district. It will cost no more to try two defendants than it would to try one."

Asked if the state intended to try Edelstein with Connolly, Prosecutor Harold Keele, who fell heir to the case with the resignation of Prosecutor Northup, laughed, saying there is no relation between the testimony against Connolly and that against Edelstein.

The ruling of Judge Fisher was given after he had conferred with Judges James J. Kelly and John J. Prystalski, who sat en banc with him during the graft hearing.

Explains After Trial.

"At the time this case was tried," Judge Fisher said, "the evidence which weighed most heavily in the guilty finding was the fact that Edelstein deposited $94,000 in his bank account in less than two years."

He pointed out that since the trial Edelstein, who received a salary of $5,000 a year, had filed a petition in explanation. The sworn petition said that the money was not Edelstein's but belonged partly to political organizations of which he was secretary, and was partly money which had been intrusted to Edelstein for safe keeping. None of it was sanitary district money, the petition showed. Judge Fisher said. The judge also pointed out that government agents investigating with the thought of income tax prosecution had found that the money did not belong to Edelstein.

State Agrees to Ruling.

The petition filed by Edelstein also said that he wanted to testify in his own behalf but had been advised against doing so by attorneys for the other defendants.

Judge Fisher said that "undoubtedly the advice came from honest motives," but pointed out that the Supreme court has held that when a defendant is prevented by bad advice or by attorneys for other defendants from taking the stand the act constitutes an unfair trial.

After making his ruling Judge Fisher turned to Prosecutor Keele and said that he understood the state's attorney did not oppose the ruling. The prosecutor agreed.

HOLD FETE TODAY FOR MAYOR CERMAK AT FAIR GROUNDS

"Mayor's day" will be observed today at the World's Fair grounds with Mayor A. J. Cermak and other public officials as guests of honor. The celebration will start at 4 o'clock at the Hall of Science, and the grounds will be open to visitors from 3 to 6 without charge.

The mayor will speak following his introduction by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition, and there will be a concert by the Woodlawn American Legion band and an exhibition drill by the same post. The dirigible Puritan will fly over the fair site.

Exposition officials yesterday announced plans to erect two towers, each 600 feet high, between which cars carrying passengers will ride at a 200 foot level above the fair grounds next year. The cars will be of glass and aluminum, double decked, and will emit steam to give the appearance of rockets. The towers will be 2,000 feet apart.

Lets Firecracker Explode in Teeth; Splits Cheeks

Morris, Ill., July 5.—(AP)—Eleven year old Joseph Krzychick let a firecracker explode between his teeth. He was in Morris hospital today, his cheeks split almost from ear to ear.

Police Raid Headquarters of New Race News Syndicate

Squads of police yesterday afternoon raided the headquarters of the Conrad race information service at 426 Briar place, arrested six men, and seized a large quantity of equipment used to transmit results to handbook operators on the north side.

This raid was quickly followed by others on three of the handbooks—4402 Broadway, 3447 Sheffield avenue, and 3745 North Halsted street. In all the places, which masqueraded as cigar stores, women as well as men were found betting on the races. The proprietors were arrested, but the patrons were allowed to go.

Greed of Leader.

According to the police, who were led by Capt. Martin Mullen, the greed of Charles Conrad, leader of the syndicate, was the real cause of his early downfall.

Until recently, it was said, handbook operators in the Sheffield avenue and Town Hall police districts have been getting their service direct from a large syndicate said to be headed by John J. Lynch, who was kidnaped last August and released by his captors after he had paid a ransom variously reported at from $50,000 to $250,000.

Two months ago Conrad, who had been known as the lieutenant of Ted Newberry in the distribution of beer and alcohol on the north side, is alleged to have sent around musclemen to the handbook operators with an ultimatum. It was:

A Poor Bargain.

Under such compulsion the cigar store bookies went to the new syndicate. They found quickly that they had made a poor bargain. Whereas the big syndicate had furnished them with tally sheets and with legal services and bondsmen when places were raided, the new bosses of the territory gave nothing but information and took 50 per cent of the little bookmaker's winnings each day.

Dissatisfied Customers.

It was through the dissatisfaction of the customers that word of the Briar place operations reached Capt. Mullen, whose sole duty is to curb gambling in the city.

The six arrested were Al Handler, 25 years old, principal aid of Conrad; Nathan Hale, 1830 South Kedzie avenue; George Lassing, 428 Briar place; Jack Rosen, 1562 South Kedzie avenue; Henry Gordon, 954 Edgecomb place, and Michael Caffarello, 608 North May street.

It was estimated by the police that between $40,000 and $50,000 a day passed daily through the hands of the bookmakers forced to take Conrad's service and that the "take" of the syndicate may have run as high as $12,000 a week.

Lewis Edward Bernays arrived in Chicago yesterday to assume his duties as consul general for the British empire. Mr. Bernays was formerly consul general in New York and vice consul in Chicago. As vice consul in Chicago he married Miss Alida McDermid, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. McDermid, in 1915. Mr. Bernays succeeds Godfrey Haggard as consul general.

Keep Six Schools Open for Children's Relief

Six schools will remain open this summer to permit relief agencies to dispense food to needy children, according to an announcement yesterday from the office of Miss Frances Swain, director of household arts and lunch rooms for the public school system. Contributions have been received from charitable organizations and the general public. The schools are the Sullivan, Colman, Spry and McCormick elementary, and the Manley and Farragut Junior High schools.

BONUS VETERANS ASSAIL HOOVER AT CAPITOL DOOR

In Ugly Mood After Parade Up Avenue.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C. July 5.—[Special.]—From the steps of the capitol, President Hoover today was denounced as an Englishman at heart and unfit to be President of the United States.

Twelve thousand bonus marchers, perspiring from another hot trek down Pennsylvania avenue, cheered when their legislative representative, Harold B. Foulkrod, standing at the very doors of the senate, shouted: "A man who for twenty-nine years never cast an American vote and lived most of his life under the British Union Jack has no right to be President of the United States."

Assails Andrew Mellon.

The speaker then added:

"Andy Mellon was slick enough to catch a boat for England and leave a deficit of two billion 800 million dollars for you damn suckers to pay. I hope that on the fourth of next March the other distinguished member of the present administration will catch a boat for his home back in England."

It was the closest the bonus army speakers, stung by successive defeats in their quest of the $2,400,000,000 bonus, thirteen years before it is due, has yet come to throwing off the cloak of passive insistence.

Police guards around the capitol had been doubled and then redoubled as the veterans assembled at the base of the Washington monument, at the other end of the city, and, singing wartime songs, swung down Pennsylvania avenue in military formation toward Capitol hill to protest at congress adjourning without their demand for immediate payment of the bonus being met.

Close Senate Doors.

As Foulkrod launched into an impassioned denunciation of the administration and congress, the doors to the senate wing of the capitol clanged shut and police reserves drew their cordon tighter around the milling thousands of tired, hot men.

The demonstration, the fourth during the army's six weeks' siege of congress, had been scheduled for yesterday. Heavy rains forced its postponement. Police cleared Pennsylvania avenue for the veterans and gave them full official protection until they reached the summit of Capitol hill. There they were forced to break ranks, but were permitted to gather on the plaza at the foot of the senate steps.

SUED FOR $50,000 OVER ROMANCE BEGUN IN 1915

A boy and girl romance, begun in 1915, sent Arthur Pedersen, 5825 Glenwood avenue, into the court of Superior Judge Joseph David yesterday as defendant in a $50,000 breach of promise suit filed by Miss Clara H. Rahn, 35 years old, 3908 Dakin street.

Mrs. Johanna Rahn, mother of the complainant, testified that her daughter and Pedersen, manager of a north side gasoline company, met at a business college. They "reached an understanding" then, Mrs. Rahn said, but Pedersen suddenly disappeared. Twelve years later, the mother said, Pedersen met Clara again and soon afterward moved into their home, where he promised to pay for his board and room.

Pedersen had married, Mrs. Rahn said, but he was seeking a divorce from his wife. She said she had expected him to marry her daughter when the divorce was obtained, but that he left.

Miss Rahn charged that Pederson made an overdraft of $800 on a joint bank account which he had with her. She alleged that he owed more than $2,000 for board and for furniture which she ordered at his request. Pedersen answered that both Miss Rahn and her mother had known that he was courting the woman who now is his second wife while he was living in their home.

MAYOR ABANDONS PLAN FOR SUMMER TOUR OF EUROPE

Close associates of Mayor Cermak expressed the opinion yesterday that he has abandoned, at least temporarily, his plan to travel in Europe for a month this summer. For some time he has contemplated the trip as an emissary of the World's Fair.

Although his plans had not been shaped definitely, the mayor had shown an increased interest in the possibilities of a trip recently. With the city operating under an economy budget and his duties as host to two political conventions over, it was said that the mayor believed that he would be able to leave.

Friends had urged the mayor to take the trip not only to spread good will in European countries toward the Century of Progress Exposition but also for a rest. However, they also pointed out that the mayor is giving much of his time to efforts to obtain money to pay the past due salaries of city and school employes.

THOMAS IS LEADING IN PRIMARY FOR OKLAHOMA SENATOR

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 5.—(AP)—Elmer Thomas, senior senator from Oklahoma, maintained a sizeable lead for the Democratic renomination tonight over Gomer Smith, Oklahoma City attorney, and R. M. McCool, state Democratic chairman.

Returns from 255 out of 3,309 precincts gave Thomas 8,195; Smith, 6,167; McCool, 4,886; and Albert C. Hunt, former state Supreme court justice, opposed to the administrative policies of Gov. William H. Murray, 1,637.

E. B. Howard of Tulsa, former congressman, was second in the race for the Democratic nomination for congressman at large on the basis of returns from 255 out of the state's precincts.

Howard had 3,458 votes; Mrs. Mabel Bassett, state commissioner of charities, 3,399; Claude Weaver, 2,903; and Campbell Russell, former corporation commissioner, 2,472.

For the Republican nomination for congressman-at-large, R. A. Howard of Ardmore was leading in returns from 26 precincts. The vote was Howard, 233; George R. Taylor, Cushing, 163; A. Gray Gilmer, Oklahoma City, 123; R. B. Butts, Muskogee, 99; Mattie Cullimore, Tulsa, 82, and Albert S. Gilles, Edmond, 54.

Wirt Franklin, independent oil leader, remained in the van of the Republican senatorial race with 860 votes from 95 precincts. Ex-Congressman U. S. Stone had 448; "Big Jim" Harris, for years a powerful figure in his party, 389.

J. C. [Jack] Walton, ousted governor, attempting another political comeback, fell behind A. S. J. Shaw, former state auditor, in the Democratic race for corporation commissioner. Walton, defeated for United States senator and for mayor of Oklahoma City since he was removed in 1923 by impeachment, had 5,140 votes from 221 precincts; Shaw, 5,509, and C. C. Childers, incumbent, 4,392.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS TODAY TO STUDY FINANCES

5 Economy Measures to Be Offered.

Plans for reducing public school expenditures will be discussed this afternoon when the board of education will sit as a committee of the whole to study its financial condition. Lewis E. Myers, board president, has two economy resolutions to offer. Trustee Ernst Buehler has three.

Mr. Myers would not reveal the details of his resolutions yesterday, although he indicated that they would follow the lines of a proposal he introduced a month ago. He had suggested a slash of $6,000,000 in appropriations for school buildings and closing the Chicago Normal college to save $200,000 a year.

The resolutions proposed by Mr. Buehler would cut $5,000,000 from the 1932 educational fund levy of $51,143,006. He will also ask the board to decide whether an additional $10,000,000 slash is to be made in the 1931 levy of $21,172,036 for school building purposes or in the 1932 building levy of $15,514,707.

The 1932 school budget appropriations total $90,180,263, and the tax levy for this year is $75,393,918.

A report on the business administration of the school system will be submitted to the board today by Col. Howard P. Savage, business manager. It will contain recommendations on items in the Strayer plans. He will leave to the discretion of the board the matter of salaries and the Strayer proposal of a $400,000 trim in the architect's department.

Hearing on Sammons' Writ Set for Tomorrow Night

A hearing on the habeas corpus proceedings under which James [Fur] Sammons, notorious Chicago gangster, is seeking his freedom from Joliet penitentiary where he is serving a life term for murder was set for tomorrow evening yesterday by Circuit Judge E. D. Shurtleff at Woodstock. J. J. Neiger, assistant attorney general, has served a reply to Sammons' petition, citing the long criminal record of the gangster, on W. W. Smith, defense attorney.

J. C. Wahl Told to Meet $6,640 Alimony Bill

John C. Wahl, 2816 Cambridge avenue, who had testified at previous hearings that he lost his last steady job, as vice president of the Wahl Pen company, in 1925, appeared yesterday before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court and said that he had been unable to raise any money to meet the $6,640 bill which he owes Mrs. June E. Wahl, 517 Oakdale avenue, for alimony arrears. He was given until tomorrow to raise some money.

HOUSE FOR 4TH TIME BARS WAR ON GRASSHOPPER

Votes Down $600,000 Fund Passed by Senate.

Washington, D. C., July 5.—[Special.]—The grasshopper feud between the senate and house today again delayed the adoption of the long overdue $117,408,000 department of agriculture appropriation bill.

By a vote of 52 to 115 the house again rejected the senate amendment adding $600,000 to the bill to wage a campaign for the elimination of grasshoppers in the western grain and farm states.

It was the fourth time in two months that the senate had sent the bill back to the house with the pest elimination fund intact. As many times the house now has turned the bill on its heels back to the senate with a demand that the anti-grasshopper fund be eliminated.

Ignores Shouts of Protests.

Ignoring shouted protests by members from the western farm states, Representatives Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], chairman of the appropriations committee, and Fred C. Britten [Rep., Ill.] led the fight to hold the house firm against the appropriation.

"Washington is filled with unsightly cans that are supposed to catch Japanese beetles; the only thing they ever catch is mosquitoes," Byrns roared back at the farm members.

"You might as well throw $600,000 in the waste paper basket," declared Mr. Britten. "The time to have battled grasshoppers was four months ago. They're full grown now."

Hoover's Idea Voted Down.

President Hoover recommended an appropriation of $1,400,000 to combat grasshopper menace early in the session. His recommendation was incorporated in a separate bill and promptly defeated. Senate farm leaders thereupon reduced the amount to $800,000 and added it to the agriculture department supply bill.

With the department already five days late in receiving its 1933 appropriation and the house demonstrating no disposition to recede, it appeared probable that the senate conferees would surrender and strike out the fund. In that event, however, it appeared certain a fight would be made on the senate floor to reinstate the appropriation.

SHUT OFF LIGHTS IN NINE LARGE CITIES OF CUBA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, July 5.—Nine of the largest cities of Cuba, with the exception of Havana, are in darkness tonight because their provincial or municipal governments have failed to pay over $2,000,000 due the Cuban Electric company. At a last minute conference today the company announced that power and light will be cut off indefinitely unless the national government pays at least 60 per cent of the indebtedness.

"We are tired of the government's promises to pay," Henry Catlin, the company's president, said.

Workers have disconnected street lamps and power service in all cities in which the company has a virtual monopoly. The cities are Guantanamo, Santiago, Ciego de Avila, Santa Clara, Cardenas, Bolondron, Guines, Remedios, and Matanzas.

ROBBER SLAYS OAK PARK MAN IN MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., July 5.—[Special.]—A man identified as Gordon D. Wilson, 836 South Maple avenue, Oak Park, was shot and killed here today by a robber who attempted to hold him up.

Wilson, who was 60 years old and in the electrical insulation business in Chicago, was driving his automobile with Elmer C. Halvorsen of St. Paul when the gunman leaped on the running board. He was shot when he did not raise his hands fast enough, Halvorsen said. The robber fled in Wilson's car.

It was learned that Wilson had driven to St. Paul with his wife to visit his daughter, Mrs. D. W. Thompson, who lives there. Police are trying to locate his son, D. Gordon Wilson, also of Oak Park, to notify him of the death.

POLICEMAN WILL BE ARRAIGNED IN SHOOTING CASE

James Kerrigan, 55 years old, suspended policeman attached to the Shefield avenue station, will be arraigned in the Felony court today on a charge of assault with intent to kill his wife and his son.

The charge is the outgrowth of a shooting in the Kerrigan home at 4145 Berkeley avenue on Sunday night. Kerrigan's son, James Jr., and his wife, Elizabeth were hit by the same bullet. Neither was seriously hurt. After the shooting the policeman barricaded himself in his room. He was routed by police using a new type gas bomb.

Stories conflicted as to the shooting. Policeman Kerrigan denied he was responsible. His son, after first accusing him of the assault, changed his story. The police account of the case is that the policeman returned home intoxicated and drew his gun and his son tried to disarm him. The weapon was discharged, the bullet passing through the son's arm and hitting Mrs. Kerrigan in the face.

CAPITAL SNIPER KILLS OFFICER, WOUNDS TWO

Washington, D. C., July 6 [Wednesday].—(AP)—A sniper whose death dealing rifle held most of Washington's police force at bay around a house near the capitol for several hours early today finally walked out and surrendered after killing one policeman and wounding at least two others.

After gunfire and tear gas bombs had failed to dislodge the man, who gave his name as Nicholson Long, and his sniping rifle fire prevented all approach to the house, the man walked calmly out on to the front steps, his hands above his head.

Police approached with guns drawn and took him into custody.

At headquarters when he was asked why he set out upon the escapade which attracted hundreds of spectators and brought every available police detail, finally augmented by expert riflemen from the marine barracks, he said he did it "just for fun" and because he "wanted to start some fireworks."

Sweet Odors Kill
And Kill Quickly, Every
Fly or Mosquito

Science has discovered that a flower grown in Japan repels and kills winged insects. Now the extract of these flowers is employed to completely free your home—and keep it free—from these germ-bearing pests.

That flower extract is the basis of Fly-Tox, developed in Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. Ten years and over $100,00 have been spent by us in perfecting it.

The result is a perfumed mist, called Fly-Tox. Used as we direct, it creates in a room a pleasant cloud of vapor. An all-pervading mist, harmless to people, stainless to walls or furnishings. But that mist kills every insect that it touches. And they can't escape.

Think what that means to your home. Complete and constant protection from these germ-bearing pests. These insects, by their feet or stings, carry the germs of over 30 diseases. They carry these germs to your food or to blood streams. Many thousands of people—especially children—die from these infections every year. Fly-Tox offers you an easy, certain, economical way to complete protection.

FLY-TOX ONLY
A Rex Research Product

Use Fly-Tox only, and always in the new-type Fly-Tox sprayer. Use it because of its marvelous efficiency. Every lot is tested on flies in our laboratory. Use it because its extra strength means great economy to you. You cannot take chances in protection of your home. Get Fly-Tox at once. Sold everywhere. Harmless to people. Stainless. Made by the Makers of Moth-Tox.

LABOR'S RULE IN QUEENSLAND PILES UP DEBTS

Would Borrow More When Credit Is Ruined.

Here is the fourth of a series of articles by Mr. Kinsley, who was sent by The Tribune to get an American observer's viewpoint of conditions in Australia. Another article will appear tomorrow.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRISBANE, Australia, June 18.—[By Mail.]—Much of Queensland's trouble is laid to the war, particularly by the party in power. The war is still close to them and the city's memorial is more beautiful even than the one in Paris.

A half block of land has been hollowed out of the heart of the city, at the foot of a hill, and on the hill, after a parklike approach and climbing a stately stairway, one comes to a Greek temple, austere and simple. At the heart of it an "eternal flame" is kept burning in memory of those who served. Above are the names of the strange places where Queensland boys served—famous French battlefields, "the Hindenburg line," Jerusalem, Romani, Damascus, Cocos Island.

Their Democracy Crashes.

What were they doing there, the volunteer Anzac soldiers, beloved by all the allies? They do not know today and many of the returned ones are among those looking for bread and shelter. The democracy for which they fought has crashed. The Tories, the Imperialists, the individualists, seek now to return to power and stay there long enough to set the state in a sure path toward economic independence. They have their way. It is not the socialist way. That is ever, their leader, Premier A. F. Moore, says, an illusory way.

"The endeavor to reach a standard of living by political means," he says, "and not by individual effort, must ever be illusory. In the past it has largely been maintained by overseas borrowing."

His plan is to curtail expenditure and encourage private capital. The other way is the road of socialism everywhere, although it is found in Australia that when Labor socialists get into power they prove realists and trim their sails somewhat, become comparatively conservative. Then the push from democracy turns them out for a new promise.

Borrowing Wrecks Credit.

W. Forgan Smith, the Labor party leader, says that the causes of unemployment "are inherent in the social system, and only by far reaching changes in methods of production and distribution can an effective remedy be applied. The balancing of budgets is remote until unemployed men are absorbed in industry."

His method of absorbing the unemployed is to borrow more money on credit that is already gone. He invited Queensland citizens to raise a Queensland revival loan of ten million dollars and take their chances with state bonds. This is much the policy of the Lang plan in New South Wales, where the only remedy for the situation is to take more money away from the banks. It all leads, according to the opposition argument, to a situation something like Russia, with the state in eventual control of all industry.

Labor has had its chance in Queensland in the past. It was in power for fourteen years, from 1909 to 1924, and during that time went into industry

Its Many Purchases Costly.

It bought cattle lands and cattle and when the time came to liquidate the cattle were not there. It bought lumber mills, factories, hotels, went into the meat business, as well as fixing prices on products sold in private stores. It fixed the price of sugar, tobacco, cotton, and wheat, and controlled wages in all industry, making an arbitrary scale which the employer must meet or go out of business.

It increased the state debt from 56,869,000 pounds to 112,162,000 pounds, losing well over one million pounds a year. With the coming to power of the Nationalist government the state disposed of all this business that it could. The only profit was found in one hotel, and that was because it had a monopoly in one town.

Workers and Opponents.

There are two political parties, Labor and the opposition, whatever form it may take as a united Australia Nationalist, or a coalition. They represent the opposing schools of thought in all the states and it is all the coalition near conservatives can do to hold back the radicals of the labor movement. It seems almost inevitable that sooner or later one or more of the Australian states will try complete socialization, as semi-socialization has proved such a failure.

The most conservative government in Australia, however, is radical from the standpoint of the United States.

The truth is that no government dare go against the workers.

Railroads Most Costly.

The railroads here as in other states have proved the greatest drain on the public treasury. Queensland has 6,447 miles of railroad owned by the state against 278 miles of private lines. The cost has been 58,727,528 pounds, or 62 pounds per head of population. From one to two million pounds a year of loan money has been spent in this way, as Queensland had no revenue funds for this purpose.

The state roads have about 20,000 employés, who get about five million pounds a year. The interest bill is about three million pounds a year. Without depreciation the accounts show an annual deficit of about a million and a half pounds a year.

"The great trouble is that the railroads have been used for political purposes," says N. McGroarty, the attorney general of the state. The Nationalist government found that during election months the Labor party added thousands of employés to the pay rolls.

In addition to taking the greatest share of revenue the roads give indifferent service, to passengers at least. The coaches, even on the crack Brisbane-Sydney train, are old and dirty, and the train rattles and wheezes so that it is hard to keep up conversation. The tracks are narrow gauge, the time slow, and there are no dining cars.

Work on Postoffice Progresses

TAKES 'SIGHTSEEING' AIR TRIP; FINDS HE'S ON A LONG JOURNEY

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 5.—(AP)—Dr. Andrew W. Speer of Wilkinsburg paid $1 for a sight seeing airplane ride over Pittsburgh, but it seems there was some mistake.

Ushered to one of several planes, he settled back to enjoy the view. After a bit he noticed that Pittsburgh was a mere speck in the distance.

"My, but this is a long ride," he said.

"Oh, well," replied a fellow passenger, "we'll be there in a short time."

"Where?" asked the doctor.

"Why, in Columbus, O., of course," said the other, looking at him queerly. "That's where the plane's headed for."

ENGLISH DEMAND IRISH QUARREL BE KEPT IN EMPIRE

Note to De Valera Rejects International Parley.

LONDON, July 5.—(AP)—Proceeding with its threat of a 100 per cent retaliatory tariff on Irish Free State goods, the British government tonight insisted that the dispute over defaulted Irish land annuities be arbitrated by an empire tribunal if at all.

Its stand was reaffirmed in a reply it is sending to a note from the Free State government of President Eamon de Valera, which insisted that the annuities question be arbitrated by an international body.

Labor Leader Opposes Bill.

Meanwhile George Lansbury, Labor party leader, said he would move rejection of the special duties bill, imposing the 100 per cent tariff on Free State goods as a means of collecting the annuities when it comes up for second reading in the house of commons tomorrow.

The act was introduced and given first reading in commons today after a resolution authorizing the special duties had been passed by an overwhelming majority last night.

J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, who introduced the empowering resolution, said he was told the Free State was setting aside a special fund for the annuities payments in anticipation of arbitration.

Totals $11,000,000 Yearly.

The land annuities, amounting to approximately $11,000,000 a year, were set up by the Anglo-Irish treaty of 1921 and were intended to reimburse landholders, mostly British, for land purchased for parceling to tenant farmers.

The Labor move for rejection of the special duties act has no chance against the government's overwhelming majority.

In the cabinet discussion of sending the note to the De Valera government Mr. Thomas upheld the empire tribunal idea against the Free State's demand for an international tribunal. The dominions secretary said Great Britain could never permit foreigners to arbitrate a domestic dispute.

CHILD SHOOTING ACCIDENT.

Benton Harbor, Mich., July 5.—[Special.]—Authorities today decided that the fatal shooting of 7 year old Dorothy Doryzanowski on Fourth of July night at Bangor was accidental. The child's mother is Mrs. Celia Doryzanowski of Chicago.

Doumer's Widow to Receive $7,800 Pension Annually

PARIS, July 5.—(AP)—Under a bill approved by the senate today the widow of President Paul Doumer, who was assassinated in May, will receive an annual pension of 200,000 francs [about $7,800]. The grant was approved under the French custom of rewarding presidents who have served their country well. The bill also carried the same pension for former President Raymond Poincare.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

MOSCOW, July 5.—Tentative and unofficial moves are being made to reopen the question of formal diplomatic relations between the United States and soviet Russia.

Acting alone and in a private capacity, Col. Frederick Pope, New York engineer and investment banker, has suggested to soviet officials that the American government send an unofficial commissioner to the soviet union as a preliminary to possible negotiations for normal relations between the two countries.

The Associated Press has reason to believe his proposal was received with favor.

Col. Pope Soviet Adviser.

Col. Pope, who has been in Russia a great part of the last four years advising the soviet chemical trust in the construction of potash plants, laid the matter last night before men high in the soviet government. He discussed "satisfactory" conversations he held on the subject in certain quarters in Washington just before sailing for Russia late in May. Col. Pope is expected to return to the United States this month and undoubtedly will renew his discussions in Washington.

In view of the reception accorded his proposal in Moscow, the next move probably will depend on the outcome of his Washington negotiations.

Col. Pope emphasized that he was acting on his own initiative and was actuated by personal interest in seeing improvement in the relations between the two countries.

Washington Is Silent.

Washington, D. C., July 5.—[Special.]—Col. Frederick Pope informally laid his ideas for the United States to send an unofficial commissioner to Russia with the view of negotiations for recognition before state department officials prior to sailing for Russia last May. Department officials listened to his views, but they said today they had no comment to make.

Col. Pope, who has long been an advocate of recognition, is understood to have discussed his plan with Senator Borah, but no comment was available tonight from him. All indications are that the United States is not considering sending an unofficial commissioner to Russia.

DIRIGIBLE AKRON TO SEARCH OCEAN FOR RACING YACHT

Lakehurst, N. J., July 5.—(AP)—The naval airship Akron, equipped to fly the Atlantic to Bermuda if necessary, went aloft tonight to assist in the search of the missing Ketch Curlew.

Capt. Harry E. Shoemaker, commandant at the naval air station, said the Akron would sweep the seas with her searchlight by night—given favorable weather—but would do her most effective work in the daytime. Commander Alger H. Dresel is in command.

The airship will stay out three days if necessary and will cover most of the water between here and Bermuda in quest of the lost boat. The course will be directed by the fleet of coast guard vessels already engaged in the hunt.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

CONGRESS AND THE BEER BILL.

National prohibition made a political success by entering both of the two great parties. As an independent political enterprise it had completely failed. Other one idea parties had failed. The Prohibition party nominated candidates, but it could not poll votes. The successful tactics of the prohibitionists led them into the parties. They got control and held it long enough to obtain the eighteenth amendment, the Volstead and other enforcement acts, and to get what they wanted from congress for thirteen years.

Now they have been thrown out of both parties. Even the Republican convention abandoned the eighteenth amendment. When the prohibitionists are ejected from the organization by which they maintained their position their day is done. They could not make an independent movement go after a half century of endeavor, and they cannot make it go now when the burden of proof is against them. Their tenure depended upon dominance in at least one of the parties, or, as the case stood, in both.

Neither party in putting the prohibitionists outside and closing the door on them did anything politically audacious. The party managers simply showed more common sense than the members of congress had shown and used their eyesight better. When a wet Democrat can beat a dry United States senator two to one in dry North Carolina, which four years ago went Republican because the Democratic candidate was wet, it does not require political audacity to shift from support of the Anti-Saloon league to opposition to it. Audacity would be needed to remain in allegiance with the prohibitionists. Politicians went dry because they were afraid. Now they are afraid, with elections turning in anti-prohibition returns, to keep their chins out.

It remains to be seen how stupid the present congress can be. It has been repudiated by the parties and by the elections. It sends its dry members into campaigns in supposedly dry states and they do not go back to Washington. The present congress is confronted with the beer bill again. The Democrats are pledged to its immediate passage. Democratic members of the house of representatives have a majority. The speaker is their candidate for Vice President. All the Democratic house members who hope to return to congress again must enter the November election. If they do not make good their party pledge now that they have the opportunity they will become candidates for reelection upon repudiation of the party platform.

If the party had desired to wait a year for modification of the Volstead act it would not have used the word "immediate." That word threw the question into the hands of the Democratic members now sitting in congress. It is hot.

The country seems to be tired of the ridiculous doctrine that a nation of enfranchised adults is not to be trusted with a malt beverage made in commercial breweries but shall be taxed $90,000,000 on alcoholic drinks made in the basement. The budget requires the beer tax. The nation is sick of humbug, fraud, and idiotic paternalism. It also will be pretty sick of the present congress if to the incompetence of radical tax boosting is added the intolerance of a discarded bigotry.

THE ARMY AT SOLDIERS' FIELD.

The excitements of two national party conventions have preoccupied Chicagoans and visitors to Chicago recently so that less attention has been given to the army show at Soldiers' field than it deserved and would certainly have had under less unfavorable circumstances. This should be realized by the war department, for the exhibition has been magnificent and, considering the unusual circumstances, well attended. In any other circumstances it would have made a sensation, and it should be made an annual event. The people of Chicago and the midwest ought to have this opportunity to visualize the army and see what discipline and military skill can produce in the forging of the nation's defense. The precision and swing of the infantry, the dash of cavalry and artillery, the thrilling feats of military aviation make a powerful impression upon the mind and one which our citizenship is the better for receiving.

The soldier is not only the instrumentality of the nation's defense against foes within and without. He is a symbol of that devotion which all citizens owe to their country. The soldier is the citizen prepared and devoted to the service of the republic when assailed by enemies. He is the symbol of willing sacrifice for the common good, and this is the soul of free government, the universal duty of the freeman organized under free institutions. Our army springs from the people and is its strong shield in time of trouble and danger. We always need reminders of its high function, and especially in these days when the air is full of impatient complaint and our loyalty is attacked from all sides. The loyal citizen may see in the disciplined power of these marching men not only the material might of the republic but the moral foundation upon which all that is precious to him and his rests firmly.

Gen. Parker and his able assistants are to be congratulated upon their achievement, which has been an inspiration to the thousands of citizens in attendance and should be repeated each year.

BANK GUARANTEES.

The cry is going up again for a compulsory guarantee of bank deposits. Several schemes have been proposed, but they all come down to about the same thing. All banks are to be assessed a small percentage of their deposits and the fund thus created is to be used to pay off the depositors in any banks which happen to fail. Of course, if the insurance fund proves inadequate the solvent banks must be assessed.

What the proposers of these schemes never seem to realize is that their plans encourage unsound banking and penalize sound banking. The principal restraint on bankers is the knowledge that the funds they are dealing in belong to others and must be available to the depositors when demanded. Remove that restraint by giving bankers a guarantee that their depositors will be taken care of under all circumstances and you encourage your bankers to engage in imprudent speculations of the sort which result in bank failures.

The experience in Nebraska with the bank guarantee law is typical. While encouraging wildcat banking the guarantee acts also to reduce the reserves of sound banks which are obliged to stand behind the unsound ones, with the result that even the best banks are weakened to the breaking point while the weak ones cannot be saved. In the end the deposit guarantee, so-called, is found to be a guarantee of nothing. It is a scrap of paper.

Bank guarantee laws are like acts to repeal the law of gravity in airplane accidents. The laws are well intended, but they won't work. The more faith that is put in such enactments the greater the certainty of carelessness and the taking of the needless risks which aggravate the evil which the laws are intended to prevent.

KENTUCKY RETURNS TO ITS HOME WORK.

Kentucky, having its mind temporarily relieved of intercollegiate visitations and international complications, turned to purely domestic affairs last week-end and it was merely incidental that the Fourth of July came along. The shooting was not about that. Unfinished business was the order of the day and nine feudists were killed.

Thus is revealed the extent to which outside interference had taken Kentucky's mind off its own business. The state got way behind in its drinking and its shooting because of the disturbance made by intellectuals, college students, social workers in the vineyard and various persons who endeavored to carry the message of a better life through the blue grass into the hill region.

Kentuckians were diverted from their pursuit of happiness and their next door neighbors. Theodore Dreiser, who was toothpicked; Arthur Garfield Hays, Waldo Frank and other friends of humanity so harassed the natives by their incursions, inbreaks, intrusions and trespasses that all home work had to be neglected. The Kentuckians were busy throwing the invaders through Cumberland gap and did not have time to hide out in the brush for each other.

When the ejection of the disturbers was accomplished and the amenities restored the natives were released to catch up with their chores. It is said that there was nothing economic in the week-end celebrations. They were purely social. The boys were not defending their institutions or the altars of their sires. They were not fighting over the constitution, the mines or the wage scale. They were merely catching up on their home work.

CALLOUSED AND DEFIANT.

The president of the American Farm Bureau federation, Mr. Edward A. O'Neal, complains that congress and the conventions have displayed a calloused and defiant attitude toward agriculture.

The statement is without justification in fact. Mr. O'Neal means, if he means anything, that congress and the conventions did not approve all the schemes for improving the lot of the farmers which Mr. O'Neal put forward.

In this connection it might be well to recall that the farm board as presently constituted never would have come into existence save for the insistence of Mr. O'Neal's organization. To be sure, the stabilization notion embodied in the farm board act is not precisely that which the federation wanted, but the differences are not important. The idea of putting the government into the grain and cotton business was in both schemes. The disastrous results of that experiment are now apparent. It is hardly remarkable, then, that congress and the two parties find themselves hesitant to embrace other schemes put forward in the name of the farmers by the federation. Another half billion dollar fiasco like the farm board and the farmers will join other taxpayers in a common ruin.

Editorial of the Day

GIVING IT AWAY IS SAME AS SELLING.

[Des Moines Register.]

New hope comes to the bonus army encamped at Washington in the announcement that two carloads of food ha.e been shipped to the veterans by the Farmers Holiday Association of Iowa. This, it will be remembered, is the group which sponsors the proposal of a farm moratorium during which farmers would neither buy, sell, nor pay debts until higher prices for produce can be obtained.

It is illustrative of the probable hopelessness of the moratorium proposal that this sending of food to the bonus army, innocent though it appears, is in direct contravention of the farmers' program. The giving of this food by the Farmers Holiday association obviates the necessity of somebody's buying that food, and to that extent reduces the demand for farm produce.

To be comprehensive, the holiday program would need to include something comparable to the old-time temperance pledge:

"I promise never to drink, buy, sell, nor give alcoholic liquors while I live."

For even the use by the members themselves of agricultural products is in a sense a negation of the association's project, since it narrows to that extent the cash market for such products.

The federal farm board has already tried holding produce off the market in the hope of enhancing the price, and the apparent result has been to demoralize buyers with the threat of holdings which must be dumped unnaturally at some time in the future.

So long as the fundamental trouble is not unwillingness to buy but inability to buy, nothing can be accomplished by artificial withholding programs.

A MAN CONVINCED AGAINST HIS WILL . . .

"Henry Horner, Democratic nominee for governor, starts out today on his 'friendship campaign,' which is aimed to prove to downstate that, although he hails from Chicago, he does not wear horns."—The Trib. But will the dwellers down in middle Illinois and Egypt be convinced? When we were with the Russian army in the Russo-Jap war some of the soldiers who did chores around our tent insisted that the Japanese had horns. We argued with them until the interpreter almost had apoplexy trying to convince them that the Japs didn't have horns, but all in vain. They knew the Japs had horns and nothing could change their opinion. The Japs were devils and devils always had horns. One day we heard that a couple of Japanese soldiers captured by the Russians were being held at headquarters. We immediately gathered up the Russian soldiers we had been arguing with and rushed them over to convince them that the Japs didn't have horns by letting them see for themselves. We led our trembling soldiers right up to the prisoners and made the Japs take off their caps. The Russians looked, but still appeared unconvinced. Then we told them to rub their hands over the Japs' heads and make sure. The Ruskies rubbed their hands with great vigor over the pates of the Japs. "Now," said we, proud as a human being usually is when he has proved his point, "you saw their heads, you rubbed your hands over their heads, now you know the Japanese haven't got horns." The men shook their heads and protested earnestly. "They say," said the interpreter, "that the Japs have horns, but they have pulled them in."

And maybe that's what they'll think down in Egypt even after they see Judge Horner and the other Chicagoans with him.

This is the age of the sidestepping politician,
But the political school must teach a new step.

A criminal may be safely confined,
But the law cannot reach the fanatic.

Public opinion is the hope of Democracy,
But its expression in votes is the salvation thereof.

Bureaucracy is the cancer of Democracy;
The scalpel is the only remedy.

He who takes money from the government
For needless service or in excess of value of work

A wolf in sheep's clothing is indeed despicable,
But a political hypocrite can outwit the wolf.

The opinion of a majority may rule an empire,
But it has no bearing in a Despotism or a Democracy.

THREE CENTS for a two cent stamp today! Oh, gosh! Good-by, ma, and good-by, pa, and good-by, Uncle Bill and Aunt Samantha down on the farm. If you expect us to pay three cents to tell you that Chicago is a lovely place in summer and that it rained Sunday, so didn't go to the picnic in Lincoln park, and that we've got well from the tummyache we had last week and here's lots of love and kisses, you're all wet. We're not paying three cents these days to send love and kisses. And don't waste your money sending us letters saying the elevator burned down last week and Si Green has painted the front of his grocery store. And don't tell us Uncle Bill fell off the stepladder and sprained his ankle. That wouldn't be worth three cents. But if the lazy old coot falls off the ladder and breaks his fool neck go ahead and send us a letter even if you do have to pay three cents for the stamp. It'll be worth three cents.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual disease.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES ARE MILD.

THE element of fear is not of much help to health departments and physicians in the prevention of most of those diseases that alarmed society in the olden days. If a case of yellow fever were to appear in Mobile this summer a fair part of the population would say, "Well, what of it?" and go on about their work. If the health department of New York were to announce a case of cholera there, the report would not make the first page of the newspapers. If almost any citizen of Boston were told there was a case of plague in town, he would ask, "What's that?" Smallpox is now so mild that the average citizen will take no special pains to avoid it. One of the difficulties in getting people to take the trouble to prevent certain other diseases is that they do not fear their consequences.

Dr. H. B. Wood, as the result of a study of Pennsylvania conditions, tells us of the danger of death as a result of attacks of several of the more common contagions. What he finds to be true of that state is about true elsewhere.

If a person has measles, the chances are five hundred to one that death will not result. The average man will think that a pretty safe gamble, and there is no use trying to change him. The health department advises him to keep the babies on home base, for measles in a child under 2 is likely to be a tragedy. It may go further, saying: "If you want to have measles, all right, but be sure to avoid the pneumonia season when you indulge."

Mumps is even safer for a voyage of discovery. There is only one death for every six thousand cases of that disease. Having chicken pox outranks lion hunting in Africa. There are nearly four thousand cases for each death from that disease. If a man wants to play with chicken pox the best advice we can give him is to be certain that he does not make a mistake and take on smallpox.

Whooping cough is very unpleasant but not especially dangerous. If a person has that disease there is about one chance in one hundred and fifty that he will die—and that is better odds than you get on selling platers in Derbies. Nothing in these statements about the relative safety of whooping cough applies to children under 2 years of age.

Nor is there any great danger in scarlet fever. Dr. Wood rates the chances of recovery from scarlet fever as one hundred to one. In the far south, where scarlet fever is milder, the chances of getting well are better still.

The danger of fatality in some other well known diseases is small, but not so small as the figures given above. In typhoid fever about ten cases recover for every one that dies. In some estimates the chances are given as fifteen to one. In diphtheria about only one-fifteenth of the cases die. Sometimes the rate given is twenty to one.

In cerebro spinal meningitis and in infantile paralysis the fatality rate is about one in seven. Probably if we could locate all the atypical cases of infantile paralysis we would find that less than 1 per cent die from it. The fear of that disease relates to the crippling which follows in the cases that recover.

CHIGGERS PROBABLY GUILTY.

H. E. C. writes: When I walk through tall weeds I get a strange eruption. About twelve hours after the walk red, itchy spots appear, mostly in my legs. After about 24 hours the itchy, red spot changes to a pin prick sore. This exudes a little yellow water. After three or four days of this itching eruption I scratch off the top and apply strong, warm soapsuds. In a few days they are well. I have had this for years. Is it hives? Could it be caused by resins from pines and cedars? Is it due to pollens? Others who go into these weeds get the same eruption. I am told there is a law against planting cedars. If so there must be a reason.

REPLY.

I do not think your trouble is hives, nor is it due to resins or pollen, though either might cause an eruption. Your description fits an eruption caused by red bugs or chiggers. This mite, and the eruption it causes, has used up lots of ink and white paper in this space.

Woodsmen protect themselves by sprinkling powdered sulphur in their shoes, socks, and underwear. When they come into the house after exposure they take a warm bath, using plenty of laundry soap on their legs. To kill the parasite as it bores into the skin apply a drop or two of chloroform to the bite. Cover with the hand, to slow up evaporation. There are a multitude of red bug remedies.

I know of no law against planting cedars.

MILK OF THE WILD JUNIPER.

A. M. M. writes: I have been troubled with dropsy for some time. A friend of mine suggested I take a small dose of liquor made from juniper berries every day. Is liquor harmful in this case? Is there any cure for it?

REPLY.

Dropsy is a symptom. It may be caused by heart disease, Bright's disease, cirrhosis of the liver, with one or two other possibilities. There are powerful drugs that remove the excess water from the tissues, but what a person with dropsy needs is treatment for the disease rather than the symptom. Since drinking gin causes some dropsy there is little chance that it will cure it.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 6, 1916.

LONDON.—French troops to the south of the Somme continued their drive forward. They now are at the outskirts of the city of Peronne, the great railroad center, the capture of which may force the retirement of the entire German line. Sermont farm, which has been captured by the French, adjoins the suburban homes to the west of Peronne. The importance with which the Germans view the city is shown by the desperate counter attacks they are making on all positions gained by the French. According to aerial observations in the direction of Peronne, there now are only three more trench systems between the French and the open country, and if a break can be made in the German lines here it would be extremely serious for the Germans. In their attacks today the French carried by storm the entire German second line from the Clery-Maricourt road to the Somme, a distance of one and one-quarter miles. Farther east they took the village of Hem. The last of the Germans have been ejected from the town of Estress and the French have captured the second line of the enemy's positions from Estress to Belloy, a distance of six miles. It is estimated that the German losses in the battle of the Somme thus far are approximately 60,000.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The immediate danger of the Mexican crisis was eliminated by the delivery of Carranza's friendly and conciliatory note, which promises coöperation against border raids and paves the way for settlement of the entire controversy by diplomatic means. Carranza in effect withdraws all threats against the American expeditionary force in Mexico, with the tacit understanding that the withdrawal of the American troops northward will be part of the joint plan of the two governments for reaching an understanding.

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt.—The will of Mrs. Hetty Green, long considered as the wealthiest woman in America, leaves the bulk of her estate to her son, Col. E. H. R. Green, and her daughter, Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks. The remainder is distributed in smaller bequests to old friends of Mrs. Green. The value of the estate has been generally estimated at $100,000,000.

ROME.—New successes have been won by the Italians in their offensive in the Trentino, the war office announced. They have occupied the summit of Monte Corno, northwest of the Pasubio, and captured the crest of Monte Sellugio. The Austrian resistance is increasing in several sectors.

PETROGRAD.—The Russians have cut the Delatyn-Korosmezo railway, the principal line of communications for the Austro-German forces defending Lemberg, and have routed the enemy on the right bank of the Dneister, according to a war office statement.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—The Russians have lost Kermanshah after a fierce battle which lasted for two days, an official Turkish statement says. It adds: "After the Russians had been beaten in a battle west of Kermanshah our troops entered the town. The Russians had determined to defend the village of Mahidesst, but owing to the swift and encircling movement of our forces they could not hold the place and began a retreat to prepared positions west of Kermanshah."

TODAY'S QUESTION.

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION.

ANSWER.

Electricity on a commercial scale is produced by electric generators, often referred to as dynamos. The fundamental principle has to do with the fact that if a loop or coil of wire is moved across the poles of a magnet a current of electricity will be set in circulation through the loop or coil. The amount of this current will depend on the number of turns of wire in the coil, the strength of the magnets, and the speed with which the wire travels across them. The greater the current generated the greater the power required to drive the coils past the magnets, so that powerful steam engines or turbines, or water turbines [where water power is available] are needed to drive large electrical generators.

Since magnets always consist of two opposite poles, north and south, the coil of wire will pass alternately across first one kind and then the other. As it does this the direction of flow of the current generated reverses directions, so that an alternating current is produced. Special devices may be used to rectify this, but since alternating current is more easily transmitted, the current usually supplied from power houses is of this kind.

CHICKEN FANCIER.

Chicago, July 1.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like to have you investigate the insanitary condition of a neighbor who keeps chickens in all the rooms of his house. Last year he added a second story and is now adding on the back to make room for his added "family." The smell and the flies are unbearable and he not only allows them in his house but lets them go all over his neighbors' yards eating and destroying their lawns and yards. I would like to have something done to stop this.

F. J.

You are advised that an inspector was assigned to make a thorough investigation, which resulted in the following notice being served on the owner: "Thoroughly clean floors of rear rooms where poultry is kept. Clean all boxes and roosts. Confine poultry to your own premises. Abate odor nuisance caused by housing poultry on premises. This matter will be followed up until compliance with the foregoing orders has been obtained. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, President, Board of Health.

LOANS.

Chicago, June 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Some time ago I made a loan from a finance company, signing a wage assignment. Shortly after I left that employer and was advised by the loan company that my security had been destroyed by my leaving the company. Recently I secured another position. The company served a wage assignment on my employer, inserting the name of my present employer in place of the previous employer. The manager of the loan company signed the affidavit that the present assignment was a true copy of the original. 1. Can such substitution of employers' names be made legally? 2. What action can be taken against the party making such affidavit, and [3] the notary public who witnessed the fraud?

T. R.

1. No.
2. If you wish to bring proceedings against him employ an attorney.
3. It is not clear that the notary was in any way to blame.

THE LIMITS OF TAXATION.

Chicago, June 20.—Death and taxes are both frightful. Soldiers in battle break and run away when ten per cent are killed. Taxpayers revolt at ten per cent levies. The tithes of the Bible or most ancient law were the tenth part of income, not principal. The tax collector took each year one out of ten lambs or kids. He did not take ten per cent of the sheep and goats.

Illinois law exacts a tax on principal, not income, a tax on bonds, not coupons. The Chicago owner of a bond for $1,000, paying annual interest of $35, is by law required to pay $65 annual tax. Such a law cannot be obeyed very long. The bond is sure to be sold or hidden. Do the people of Illinois wish bonds to be sold or hidden? Is it truly a gain to soak the rich? A man with one bond is rich, a man with a hundred bonds is richer, but are people with no bonds better off if all the rich run away where they can't be soaked in Illinois? Poor people often need to borrow money from the rich. A mortgage on the farm or cottage causes anxiety, but anxiety is better than losing the farm or the cottage. Taxes must be practical. If the tax assessor takes too many sheep and goats there will be fewer lambs and kids, and soon none at all.

What should the assessor do? Should he be practical? The law says he must assess the full cash value; it doesn't say market value. The assessor should not value a stock of eggs like a stock of pearls. The eggs may have a daily market value, the pearls only a holiday market. The marketability is a test of value, but not the only test. May the assessor not say the full value of the sheep is in the wool and the lamb as well as the mutton? Must he seize and slaughter the sheep for the public revenue, or should he not consider the value also of the wool and the possibility of lambs? Killing the goose to get the golden eggs was fanciful, but frightening the money lender or pawnbroker out of his wits, or out of Illinois, is not fanciful. It is not soaking the rich so much as soaking the poor.

MURRY NELSON.

THE OUTLOOK IN WISCONSIN.

Crandon, Wis., June 28.—I have read with a great deal of interest and amusement your editorial in today's paper entitled "A Prophet and an Awakened People." In one respect I heartily agree with you. The people of Wisconsin are awakening from their long sleep. I do not agree with your designation of John B. Chapple as a prophet. He is not a prophet, but an apostle, an apostle of special privilege. He represents the stalwart, reactionary element of the Republican party. The men and the principles he denounces represent the so-called progressive branch of the same decrepit organization. Wisconsin in the last thirty-seven years has been governed [or misgoverned] by both factions. And where has it gotten us? No matter which branch of the G. O. P. has had charge of affairs, taxes have mounted, and year after year the taxpayer has received less in return for his tax dollar. The reason for this is that the party in power has only been interested in perpetuating itself in power, no matter what hardships it has thrown upon the people.

The people of the state in the spring delegate elections have shown an earnest desire to return the Democratic party to power. This movement is growing by leaps and bounds. It will not be long before the party of George W. Peck will once more take its part in the councils of the state.

The voters are getting tired of Republican misrule, and are also getting tired of electing irresponsible young men to the highest offices in the state. They will make no exception in the case of John B. Chapple for United States senator from Wisconsin.

JOHN H. KITZINGER.

A PROUD ALUMNUS.

Chicago, June 14.—Apparently some of your readers are under the impression that the University of Chicago is a public institution and therefore subject to regulation by the taxpayers. That the University of Chicago has reached its present place of eminence among American institutions of learning is due in no small measure to the fact that it has been unhampered by public regulatory provisions. Four of the six Americans who have received the Nobel prize in science have been from the University of Chicago. The quality of its students is being constantly improved by rigid entrance and graduation requirements. According to a nation-wide vote of leading American professors taken not long ago the university surpassed all other American universities in six of its departments and ranked second in nine. The University of Chicago stands among those at the very pinnacle of American institutions of learning, and it is unquestionable that this place of eminence could not have been attained had it been subject to anti-evolution, anti-vivisection, and gag laws.

The University of Chicago is a private institution and whom its students choose to hear is no more a concern of the public than whom I choose to invite to my home. From the very platform on which the communist spoke I have heard Catholics, Protestants, Jews, agnostics, atheists, Republicans, Democrats, capitalists, Socialists, Fascists, royalists, monarchists, drys, wets, and Hindus. It is indeed fortunate that there yet remain some who heed the wisdom of former Justice O. W. Holmes that freedom of speech for those with whom we agree is but an idle gesture unless there is freedom for those with whom we bitterly disagree.

I am an alumnus who is proud of the university.

LANDSCAPING FOR WORLD'S FAIR.

Evanston, Ill., June 28.—When the Century of Progress opens next year we will all behold a city of wonders, a city of architectural beauty and achievement. But the real beauty of the exposition will most surely be lacking unless efforts are taken promptly to lay down some black dirt and plant some grass, shrubs and trees—to say nothing of a few flowers. The exposition grounds at present are just a little short of a dump grounds and apparently absolutely no effort has been expended in beautifying the grounds.

The landscape gardeners tell me that the deadline is long past when the dirt should have been spread, for it must set for a time. Surely the shrubbery ought to be planted in the early fall.

SO. PARK BOARD ASKS DELAY ON OUTER BRIDGE

Projects Not to Be Done for World's Fair.

The council committee on railway terminals received a request yesterday from the south park board for an extension of the time granted the board for improvements which the board is pledged to make under the lake front ordinance. While it has been understood for some months that the board would be unable to finish the outer link bridge in time for the World's fair next year, as originally scheduled, its request yesterday was the first formal admission of the fact.

The board asked an extension of two years from next September for its work on the bridge, the extension of Field drive north from Monroe street to connect with the bridge, and for the completion of the Randolph street viaduct to form the westward outlet of the outer drive system.

Railroads to Do Part.

The Illinois Central and Michigan Central railroad also are pledged under the ordinance to perform part of the work on the viaduct. The other two improvements are purely south park improvements. Attorney John E. Richert, representing the Illinois Central, told the committee that that railroad has done all of the work it can on the viaduct until the Michigan Central builds the portion of the viaduct passing over its property. The I. C. then has to extend the viaduct over its yards near the lake front.

The south park board also asked an extension until 1940 for completion of additional land fills off the outer drive from 23d street to 67th street, provided for by the ordinance.

"Economic conditions," was the reason cited by the park board in asking the delay. The committee took the matter under consideration, after several of the aldermen had criticized the delay, especially that of the railroads in finishing the viaduct. The railroads were not parties to the park board's request.

Will Invite Park Officials.

The Lincoln park commissioners, whose obligation it is to build the north half of the outer link bridge, and the south park commissioners will be asked to attend the next meeting of the committee. The aldermen asked that Corporation Counsel Sexton inform them what work has been done under the lake front ordinance to date, what should have been done under its provisions, what money has been spent, what should have been spent, had the plan been brought up to date, and the benefits enjoyed by the Illinois Central under what has been done already. The aldermen also asked the corporation counsel to give them an opinion as to whether the 1919 lake front ordinance is still in effect.

The committee discussed, without taking action, the proposal that the city, to save money, stop condemnation proceedings for the approaches to the 47th street subway leading under the I. C. tracks to the lake front. The south park board is to build the subway, but the city will pay property damages caused by lowered street levels.

"The real objection to the subway," said Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th], who has fought abandonment of the project, "is that the park commissioners don't want street cars to run through the subway to the lake front. Their other objections are just a smoke screen."

TURNS BANDIT TO PAY FOR GIRL'S RING; CAPTURED

Using a toy pistol, James Pankau, 26 years old, held up Miss Virginia Williams, 1315 Leland avenue, clerk in Andy's candy shop at 3160 Lincoln avenue, last night and robbed her of $15.

She struggled with him outside the store and he was finally subdued by Nick Barkalus, 3005 Lincoln avenue, with the aid of several firemen from truck 21, whose station is nearby.

At the Sheffield avenue police station Pankau gave his address as 5847 Cornelia avenue. The police said that he turned to robbery to repay $150 which he had borrowed to purchase a diamond ring for his sweetheart.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Floyd Walker and Charles Jones, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Phillip Sullivan.

Martin Lavere, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Walter Stanton.

Four jurors qualified for the death penalty were selected yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge John Prystalski to try Louis [Two Gun] Alterie and Charles [Buster] Brown on charges of kidnaping Edward Dobkin for ransom. Alterie, once a power in Chicago gang circles, was supposed to have retired to a Colorado ranch until his recent arrest. With Brown he is charged with seizing Dobkin, who also used the name of Shamus O'Brien, on March 1, 1931, and obtaining $8,000 ransom.

Gus Sanger, alleged member of the kidnaping band, will be the principal witness for the state, Prosecutor Ross Lee Laird said yesterday. Sanger is said to have confessed receiving $1,100 as his share of the ransom. Dobkin has told the prosecution that he is unable to identify any of his kidnapers, as they were masked. Sanger testified against two other alleged members of the kidnap gang, John Pingera and William Thomas, who are serving life terms for the kidnaping of Mrs. Georgia Gecht.

Clabaugh as pilot, lasted 25 minutes and when it was over Mrs. Gosswiller announced that whenever she takes a long trip in the future it will be by air.

CHURCH GAINS 7 MORE VOTES OVER SIMPSON

Ralph E. Church, who on the face of official returns of the April primary won the Republican nomination for congress in the 10th district, gained seven votes over his nearest rival, James Simpson Jr., in the recounting of the ballots yesterday. The recount has been completed in 342 precincts of the Chicago and Cook county portion of the congressional district. Lake county will be recounted starting today in the Cook county board's finance room. At this stage of the recount Church is 32 votes ahead of Simpson.

In the Chicago area Simpson cut down Church's original lead of 73 votes to 25. Two Chicago precincts were unintentionally omitted and are to be recounted later. Judge Thomas J. Lynch, who ordered the recount, is to pass on 363 contested ballots. Regarding these Attorney Urban A. Lavery, representing Simpson, declared the greater number will be counted for Simpson, thereby putting him in the lead.

UNFINISHED FLAT BUILDING BURNS IN ROGERS PARK

A big crowd gathered last evening to watch a spectacular fire in an uncompleted apartment building on the northwest corner of Jarvis and Damen avenues in Rogers Park.

The structure, of three stories and basement, was started several years ago. Building was abandoned after the rough woodwork of the interior had been installed.

A 2-11 alarm was sounded, but firemen reported difficulty in getting to water plugs because of closely parked automobiles. Adjoining buildings were protected by the firemen and the flames in the untenanted structure were extinguished after a two hour fight. Estimates of the damage ran to $50,000.

LAWN MOWERS REVEALED AS FOE OF SHADE TREES

Baked Ground, Barked Trunks Invite Disease.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Of all the enemies of shade trees about the home the least has been said of the one mechanical force as destructive as any swarm of locusts might be, yet taking a longer time for its deadly action to become apparent.

The lawn mower, in the hands of most workmen, clips the grass short at frequent intervals and bares the soil to a sun that hardens the earth crust and shuts off capillary action of both grass and tree roots.

This surface hardpan, chargeable to the constant mowing of lawns, weakens the lateral roots on which the monarchs of plant life depend directly for food supply. Reduced vitality of the tree in a few years makes it susceptible to disease or insect infestation, if not winter killing, much as an undernourished human body has low resistance to serious ailments.

Wounds Start Infection.

Of even more concern to the lovers of beautiful trees should be the abandon with which the workmen charge the lawn mowers at the base of the tree, its sharp shearing knives or wheel edges gouging bits of bark and exposing delicate under surfaces.

A host of organisms are at hand to start their depredations in these tree wounds inflicted by the mowers. Much as poisons and serious infections get their start from minor skin abrasions in humans, fungi cause eventual destruction of major parts or all of a tree that may be worth $500 to $1,000 when its replacement cost is considered.

"The wound and wood decay fungi of the trunk and roots are found everywhere and their importance is usually in proportion to the neglect in preventing injuries, or maintaining the general health of the tree," declares E. P. Felt, nationally known entomologist, formerly in charge of tree disease work for the state of New York.

Shade Trees Suffer Most.

Of the types of damage that may develop from the casual wounding of the tree trunk in mowing, wound decay, heartwood decay, and canker are most common. Bark diseases also may occur in what might be thought minor chipping of the tree trunk's surface.

The shade trees, or deciduous trees, are more susceptible to infestations of disease and insects than are the pines or conifers. The latter in many cases will produce resinous or gummy substances which cover the wounded areas.

While no estimate can be made of the large amount of damage known to be caused shade trees in home yards, it is known that the loss from fungus diseases in forests alone, where no mechanical equipment exists, exceeds 100 million dollars annually.

NEW HORMONE DISCOVERED TO FIGHT DIABETES

Treat Human Patients with Strange Substance

LONDON, Ont., July 5.—(AP)—Experiments establishing the possibility of another new hormone which may have far reaching effects on diabetes are published by the Royal Society of England.

Hormones are secretions of ductless glands. The new one appears to come from the membrane of the duodenum, that portion of the alimentary canal next in order after the stomach.

The Royal society report is from Dr. A. Bruce MacCallum, dean of the University of Western Ontario Medical school, and Dr. N. B. Laughton. They describe several years' work at Western Ontario in which they have isolated this unidentified substance from rabbits, dogs, hogs and cattle. It is contained in a very light weight powder from the duodenal membrane.

Different from Insulin.

They classify it as different from insulin and secretin, two other well known hormones important in diabetes.

But like these two, and like all other hormones, a minute amount of the new stuff produces a powerful effect. The duodenal powder reduces blood sugar very quickly, either when injected under the skin, or when taken by mouth.

Insulin also reduces blood sugar, but in a strikingly different way. The report points out that overdoses of insulin can reduce blood sugar below normal, with resulting severe shock that leads to death unless quickly corrected.

Tested on Human Patients.

The new active substance seems capable of reducing blood sugar only to normal, but not below. A few tests of human patients seem to confirm this. Blood sugar is the form in human blood and its unbalance is one of the difficulties in diabetes.

In spite of insulin, diabetes is still mostly incurable, and medicine has long suspected that additional substances must be found to account for the disease. Insulin, a miracle of medicine, is not a cure, but a substitute for the body's own secretion. It keeps alive and in fairly good health persons who formerly had no hope. To remain alive they must usually keep on taking insulin indefinitely.

The Royal society announcement says that experiments on human patients are expected to continue for four or five years. It states also that hospitals in the United States as well as in Canada are coöperating in the research.

Mrs. Elise Richards, Widow of Wyoming Governor, Dies

Youth Fails to Regain Consciousness.

Clyde Karr, 22 years old, son of a Kankakee minister, died in St. Luke's hospital last night of injuries in an automobile accident last Thursday in which his companion, Mrs. Selma Phillips, 24, of Evansville, Ind., was killed. Mrs. Phillips, an estranged wife, was said to be Karr's boyhood sweetheart.

Karr drove his automobile into a street car at 18th street and Michigan avenue. Police found a revolver in his automobile. A detective was constantly at his bedside in the hospital to question him about the weapon, but he never regained consciousness.

The body of a man killed yesterday in an automobile collision on Route No. 52, eight miles northeast of Fowler, Ind., was identified later as that of Irvin Fallasch, 2549 Seminary avenue. Fallasch and Miss Mary Vuza of Seeleyville, Ind., who was riding with him, were killed when the Fallasch car crashed head-on into a truck.

Karr's death and three others increased the county motor toll for the year to 565. The other victims:

William Bauer, 71 years old, of 705 North 1st avenue, Maywood, building commissioner of Maywood. Died last night in the Westlake hospital. He was struck June 30 by a car driven by James R. Greenwell, 320 North 7th avenue, Maywood.

Anthony Valentine, 65 years old, of 1861 Emerson avenue. Killed last night at Grand avenue and Lincoln street by an automobile which did not stop.

Mrs. Lena Gordon, a Negro, 32 years old, of 4445 Vincennes avenue. Died at Washington Park hospital. Her automobile struck a lamp post earlier in the day at 63d and State streets.

De Pauw Official Dies in California, of Hemorrhage

Los Angeles, Cal., July 5.—[Special.]—Funeral services will be conducted at the First M. E. church Friday for Dr. Byron H. Wilson, controller of De Pauw university, who died yesterday at California Lutheran hospital following a cerebral hemorrhage. Dr. Wilson and his wife had just arrived in California a few days previously, motoring here from Greencastle, Ind., at the close of the De Pauw session. Dr. Wilson was sixty years of age and a native of Avalon.

George Hearst Injured in Automobile Crash

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 5.—[Special.]—George Hearst, publisher and son of W. R. Hearst, was in St. Francis hospital here as a result of injuries in an automobile accident at Montecito late Sunday night. His injuries, which are described as not critical, include a chipped shoulder bone, severely lacerated right leg, and sprains and abrasions. Hearst's car, in which he was driving alone, hit the car of Richard Pollerno, head on.

MICHIGAN FARMER SUICIDE.

Benton Harbor, Mich., July 5.—[Special.]—Ill health is given as the cause of the suicide of Edward Kunde, 65, southern Berrien county farmer, who shot himself through the head with a revolver today.

She was a writer, artist, and historian, and many of her research writings were given to the Wisconsin Historical society.

HIPP, JEWELER, IS KILLED WHILE CLEANING RIFLE

Frederick G. Hipp, 56 years old, 924 Chestnut avenue, Wilmette, accidentally shot and killed himself late yesterday as he was cleaning an automatic rifle in the store of Hipp & Coburn, jewelers, on the ground floor of the Wrigley building annex. Mr. Hipp, a partner in the concern, was secretary treasurer of the business.

According to Edward W. Coburn, 420 Hamilton street, Evanston, the other partner, Mr. Hipp had gone to the balcony at the rear of the store to clean the rifle. Mr. Coburn told police he heard a shot and found Mr. Hipp's body, a bullet through the heart, in a chair. The rifle and cleaning rod lay on the floor. It was Mr. Hipp's custom to clean the weapon regularly, Mr. Coburn said. The rifle was used for protection against robbers.

Mr. Hipp is survived by his widow and two children. An inquest will be held today.

BROTHERS ELECT WHIPPING POST TO ESCAPE JAIL

Millersburg, O., July 5.—(AP)—William and Jesse Wynn were given 20 lashes with a buggy whip late today by Sheriff John Stevens as sentence for stealing a refrigerator and selling it for $3. Judge R. B. Putnam had given the men choice between 20 days in jail at hard labor and a bread and water diet or 20 lashes at a whipping post. They chose the latter. It was the first time that the whipping post has been used in recent times in Ohio.

World Cruise Is Setting for Splendid Novel

Ishbel Ross Is Author of "Promenade Deck."

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Promenade Deck," by Ishbel Ross. [Harper's.] Published today.

FOR those of us whose chairs this summer are the good old fireside standbys or nice awning stripe affairs in the back yard or rustic log contraptions nestling under the overhanging eaves of the front porch, instead of that most alluring (if uncomfortable) mechanism, the deck chair, Ishbel Ross' "Promenade Deck" will by its very title whistle $2 from our pocketbooks.

ISHBEL ROSS.

Just to read about any promenade deck will be a treat to a great many readers, and to most of that many [including this one] resisting the temptation to tramp whatever deck the author chronicles will be one exercise of character for which they are not equipped. At $2 there certainly is no reason why any reader should deny himself a trip around the world!

It is on one of those luxury 'round the world cruises that the author takes you in "Promenade Deck," gives you five months of sights and sounds and emotions chronicled by a keen and sensitive observer and made the background for a delightful analysis of the human species.

Miss Ross, I understand, herself went on one of the globe circling cruises and saw in it excellent fiction material. Booth Tarkington got the idea for "The Plutocrat," as you may remember, on a Mediterranean cruise. Many jaunters must have thought that the slice of life which a long cruise offers would make excellent material for a novel, but until Miss Ross did "Promenade Deck" no one has made actual use of the material. (At least, so far as I remember.)

The sea does something to the inhibitions of mankind, releases them in a strange, at times almost miraculous, way. It also intensifies emotions, concentrates feeling. A great liner with its inhabitants from upper deck to hold is a cross section of life, through the strange potency of the sea, with everything and everybody heightened emotionally.

Miss Ross has chosen to record the lives of the passengers, not of the crew, except in so far as they were intermingled in the persons of the purser and the captain, but even with only the upper layer as material she has succeeded in giving a sense of the resemblance to any established community that a passenger boat takes on after the first day or so of fumbling human relationships.

And what she has done with real genius, it seems to me, is to catch, somehow, the quality of life at sea which is at once more intense and more emotional and more vivid than elsewhere in other circumstances and at the same time completely remote not only from ordinary life but, really, from itself. There is a quality of evanescence about life at sea, no matter how intense each moment may be, and Miss Ross has caught and preserved that quality in "Promenade Deck."

There are types, of course, of the delightfully described background of travel to fill in the foreground, the charming, sophisticated chief officer who is the object of desire on the part of more than one feminine passenger, the captain who plays the violin in the solitude of his quarters, the school teacher who has saved up during her whole life for her one trip to see the world and who looks a dowd, is myopic but won't wear glasses, falls thoroughly in love with the purser, and has that rare and lovely blessing of being really thrilled with sightseeing.

There is the charming middle aged English woman who, unlike most English women, knows how to dress exquisitely, but who cannot hold her husband, who is young and handsome. There is the woman who has eloped with the handsome rotter who leaves her to elope with another woman when they are half way 'round the world. The suicide of the deserted girl is one tragedy of the cruise. The accidental death of another—a girl who is constantly drunk and very disorderly—is the second tragedy. Tragedies less final are the awakening of a very nice boy to the actualities of life when the woman whom he loves rans off with another woman's husband and the awakening of a nice girl to the knowledge of the boy's love for the older woman. That woman is herself a type, the physical experimentalist. And there is the devoted 'round the world drinker.

In the middle foreground are countless other types—the born shoppers, the woman who takes her husband around the world for his health and never sees anything except what her porthole discloses, so constantly is she by his side, and many others.

Miss Ross has done an extremely good piece of work in "Promenade Deck" and has written a book which is really alluring. Incidentally, her publishers, the fine old house of Harper & Brothers, chose "Promenade Deck" as the one first novel which they are issuing this season.

Happy Group Makes Merry Trip to Camp

County's Outing Center Is Opened.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

OUT past factories and suburbs, past corn fields and into country air, a group of 207 city children and mothers went yesterday on a North Western train to Camp Reinberg, Cook county's summer camp in the Deer Grove forest preserve.

It was the first of six contingents of mothers and children selected by the county bureau of public welfare and the juvenile court as most in need of fresh air, rest, and play. The vacationists were met at Palatine by John O'Carroll, director of the camp, which was started 16 years ago with 40 children under his supervision.

It was a festive scene in the coaches the railroad furnished to the county at the cost of the train crew, a savings of about $900. Babies, bananas, smiling mothers, bursting paper suitcases and wide eyed children who called out in amazement as chickens, flowers and other phenomena of the country rolled past, combined in a general effect of gayety.

"I went to the country oncet before, two years ago," said Issy, his spectacles shining. "Gee, it was swell. My sis was coming with me but she had a nervous breakdown, the doctors said. Had to go to the county."

A toothless mother with great red fists and a capacious bosom sits happily by her five children. She left two at home.

She displays a medal, won at the camp last year by her son, a blond young man who might have stepped from a Greek idyll. They live on North Wells street.

A 19 year old mother and her 17 months old baby look out the window. The baby yells because the mother won't let her put her hand out the window. "Headstrong, like her daddy," sighs the mother. "We're not living together," she added.

Joe, a child with the unmistakable stamp of the city on him, looks out with listless eyes at the fields. He wears an odd assortment of clothes—a man's coat cut down without success; a tie suspiciously like a woman's ribbon; pants of a nondescript cotton material, clean but strangely cut. He and his little sister are silent. It is their first trip outside Chicago. He is asked how old he is.

"Tirteen," he says, but the disillusionment in his pallid face and eyes discount the fact.

A Chinese girl and a Mexican girl sit next to each other. They are clutching their pasteboard satchels and looking shyly around. Some one asks the latter if her mother is on the train, and she turns her head away while tears roll down her dark cheeks. Across the aisle a red haired boy is showing the treasures in his suitcase to a skeptical young man. A boat made of string finally wins his enthusiasm, however.

At Palatine they emerge from the train. A tall young woman in a pink romper suit effect, Miss Katherine M. Hayward, director of girls' recreations, shouts merrily at them through a megaphone to form in lines.

A yellow haired girl of 11, who lugged a huge suitcase and held a 1 year old baby by the hand stares about in bewilderment. She draws about her her brood of five younger brothers and sisters committed to her care. It is only after it is explained to her that she will see them at the camp that she consents to the boys going in one group, separate from her.

Frank H. Chambers, superintendent of public service, who brought them out, told Director Carroll and his assistant, Mrs. Leila Martin, that of 436 scheduled to come, only 307 arrived. The rain frightened the others away, but more will come during the week.

The entire cost of the camp, including overhead, salaries and all features, is 51 cents per day for one person. An infant welfare clinic will be held in connection with each ten day stay of mothers and children.

New Register Reflects Drop in Vacations

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE summer social register for 1932 has made its appearance, sedately clad as usual in a black paper cover with red lettering. The little book which records the holiday destinations of members of society of thirteen American cities in 78 pages slimmer this season than it was last, probably due to the fact that a good many erstwhile travelers are staying at home, close to the stock market and to businesses that require attention from heads of families.

This shortage of names, however, should not be interpreted too hurriedly as an indication of drastic economies, for numerous families who are to travel this summer may have neglected to notify the Social Register association about their destinations, or they may not have made their plans until after the little book had gone to press. Then, too, a great many families who in other years have sought summertime recreation far from home are settled this year in summer houses at country resorts near their cities, where they have the benefit of country clubs, swimming pools, riding trails, and other advantages very similar to those they enjoyed in distant places.

The Chicago section of the register numbers only a few pages less than it did last year and a hurried scanning finds most of the familiar names listed again at familiar summer addresses. The addresses, as usual, range all the way from Santa Barbara to Bar Harbor, and there are several intriguing European addresses.

Those who are traveling on the continent, making their plans as they go along, have no fixed address, of course, and can be reached only through mail forwarded by their bankers. Mrs. Francis T. A. Junkin's correspondence, for instance, will have to be sent in care of the Bankers' Trust company in Paris; Cook & Son in London will take care of mail for Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Vaux; letters sent to the Travelers bank in Paris will eventually reach Frederick B. Tuttle, and Robert Hall McCormick, who will sail up and down the Mediterranean again this summer, should be addressed care of Morgan & Co., Paris.

Perusal of the summer register always reveals amusing names of the summer houses and yachts. We hadn't noticed before that the Mason Trowbridge family's place at West Cornwall, Conn., is called "Yelping Hill," nor that one of the schooner yachts at the Edwin W. Simses' ranch at Au Gres, Mich., is named Lipstick, nor that the Arthur T. Galts' place at Holland, Mich., is called "Artrambl Farm," evidently a combination of the names of the three Galt boys, Arthur, Raymond, and William.

Two Engagements Are Announced

The best news of the week-end was two romantic announcements concerning two popular north shore girls:

Mr. and Mrs. William Southworth Miller of Winnetka are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Charles Nancrede Proctor of Boston, son of Prof. and Mrs. Charles A. Proctor of Hanover, N. H.

Miss Miller, after two years at Vassar, took a course at Miss Bouvé's school of physical education in Boston, and has since been teaching physical education at Hewitt, Long Island.

This summer she is councillor at a girls' camp in the Adirondacks. She made her debut in 1926 before entering her second year at Vassar. Miss Miller's antecedents were prominent Chicago pioneers. She is a great-granddaughter of Roswell B. Mason, who was mayor of Chicago during the year of the Chicago fire, and another grandfather was Judge Henry Giles Miller. Mr. Proctor was graduated from Dartmouth in 1928. The wedding probably will take place in the fall.

Announcement was made yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bernard Eckhart of Kenilworth of the engagement of their daughter, Charlotte Capen, to Thomas Roswell Coyne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Coyne of Kenilworth. Miss Eckhart attended Miss Madiera's school in Washington before entering the University of Chicago. After receiving her college degree she continued her studies at the Sorbonne in Paris.

She and her sister Marion (now Mrs. James R. D. Stevenson Jr.) made a joint debut at a garden party in Kenilworth four seasons ago. Mr. Coyne is a graduate of the University of Chicago and a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon. The wedding will take place in October and probably will be a small home ceremony.

Fetcher Boys to Give Party.

All the Winnetka young folks are looking forward to the annual summer party which Edwin S. Fetcher Jr. and his brother, Lee Fetcher, are to give on Saturday night at their parents' residence.

In three short years these parties of the Fetcher boys have become a popular institution in the north shore suburb. They are always informal, and the guests number between 40 and 50. Miss Antoinette Lackner is to assist as hostess on Saturday.

Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, it was learned yesterday, has closed her Lake Shore drive home for the present and has entered Passavant hospital for observation. How long she plans to remain at the institution could not be learned. Mrs. McCormick had an operation at the hospital a couple of years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ruppel (the former Margaret Gaylord Brunker) of Pasadena are expected to arrive in Lake Forest soon for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Strotz.

New entries have been piling up on the list of exhibits for the Winnetka Garden club's flower show to be held on Saturday afternoon and evening in the Winnetka community house. Mrs. James H. Douglas, Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, and Mrs. Lawrence Williams of Lake Forest have sent word that they intend to enter one or more of

Now Towels Join Parade of Ensembles

Brilliant Colors Mark Newest Models.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

THE pride of all hope chest owners, the pet of all gift givers, the most domesticated object of the household, the treasure of the good housewife, has this year suddenly gone out into the world of fashion.

Towels, ladies, and those who leave them on the bathroom floor, are no longer the simple, unassuming blotters for the bathers in the home—this year they are leading a gay and giddy double life.

They used to blush unseen in prim and chaste rows over the glistening rods. Now they blush, but with colors that can be heard for miles. They go on sightseeing trips down to the sea—huge, enveloping affairs that are splashed with all the resplendent colors of a Mexican fiesta.

Ask for the new striped bath sheets, and if your eyes can stand the shock, you'll probably buy them in dozens, as a cure for the depressing indigo tint that has sneaked into our most cheerful domiciles. If stripes remind you of things you would like to forget, you will find designs that must have slipped from grace—fat magenta roses, tangerine circles, and purple squares and checks, and some wild green cubist motifs that would satisfy the gnawing hunger of the most starved modernist.

They are expansive, two yards long, and correspondingly wide; some are made to stay flat, others have a draw string through one end that can be pulled into a neck ruffle around a beach lounger's neck, a neat little trick that makes a voluminous beach and lounging robe out of a piece of absorbing fabric that started out in life as a towel.

Or you can drape one of the flat ones around you, Indian or foothall fashion, as you nod and dream lazily in the sunshine.

New arrivals in the fashionable towel invasion are beautiful things that will cause all housewives to plunge heavily, stowing these luscious colored towels in high piles in their cupboards. One thing about the great buying public that always happens is the fact that once we approve of something, we proceed to work the racket overtime. And how we are working this ensemble idea—until you see these new towel ensembles you'll think somebody is exaggerating, but it's the ensemble in the best collected towel showings that counts!

Wash cloth, guest towel, hand and bath towel, and the lowly bath mat must match in color and design. You will be tempted with some glorious ensembles, so lovely in color, that you will wish you might find summer frocks of such pastel beauty. Mauve tinted towels with two darker shades of purple for borders—a delectable peach tint with a dramatic border of black—a watery green streaked around the border with black, so utterly edible that you immediately yearn for food.

You can be sure of your own towels with corner monograms to match the darkest shade of the contrasting border. A knockout ensemble comes in three shades of warm beige with a three letter monogram in dark brown.

The towel departments are fairly glowing with color. If you want new life, lots of brilliant color interests, you simply can't be wrong when you replenish your towel supplies while the prices are as refreshingly low as the colors are spectacular.

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

Isn't this a dainty, printed silk crêpe dress? And it is decidedly smart also. The much liked cape collar does away with the necessity of short sleeves, and the bow-tied waistline is an attractive detail. Sheer cottons and tub silks will make up beautifully in this model.

The pattern, 2915, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material.

Boys and Girls Interested in Baseball Party

Only One More Day to Write Letter.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

JUDGING from my mail I don't think there's a boy or girl in Chicago who isn't a baseball fan. And how they are looking forward to our baseball party at Wrigley field on July 14! One can hardly expect it to be otherwise when you consider what a marvelous time we'll have, for aren't we going to see the Cubs and the Brooklyn Dodgers?

The Cubs have fallen a bit behind during the last few days, but it won't take much to put them in the lead again. They're in there trying with all they've got, and I'll wager things will be a lot brighter for them by the time July 14 rolls around. And how could they help but stay on the top when they boast such players as Lon Warneke, Charley Grimm, and Stephenson? And isn't Hornsby always in the background urging them on to longer hits and more runs?

You still have another day in which to write a winning letter, boys and girls, for I intend to read them tomorrow and select my guests for this glorious party. And if you're a real fan you'll have no difficulty composing a good letter. You can tell me who your favorites are on both teams and why you like them, and you can tell me why you think the Cubs are the best players in the league. For, after all, is there any one who doesn't feel that way about Hornsby's men?

In writing, remember those simple rules—your name and address should be clearly written, don't forget to tell me your age, don't ask for an invitation for any one except yourself, and put your letter in the mail in time to reach me tomorrow.

SOUR milk makes good cake, but not a healthy infant, especially when it's all the diet that youngster has.

That's the most potent reason THE TRIBUNE Free Ice Fund is so besieged these early summer days with the pleas of worried mothers, who want ice to keep that precious milk cool and sweet for their babies.

Not in all the years the fund has extended relief to innumerable thousands of poor families have the appeals for aid been so numerous and so poignant as they are at present. Even though the worst of the summer lies ahead, the nickels and dimes and dollars that are needed to save sleepless nights and sick babies already are being drawn against with disheartening rapidity. For there isn't nearly enough on hand to cope with the situation in the event of even a few days of torrid sunshine, which may develop at any time.

Over the July Fourth holiday the Free Ice Fund experienced a welcome gain in the gifts of a few friends who haven't forgotten how hard the heated season is on the tiniest citizens. Here's a list of the ones that remembered:

FREE ICE FUND.

Mrs. Paula Well	$ 25.00
Mrs. Walter Clyde Jones and Helen Jones	10.00
N. G. C. club of Englewood	10.00
Anonymous	5.00
A mother	5.00
A. B.	3.00
Mis	1.00
Total	$ 59.00
Previously acknowledged	96.44
Grand total	$155.44

Beta Gamma chapter of Sigma Alpha sorority sent $10 to be added to the Camp Algonquin fund, to provide vacations for underprivileged boys and girls at the Fox river haven, making a total of $1,510.48.

Your check for either fund may be mailed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE at Tribune Tower, and will be acknowledged.

Hager Inaugurated as President of Chicago Rotary Club

George C. Hager, vice president of the Consumers company, was inaugurated president of the Chicago Rotary club at the annual rose luncheon in the Hotel Sherman yesterday. Dr. Guy M. Cushing, retiring president, was presented with a diamond studded past president's badge.

Among the guests were Mr. Hager's mother, Mrs. John J. Hager of Bristol, Tenn., and his brother, Clint Wood Hager, U. S. district attorney at Atlanta; Mrs. Cushing, wife of the retiring president; Clinton P. Anderson of Albuquerque, N. M., international president, and Paul Harris, founder of Rotary.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

I Like You So Much

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Gold Franklyn calls Dr. Elverton, who has a surgery in a poor district of London to attend her indolent young half brother. The doctor offers to give Barney Pierce, a well-to-do accident victim, a lift to his destination, and Pierce waits while the doctor makes his call. He catches a glimpse of the pretty young creature who summoned the doctor. Both men are impressed by the pluckiness of the orphan girl and take her troubles seriously to mind. The doctor is to sail the next week to New York and Havana on a leave, taking the ship doctor's place. Mrs. Doria Hathaway, a widow friend of Pierce's, is to sail on the same boat. She wants a maid-companion for the Atlantic crossing. Pierce calls on Doria, whose bills he has been paying for some months, to bid her adieu and farewell. Next morning the doctor calls on Gold. He tells her her brother should be made to stand on his own feet and sends her to see Mrs. Hathaway. Gold secures the job. Pierce regrets putting Gold under the demoralizing influence of Doria. He decides to sail himself.

INSTALLMENT IX.

A FIRST MEETING.

Elverton knew no more than Doria of Barney Pierce's last minute sailing, and he recalled that he could say, "I've been asked to take care of you."

"O, by whom?"

"By a Mr. Pierce."

She gave a quick cry of delight, and he saw that it was real delight and gratification.

"O, indeed! O, Barney Pierce is a great friend of mine. He couldn't make this boat or I should have good company on the voyage."

"He must have been," said the doctor gently, leaning on the bulwarks beside her, "but you are not alone, are you? It is very curious, but I believe I recommended your young companion to apply to you for a job."

"Very curious! Very!" she said archly. But archness always seemed especially stupid upon her, and she knew it, and changed it for her usual bantering frankness which Elverton was instantly aware that he liked so much better. "A pretty patient, wasn't she? And you knew you were going to be on this boat looking after us all, eh?"

She laughed, and the rich, good humored laughter pleased him. It was slightly vulgar, and so also slightly akin to the rich, good humored laughter of the women about the street markets so near his surgery. It was natural and true, and he could never now spare a minute for shame.

"Mr. Dorrance—Mrs. Hathaway," said Elverton, "and now I must be moving, I fear."

"Not quite all that," he parried, smiling, "though it looks like it. I saw a girl in need of fresh air and a change——"

"And that agency's advertisement caught your eye——"

It would do very well, that idea. So he thought, pausing a moment; because Pierce had not wished to be mentioned in the connection.

"I often point out opportunities to my less sharp sighted patients when I look through the papers."

"Well, she's a nice girl; and as I say, quite pretty. But I'll have to dump her in New York." She began telling him of the needy dresser.

Elverton had formed the habit of careful listening even if he seemed busy on something else. Now he listened very accurately to Doria Hathaway, and he thought how, under all her surface hardness and showwomanship, she must have a very tender corner in her heart. But he seemed to listen but lightly, and to be observing the approach of a male passenger.

"Here is a lonely passenger," he said, "a very nice fellow, I'm sure, to whom the captain introduced me just now. A last minute rush passenger. May I introduce him?"

She glanced around. "Why, I traveled down in the same compartment with him."

"He'll be so grateful to me." The doctor made a slight sign, and the sturdily tramping male stopped. "Mr. Dorrance—Mrs. Hathaway," said Elverton: "and now I must be moving, I fear."

He disappeared.

"What a charming doctor we have," said Doria, a little artificially again.

"He seems to be a remarkably good fellow."

They leaned together at the ship's side, and watched the tugs cast off. "I only just made this boat," said Dorrance, "because a man I wanted to meet over some business suddenly decided to come on her."

She asked: "Are you doing the Havana trip, too?"

"Yes, if I can. And you?"

"Yes."

Doria had a comfortable feeling that her fate was, as ever, kind. There was always a mariner——

. . . . . .

Gold was not resentful about her accommodation. Steerage would have suited her equally well as first class; anything would have suited her, so that she was on this buoyant ship, on this sunlit, bewildering sea. She stood looking for a moment or two about the very cramped inside cabin that she shared with another woman passenger, observed that her small luggage had been brought in, and then went out again. She heard teacups tinkling, and paused for tea and again to look about her; but what she craved was air. This strong and soft salt air that ran through one, possessed one—she couldn't have enough! And leaving the lounge and the chatterers, she came out to the free spaces of the nearly deserted deck. She went forward, wanting to get as near as she could to the bows, sensing for the first time that matchless exhilaration of a ship lifting under her, riding forward fast across ocean roads, going, going to the eternal enchantment of the unknown.

And pulling off her beret, she let the evening wind lash her hair till it lifted in streamers of gold from her head, and the dusk came about her as she leaned there in a forward corner of the bulwarks, while the last of the red scarves of sunset withdrew from a dimming opal sky.

This was how Barney Pierce, who had turned instantly from the passenger list to search all likely public rooms and decks, came upon her, in the darkening spring evening, the inadequacy of her old tweed coat for the fresh wind indicated quite plainly by its limp lines as she clutched it round her.

And though he was looking at her clear profile, turned exultantly seaward under the gold banners of her hair, it was of the inadequate coat he thought first with a feeling of displeasure; that was not nearly warm enough.

He had already given some thought to the matter of his first meeting with this girl. He had decided on care—rather special care—in all concerning her, and though he knew that Elverton would, in the ordinary sequence of things, take pleasure in making an introduction, suddenly all that went by the board at sight of that thin, old coat—the same coat she had wrapped round her when she first appeared to him, running out of a murky house.

He came up to her quietly.

She was oblivious of him. So he spoke; shaken by an urgent desire for communion with her that he reined in at its first surging impulse.

"You will catch cold."

Then she saw him, indifferently.

"I couldn't catch cold."

As she answered this, in an unsurprised voice of simple conviction, she kept her head turned towards him for a moment, but only for a moment; still indifferently. She belonged to the sweet night and the sea. She did not want him. She wanted life—some life that she saw far away beyond that dark horizon. He moved nearer, and stood to the windward side of her.

"You couldn't? Forgive me—that's stretching optimism too far. Why couldn't you?"

"Nevertheless, may I stand here for a short while beside you, and share the attractions, and keep some of the wind off you?"

If she answered at all it was in a murmur that he did not catch. He dug his hands deep into the pockets of his big overcoat.

"You don't mind my being here?"

She said absently, with a little laugh, "It's your ship as much as mine."

"It's a wonderful feeling, isn't it?" he remarked, catching at her interest, "to stand for'ard like this, at dark, alone? One really does feel one owns the ship."

"Can one ever be unmoved by this?"

"Easily."

"I shouldn't want to live if I couldn't feel."

ALMOST every day I hear some wistful cook sighing ecstatically over foods in foreign restaurants and sorrowing that her steaks and vegetables, fish and omelets just don't seem to have that delightfully elusive something which is ever present in continental cookery.

And whenever I hear one of those heartfelt sighs I'm invariably guilty of plunging into my pet eulogy and telling my friends what I'm going to share with you today—about a simple maneuver claimed by real artists in food flavors to be the secret of the ultra-deliciousness of European cookery.

This secret is told in two words—"beurres composés," or, in English, "savory butters."

When America was amusedly called "a nation of mashed potatoes completely surrounded by sauce" the author of the quip dug deeper than he knew, and unconsciously touched the cause of the all-too-universal flatness of much of America's cookery. We means of ushering all kinds of foods into the family that we have forgotten that cooked butter can never add the delicacy of flavor given by uncooked butter sauces. And thus, in the saving of a little time and the attempt to introduce more milk into the diet, we have lost a world of deliciousness.

The answer? No matter what your sauce—whether for meat, vegetables, fish, or eggs—add to it just before serving a dab of some fresh, flavorful butter to give verve and character to the dish. The pleasant possibilities are as wide as the imagination. And not only do such butters give piquancy and nip to more delicate sauces, but they may be used also in an endless number of tasty hors d'oeuvres, canapes, and dainty tea sandwiches, or may be served alone to grace cold meats, broiled fish, roast game, or succulent sweetbreads.

Now, which are a few of these famous savory butters and what foods shall we honor with their deliciousness? Celery butter, parsley butter, lemon butter, and mint chutney, pimiento, tomato, watercress, ham, and mustard butters are just a sample of the pleasant possibilities. And, since the true culinary artist gives as much thought to the sauce as to the dish it is to adorn, it is well to save last minute rushes and have several of these butters made up—a cup or more of each—and stored away in jelly glasses in the refrigerator. No danger of their spoiling once the family tastes their deliciousness!

MINT BUTTER.

Here we have a savory butter for hot lamb—or a tasty spread to be served in a thin sandwich with cold lamb slices. To make it, blend one-fourth cup of unsalted or thoroughly washed butter with one-third cup chopped mint leaves and one-half teaspoon of lemon juice.

PIMIENTO BUTTER.

This makes a brightly colored and perfectly luscious addition to boiled new potatoes, or bland flavored fish. Simply pound or mash one canned pimiento to a pulp, blend with it one-third cup of butter and add a few drops of lemon juice. It may be desirable to put this through a fine sieve before serving.

ANCHOVY BUTTER.

This butter is a bit more elegant, but still simple to prepare and delightful to spread on thin rounds or diamonds of white bread, topped with a slice of pimiento olives for a stimulating appetizer. It is also a real hit when served as a filling for fluffy flop-over omelets. It calls for six to eight anchovies which have been preserved in brine. Wash thoroughly, bone and pound them to a smooth pulp with a tablespoon of butter in a mortar or small bowl. Press through a fine sieve and mix with one-fourth cup fresh butter.

For broiled herring or fresh water fish, mustard butter made by blending one-half cup of butter, a tablespoon of mustard, one-fourth teaspoon cayenne pepper, and two teaspoons of white vinegar makes a popular accompaniment.

A group of savory butter recipes, including shrimp butter, onion butter, maitre d'hotel butter, horseradish butter, and others will be sent you on receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope.

And here's a cry for help. We can't seem to find a Swedish Roll which will suit the specifications of Mrs. J. M. Here they are: "It is made of sweet dough, one inch thick and oval, with prunes, cinnamon, and sugar put in a slit in the top just before baking." If you have such a delicious sounding Swedish recipe in your files, will you send it in? Thank you!

Stages Shows to Learn Ways of a Director

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 5.—Regis Toomey is enjoying himself but making no money these days with a neighborhood "little theater" all his own. Toomey has the use of an entertainment room with a stage in the home of a wealthy friend who is in New York. Twice weekly Toomey gives "shows" which really are stage adaptations of films in which he played.

He rewrites the film scripts to suit his cast of unknown youths and girls, and his casts are always recruited from boys and girls of the neighborhood. None of his amateurs has been over 21 years of ago. Some of them are only 14. Toomey and his protégés charge no admission. Many of their performances have been given without any audience at all; directors and movie producers have been invited to see some of them.

The idea behind this time taking pastime is twofold, Toomey says. "I want to train myself to become a director, and the only way to do it is actually to direct. Moreover, some of the girls and boys who were eager to play in these efforts proved of such surprising talent that I am eager to obtain for them their chances to show what they really can do professionally."

The carpet in the nursery which Sue Carol has prepared is in white and everything else in her newly fitted nursery room is white or ivory. An occupant for it is expected next month.

Hollywood hosts and hostesses have been unable to induce Mae West to show up at any parties since her arrival ten days ago. Some of the would-be hosts have tried hard.

There's an interesting announcement from Universal Film company stating that Warner Brothers and Al Jolson have given permission to lift a scene from the initial talkie, "The Jazz Singer," in which Warners starred Jolson. The scene will be used in Universal's travesty on the film business, "Once in a Lifetime."

Some Fathers Too Insistent on Manly Idea

Afraid to Show Affection Towards Sons.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

When fathers, who are by tradition supposed to supply the stern element in family control, talk about rearing boys, you might reasonably expect them to dwell for a moment or two at least, on punishments.

I said as much to a young father of two children a day or so ago.

"O, strong arm methods you mean—whippings, spankings, and such things." He dismissed them with a wave of the hand. "Those went out of style long ago," he said.

"But I do think that fathers nowadays bend over backwards in another way, with the idea that they'll make their boys more masculine."

"Just how do you mean?" I asked.

"I mean this," he said. "I think fathers are often afraid to show affection toward their boys—to let them know that they love them.

"They seem to be afraid it will make them sissies—less manly. I think it's a grave mistake. It affects the child's emotional life—freezes them up in a sense. I mean it prevents their affections from developing while they're children and often causes an inability to express a depth of feeling when they become men."

This is to me one of the most pertinent remarks that I have ever heard a father make. Also, it's one of those conclusions which would for other fathers carry little weight coming from a woman. It might very well be considered as "soft counsel" from another.

From a father it has a different complexion. And it might be heeded to advantage. Fathers who will lavish affection on their daughters will often restrain all spontaneous impulses to demonstrativeness in action or speech towards their sons.

Many a boy has grown to manhood not suspecting the deep love and pride of his father. I wish men could only realize that a boy will not be any the less a man because he knows he is cherished by his father—that, in fact, he will be more of a man if he knows it.

The capacity to love, the ability to express it and to respond to it are qualities we prize in sweethearts and husbands and fathers. But how can they develop fully in a boy if he is treated with restraint or coldness by his father? It isn't enough for parents to understand their children. There's another side to this job of fatherhood beside the mental. It is this: Let us not wait until our children are grown up before we give them a chance to know the depth and warmth of our feeling.

the competitive classes, and new entries from Winnetka include those of Mrs. Howard C. Phillips, Mrs. Mark W. Cresap, Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, Mrs. Arthur W. Cushman, Mrs. Warren A. Lamson, Mrs. Hallett Thorne, Mrs. Walling.

William Ogden Green, Gordon Pirie, Robert Gardner, and Charles Strong are the only men who so far have declared their intentions to enter the husbands' classes, but we're told they make up in enthusiasm what they lack in numbers.

Mrs. Langdon Pearse, president of the Garden club; Mrs. S. D. Flood of Kenilworth, Mrs. William Ogden Green, and Mrs. Gordon Pirie are among those who will give luncheon parties before the show.

Summer Plans and Travel Notes.

Harry Dickson, the young son of Mrs. A. L. H. Dickson of Lake Forest, is to spend the summer at a camp at Asheville, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson Ross, formerly of Chicago and recently of Long Island, have returned to Lake Forest and have taken the Lake Forest house of the junior Carter H. Harrisons for the summer. Mr. Harrison is at their farm in Barrington and Mrs. Harrison is expected to return soon from Europe with their daughters, Lucy and Edith, who have been at school in Switzerland.

Mr. and Mrs. Diarmuid Russell [Rose Lauder] are back from their honeymoon in the northern woods and settled in their attractive little apartment on Mrs. Robert S. Hotz's estate.

Miss Betty Weston, the oldest of the three daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Weston of Winnetka, has gone to Europe to spend the summer traveling and studying with a group of summer school students.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen B. Jones of Lake Forest made a hurried departure last week for Nassau when they got word of the serious illness of Mrs. Jones' niece.

English Speaking Union Party

The English Speaking union is hoping for pleasant weather on Sunday so that its members may sit outdoors to hear Joseph S. Graydon's talk on "Shakespeare's Docket of Crime" at 4 in the afternoon at the Highland Park residence of Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Millard. If it should rain, however, the union is hoping nobody will remain at home, because the Millards are prepared to hold the party indoors if necessary.

Mrs. Richard Bentley will be hostess to members of the Girl Scout committee working for the Monday night concerts to be held next fall at Orchestra hall at a picnic luncheon and meeting on Friday at her residence on Mayflower road in Lake Forest.

The Girl Scout organization is to share in the proceeds of the concert subscriptions they sell. Lucrezia Bori, who made so many Chicago friends during her summers at Ravinia, is to give the first program. Mme. Bori, by the way, has been vacationing in Rome as the house guest of the American ambassador and Mrs. John W. Garrett. She will return to America soon and spend the balance of the summer in the Adirondacks.

Church Benefit Garden Party.

Mrs. William G. McJunkin of Winnetka will open her residence on Friday afternoon for a garden party to benefit St. Francis Xavier's church in Wilmette.

The Chicago colony in the Berkshires spent a quiet holiday week-end. James Monroe Walker of Dedham, Mass., motored over to Stockbridge to spend three days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Ransom Walker, at Fair Acres. Mr. Walker's son, Richard, accompanied him. Louis Sherman Taylor of 1540 Lake Shore drive went east for a week-end visit with Mrs. Taylor and their daughter, Miss Helen Campbell Taylor, at Cliveden, Stockbridge. Miss Kate S. Buckingham had her cousin, Miss Katherine Woolsey of Englewood, N. J., as a week-end guest at Bald Head, Lenox.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Henneberry of the Belmont hotel have taken a house in Wheaton for the summer.

Rothwell Sheriff of New York has returned to the east after spending the week-end in Lake Geneva with his sister, Mrs. Gardiner Hammond.

Miss Marjorie Montgomery Ward of 2344 Lincoln Park West is at Atlantic City for an indefinite sojourn.

Mrs. Simeon B. Chapin will open her residence at Lake Geneva this morning for the first lecture of the annual series of book talks by Dr. Paul Jenkins. The talks will be given hereafter on every Thursday morning during the summer.

Marshall Sumner Gives Piano Recital in Summer Series

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Marshall Sumner continued the summer series of Chicago Musical college concerts with a piano recital at the Punch and Judy theater yesterday morning. He is one of the younger group of concert pianists and a talented one, apparently equally at home in works of the higher pedagogy or those written because the composer had a pleasant thought to put down.

Thus Bach was presented in two guises, Busoni's stiff backed transcription of the Prelude and Fugue in D, and Grainger's transcription of the brief chorale which he calls "Blithe Bells," and which would seem to contain the first recorded trace of "Yankee Doodle." And Brahms' Variations on a Theme by Handel, twenty-five of them and generally sounding as though there were more, contrasted with a group of short works which contained one of the most amusing pieces of recent years, the "Spiritual and Blues" from Tansman's "Sonatine Transatlantique."

One regrets only that Mr. Sumner did not play the whole sonatine. He has a technic up to almost any demand he cares to put upon it, and he plays as though he were quite as much in sympathy with Tansman as Bach. It all goes toward an enlivening performance.

Three Views of Formal Evening Ensemble of Roma Crepe

Claudette Colbert, film actress, models a formal evening ensemble of black roma crepe. The sleeves of the jacket are edged with silver fox. Earrings, clip and bracelet and black gloves accent the simplicity of the ensemble. The jacket gives the costume a double service feature.

Shrine Convention Sweater

California is staging a sweater rage due in part to the Olympic games but Sari Maritza models one designed for the Shrine convention to be held at San Francisco this month. She will participate in the motion picture night pageant during the convention.

Hints on Care of Complexion in Hot Weather

Vacation Demands Extra Skin Attention.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Faces must be primed for beauty action every minute this summer. We can't leave them behind when on vacation pleasure bent, and taking them along means they are going to be exposed to elements that are hard and drying.

So pack your cleansing cream into your suitcase even if you have to throw out your passport to make room. True, you can pick up creams almost anywhere you go today. But give your face the cream it has been used to. You're going to need an extra supply of it. The drying effect of sunlight and hot winds has to be counteracted with a good cold cream. And be sure to treat the neck while you are at the face. It's the same kind of skin and it needs the same care after a long motor run, after nine holes of golf, or after an hour at the beach.

This kind of summer exposure provokes quick drying of the skin. So, in addition to the cleansing cream use a good tissue cream at bedtime and let it remain on as long as is convenient. The foregoing advice does not apply to the oily skinned, as you know. They profit immeasurably by deliberate daily exposure to the sun, providing they do not overdo to the burning point.

One indulgence you cannot grant your complexion in the hot weather is that cream base for makeup which is a grand boon in fall and winter. Whether it oozes through the makeup or not, it feels oozy. So, a liquid lotion, slightly astringent, is advised as a powder base. However, if you feel you must use a cream base, apply it over the skin tonic but apply it lightly—and then use a fine, light powder. Heavy makeup just does not belong with the light, crisp summer girl type.

Agnes Creates Beguiling Harness to Restrain Windblown Coiffures

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The latest and most exciting whim of Paris fashions is a harness for the popular windblown coiffure of Antoine. Chic women leave their hats at home when they go to tea or dinner these warm days, and wear, instead, a silken harness from Agnes, which holds the hair in place and is feathery light on the head.

At Bagdad, the new tea-and-dinner palace to which all Paris is flocking, I counted recently twenty women in these Agnes harnesses. They were variously attired in suits and ensembles. The harness goes with everything.

Three of the smartest head harnesses from Agnes are shown in the sketch today, to give you an adequate idea of what they are. At the top is a harness of blue and white striped crepe de chine, which I saw at Bagdad, worn with a navy blue suit, and accompanying a scarf in the same material as the harness. This is the most informal version of the newest Paris millinery.

Highland Park Hospital Seeks Funds for Expenses

Trustees of the Highland Park hospital yesterday announced a new fund raising plan, which they hope will keep the institution running. The plan, proposed by Sellar Hullard, president of the board of trustees, is the sale of certificates redeemable at any time within a year, for any hospital care exclusive of medical services. A campaign to sell the certificates will be started tomorrow by a citizens' committee.

Theater Group Details Plans of New Season

Guild Announces Cut in Ticket Prices.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The new American Theater society, born of a union between the Theater Guild of New York and the Dramatic League of Chicago, issued its first announcement of plans for the approaching season yesterday. It revealed the fact that neither the Harris, scene of the Dramatic League's programs, nor the Blackstone, which has flown the Theater Guild's banner, will be its headquarters. The Erlanger will be the theater in which the merged subscription audiences will assemble.

There will be a reduction in ticket prices both for the season buyers and the over-the-counter customers. The box office scale, says the announcement, will be "appreciably lower" than those maintained during the last season by the Guild and the League.

The schedule will be arranged to give each play on the society's program a three weeks' engagement in Chicago. This follows the Guild's custom and differs from that of the League which favored bookings of four weeks.

The first play to be offered will be "Cynara," by H. M. Harwood, with Philip Merivale in the leading rôle, supported by Sir Guy Standing and the complete New York cast, which had a run of forty weeks on Broadway. The première will take place Oct. 3.

The second play will be Robert E. Sherwood's "Reunion in Vienna," with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne leading the Theater Guild's original cast. This production recently ended a long run in New York.

Other plays promised are "Autumn Crocus," a year long hit in London, and "Another Language," by Rose Franken. The former play, written by a young novelist who uses the pen name of C. L. Anthony, will have in its leading rôle an Anglo-Bohemian actor named Francis Lederer, who has been highly acclaimed by London critics for his performance in this comedy. "Another Language," which was a surprise hit in New York last spring, is still running in that city. Margaret Wycherly and Glenn Anders are prominent in the cast.

Altogether five plays will be offered during the autumn and early winter. Perhaps others will follow, for the society's announcement states:

"The new season will bring no disappointments so far as Chicago is concerned, for we shall have the cooperation of the Messrs. Shubert, the Erlanger enterprises, and a number of unattached producers, including Gilbert Miller, Reed and McGowan, Arthur Hopkins, Sam H. Harris, John Golden, Brock Pemberton, and Eva Le Gallienne."

The business headquarters of the American Theater society is at 121 North Clark street. Registration of former subscribers to the Theater Guild and the Dramatic League will begin today. Subscription books will be opened for the general public Aug. 2. Frederick Donaghey is the resident manager.

Reports on Brief Summer Romance Begin to Arrive

BY DORIS BLAKE.

One of those unstable, impermanent, jazz boat romances is revealed in a letter before me.

The scene was all set. A perfect June night. A moon. A boat deck. An orchestra warming up young blood with strains set to words rhyming with "lonely" and "sweetheart" and "dearie." They collided in the scuffle for seats. She had a girl friend along. He had a boy friend. They danced. They wisecracked. They laughed.

"Cathy's" boy friend suggested the dark end of the deck for a talk. He held Cathy's hand while he told her she was the girl he'd been looking for all his life. He asked her to ditch the other two when the boat landed. He wanted to be alone, all alone with her. Not until he was leaving her did he attempt to kiss Cathy. Then he kissed to make up for lost time. That was three weeks ago.

The telephone number Cathy gave the boy hasn't been used yet. In the excitement the girl had found out nothing of the boy's dwelling place, where he worked, what he did, anything. But how Cathy cherishes the memory of that evening.

"He meant it," Cathy cries. "I know he meant it when he made love to me. He couldn't have talked the way he did to me unless he were sincere."

Cathy thinks he may have met with an accident. Something must have happened to him or she would have heard from him. He couldn't just walk in and out of her life for a few hours' episode.

The common theme of so many of the summer boat episodes. Sweet while they last. Rash. Common. Vulgar, even! But that's youth—lonely, adventurous, recklessly eager for excitement. No use warning them against the effervescent nature of these affairs. They'll gamble. They'll go a little further, be a little freer, cheaper, commoner than they would with a girl or boy they've known for years, maybe. Blame it on the moon, the stars, the music! Or, don't blame it on anything! But strange how true to form runs the finis for the girls. The girls men most easily forget.

From now on I shall continue to hear tales of the brief summer romance, as I have heard them year after year. But only the girls will write me that they never heard from the boy again. To the boy it is but a brief interlude—one he obviously has no desire to remember.

Armour Institute to Broaden Course with Science College

A college of science, planned to broaden the education of the engineer, will be opened next fall at the Armour Institute of Technology, it was announced yesterday. Officials of the institute said that the college is being opened as the result of a study made last winter by the Armour development committee to determine the needs of industry in Chicago. Many engineers consulted during the study expressed the opinion that engineering education should be broader, with more attention to the sciences which lie at the base of the profession and less to highly specialized engineering subjects.

The new science curriculum includes regular courses in the departments of mathematics, physics, chemistry, geology, and astronomy and in the humanities and social science group courses in English, history, languages, economics, and political science.

BAIN OFFICIALS ADMIT SIGNING LOANS IN BLANK

New Deals in Worthless Stocks Revealed.

John H. Edwards, 5601 South Wood street, former president of the West Lawn bank and director in two other Bain banks, testified yesterday that he had little knowledge of what was going on in the bank he headed and that he had nothing to do with granting of loans.

The testimony was given in the court of Judge John M. O'Connor, where South Park Commissioner John Bain and three others are on trial charged with conspiracy in connection with the failure of the Bain bank chain.

Sign Blank Loan Applications.

A score of blank applications for loans from Bain banks which bore the signatures of the banks' directors and presidents, but which never were granted, were introduced by Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber.

When shown the application blanks to which his name, along with a half dozen others, was signed, Edwards said he didn't know why he signed them. George Hill, 5459 West 64th street, a director of the West Lawn bank, also told of signing such blanks. Dr. Robert C. King, 6112 South Troy street, a director of several of the banks and as such on the note committee, said he approved loans after they were made and never knew anything about them.

Officials Dummies for Bain.

This evidence was in support of Raber's charge that the officials of the twelve Bain banks, which failed with a $13,000,000 loss to depositors, were dummies for Bain.

Edwards said he was a stonecutter who bought into Bain syndicates in order to have a chance to figure on the stone work in buildings Bain was erecting. He was paying what he owed the various banks, he said, and when Raber asked him how much he owed the banks he replied somewhat humorously:

He had loans in some of the Bain banks and deposits in others, and Judge O'Conner expressed surprise that he was not allowed a set-off of his loans against his deposits, but Raber explained that this was done only where a loan and a deposit were in the same bank.

Protests Security Deal.

Fred G. Maisel, 9029 South Oakley avenue, assistant cashier of the West Englewood bank and son of a bank director since deceased, said his father signed an accommodation note for $50,000 to give the bank a better credit rating. The "downtown office" sent $40,000 of securities to the West Englewood, and the witness said he protested that a mortgage of $26,000 was in default, but nevertheless the securities were applied to pay call trust loans of Frank A. Mulholland.

Maisel also told of John H. Bain telling bank employés to sell "bum stuff" to their customers. Under cross-examination of Attorney Francis X. Busch, who asked him if he hadn't said he could "kill all the Bains," he admitted he was unfriendly to them.

Shift Worthless Papers.

Worthless Bain securities listed at $199,625 were taken from the Auburn Park bank and distributed among other Bain banks, Alex M. Eunson, 6214 South Lincoln street, former cashier of the Chatham State bank, testified. His testimony on this was as follows:

Q.—Weren't all the securities that were to be distributed Bain stocks and notes. A.—Yes.

Q.—And wasn't this a buildup to make the Auburn Park bank conform to clearing house rules? A.—Yes.

Q.—The Auburn Park bank was the only Bain bank remaining in the clearing house and had to get rid of approximately $200,000? A.—Yes, I believe that was the idea.

Q.—And wasn't the idea that the other banks were to trade better securities for the Bain stock? A.—I think so.

BANK OFFICIALS' LETTERS READ IN WAUKEGAN TRIAL

Assistant State's Attorney George McGaughey of Lake county read more than 70 exhibits into the record yesterday at the trial of William H. Miller, former official of the Waukegan state bank and official of a Chicago bank, who is one of five defendants charged with conspiracy to defraud the public through false financial statements.

Among the exhibits were letters between Miller and Carl Stenger, then president of the Waukegan State bank, and later between Miller and Norman O. Geyer, who succeeded Stenger. The state intended to show by the letters that up to three months before the Waukegan bank was closed false accounts were deliberately entered. One alleged false entry showed that the National Bank of the Republic of Chicago had deposited $500,000 with the Waukegan bank, according to State's Attorney Smith.

Complete Frame of Temple of Jehol for World's Fair

Work on the framework of the golden temple of Jehol on the World's Fair grounds had been virtually completed yesterday, contractors announced, and the temple is expected to be finished by the middle of August. The original of the temple, at Jehol, 200 miles northwest of Peiping, China, is regarded as a perfect specimen of the Chinese Lama style of architecture. The reproduction was made beside the original temple under the direction of Dr. Sven Hedin, Swedish archeologist, and its 28,000 parts sent to Chicago for erection.

Lifeguards Rescue 18 from Vessel Off California

Santa Monica, Cal., July 5.—[Special.]—Lifeguards making six trips through the surf, rescued 18 persons and a dog off the auxiliary schooner Virginia, which had been drifting, disabled, for three days in Catalina channel. The craft grounded forty miles north of here early today. The yacht had to be abandoned. One of the eighteen persons rescued was a child.

Ginger Rogers, movie star, who, it is said, is to become wife of Mervyn Leroy, film director, from whom Edna Murphy obtained a divorce last week.

CAPTURED CROOK ESCAPES FROM PATROL WAGON

A captured burglar crawled out of a patrol wagon early this morning while a dozen policemen were rounding up his three companions. He escaped under gunfire.

The capture and escape occurred outside the Blue Star auto accessories store, 7601 Cottage Grove avenue. Squads under Lieut. Louis Slad and Sergt. Frank Corcoran of the Grand Crossing station surrounded the place on reports of a burglary. They found the lookout and shoved him into the wagon. Three burglars were still in the basement and Policeman Harry Evans was detailed to guard the prisoner while his comrades went to capture the other.

Suddenly the prisoner crawled through the unbarred front window of the patrol. His escape was seen by several of the crowd that had gathered. Policeman Evans had to withhold gunfire for fear of hitting them, but fired ten shots later during the chase.

Evans said he knows who the escaped prisoner is, and early this morning was still seeking him. The three burglars captured are Russell Pace, 23 years old, 7652 Greenwood avenue; Sam Mundo, 25, of 7856 Dobson avenue, an ex-convict, police say, and Angelo Cavelli, 24, of 7649 Greenwood avenue.

U. S. COMPLETES RED INQUIRY IN CHICAGO AREA

Agents of the department of labor under the supervision of Murray W. Garsson, star investigator for Secretary Doak, have been scouting alleged communistic activities in Chicago and South Bend recently, according to Washington reports last night, paying particular attention to causes for the recent bombing of one of the Bendix plants in South Bend.

The plant was not seriously damaged and four arrests followed a few days later. Mr. Garsson, it was said, went there on complaints that gangsters driven out of Chicago have started terroristic operations in the Calumet area and the manufacturing district in northern Indiana.

A theory given little consideration was that Chicago gangsters were backing the communist bombers, hoping that the bombers would terrorize midwest industrial leaders to such an extent that they would call upon the hoodlums to bring peace at a price.

Mr. Garsson has completed his inquiry and returned to New York.

City Courts to Take Over Psychopathic Department

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court announced yesterday that the psychopathic department of the city health department would be carried on by the court in the future. The health department had informed the judge that it would be necessary to lop the position of Dr. David B. Rotman, psychiatrist, from its rolls as an economy measure.

"Our court," Judge Sonsteby said, "would not be able to carry on without the services of a psychiatrist. Dr. Rotman will continue in charge of his department and it will be taken over by the Municipal court. A savings must be made elsewhere in the courts to pay Dr. Rotman's salary."

Police Guarding Relief Station After Disorder

Policemen from the Kensington station last night were guarding the Joint Emergency Relief station at 50 West 109 street, where an attempted riot was put down earlier in the day. About 200 unemployed men besieged the station in the morning, shouting that they were not getting sufficient food. Mrs. Alice Hines, in charge of the place, summoned the police and the disorder was speedily quelled. Lawrence Bahno, 42 years old, 247 West 107th street, who is alleged to have thrown a brick through a window of the station, was arrested.

Drys Seize $40,000 Alcohol Shipment in Box Cars

Two freight cars containing pint whisky bottles bearing fraudulent government stamps and 101 fifty gallon drums of alcohol were seized yesterday by prohibition agents on the siding at the Pennsylvania terminal warehouse, 323 West Polk street. The value of the alcohol was estimated at $40,000 by agents. The cars were rerouted to the government warehouse. The prohibition forces conducted the raid on information from a secret source, but refused to reveal where the shipment had come from other than to say it was from the east.

Florida's Moving Picture Colony Is Sold for $100

Tampa, Fla., July 5.—(AP)—Sun City, a town 25 miles south of here that started out a few years ago to be moving picture colony, was sold today at public auction for $100. The town's principal assets are a power and light plant valued at $100,000 and a large movie studio.

She said that her husband, to whom she was married three years ago, treated her unkindly. Many times, she said, he had struck her, even in the home of her parents. He left her in 1930 and she has not seen him since. She tried to get a divorce, but was advised that she could not because her husband was an American.

Continuing, she related she met Stephen in Paris and later he unexpectedly called at her flat in Williams mews. She declared she was unhappy at the time; soon they became friendly, and then she became devoted to him. She was anxious to marry him, but her inability to obtain a divorce made it impossible.

Threatened Suicide.

Hastings at this point asked if Stephen earned his own living, to which Mrs. Barney replied, "No."

"Did you support him almost entirely?" Hastings asked.

Mrs. Barney replied, "Almost entirely."

Further questioned as to whether Stephen was always kind to her, she replied, "No, not always."

Continuing the evidence, Mrs. Barney admitted that she had spoken to Stephen about suicide because she was unhappy. One reason for her unhappiness was that Stephen gambled with other women.

Here she was asked, "When he wanted money to gamble with, whom did he ask for it?"

"He asked me," Mrs. Barney replied in a low voice.

Mrs. Barney declared that the evening she is accused of shooting at Stephen from a window as he left her apartment she had given him money, but he said it was not enough. She said she fired the revolver into the air in an attempt to make Stephen think she was going to commit suicide.

Eventually Sir Patrick led her to the night of the slaying. Tears flowed down her cheeks as she related the incidents that led up to the shooting. There had been a party in her flat, she testified, and later she, Stephen and another man had gone out for supper. She paid the check. Then she and Stephen returned to her flat and went to bed.

They began to quarrel and he got up and dressed, saying he was going out. Mrs. Barney told him she would commit suicide if he left, and Stephen snatched her revolver from its hiding place in an arm chair and said:

"Well, you won't do it with this."

She rushed at him and attempted to take the gun from him, when it accidentally discharged, she testified.

Even when Stephen fell she did not realize he was badly wounded. She testified that he had said several times "I wish the doctor would come. I want to tell him it was an accident and not your fault."

Start Closing Argument.

She declared emphatically she had never desired to shoot Stephen or that she was jealous, but said she was "very much in love with him."

She finished her forty-five minutes of testimony with the answer to questions that shortly before Stephen's death she had made a will leaving him all her property. As she finished Sir Patrick turned to the judge and said quietly:

"This is my case."

Sir Percival Parke, for the crown, immediately began his final address to the jury of ten men and two women.

TROOPS BREAK CAMP AS WAR SHOW CLOSES

The 2,000 regular army troops who took part in the George Washington bicentennial military tournament, which ended last night at Soldiers' field, started to break camp early this morning and move back to their regular posts in the Sixth corps area. They have been stationed in Grant park for two weeks.

Of the airplanes which performed in the simulated battle maneuvers three pursuit squadrons will return today to Selfridge field, Michigan. An observation squadron will go back to Scott field, Illinois, and experimental planes will start for Dayton, O.

At the final show Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth corps area, made a brief speech thanking the people of Chicago for their attendance. One of the features of last night's performance was the final contest for jumping horses. It was won by Rollo Reed, owned by Sunset farms. This animal's score over the Olympic course was perfect. Lithuanian and Ukrainian groups in Chicago contributed songs and dances to the entertainment.

Druggist and Watchman Shot in Bandit Battle

A druggist and his watchman were each wounded in the right shoulder early this morning in a gun fight with two bandits. The wounded men are Nicholas Kirincic, 30 years old, owner of the Marquette Park pharmacy, 2824 West Marquette road, and Steve Kirincic, 45, of 5443 South Mozart street, the watchman. They are not related. The druggist had closed his store and was in his car in front when the robbers ordered him to unlock the door. The watchman, on the inside, opened fire on them. The robbers fired back, wounding both of the Kirincics. They were taken to the Holy Cross hospital.

Intruder Slain by Hotel Manager; Inquest Today

An inquest into the death of Christopher O'Shea, 29 years old, 8632 South Morgan street, who was shot and killed early yesterday by James Grach, 55 years old, manager of the Empire hotel, 4157 South Halsted street, will be held today in the county morgue. O'Shea, with two companions who escaped, entered the hotel. Grach said he shot O'Shea when the latter advanced toward him after trying to force open the cash drawer. O'Shea's two companions escaped.

Furniture Men Cheered by Leaders' Reports as Market Session Opens

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Throngs of dealers from many states jammed the elevators and filled the showrooms of the Furniture Mart on the lake front yesterday for the opening day of the summer market. More than a thousand strong, they looked at every type of household equipment, learned about the bed that boasts free wheeling, and gained optimism about the outlook for the industry from some of its leaders.

"A flock of vapid verbiage is being wasted trying to find out what's wrong with the furniture business," said Harry G. Beneman of Cumberland, Md., one of the spokesmen. "Furniture is the best of all games today—next to golf. There isn't anything wrong with it. Those who have been rocking the boat the last few years are the go-getters, the volume vaulters, the business-at-any-price boys who've sent us all off on the wrong tangent.

"No Business for Pikers."

"When we realize that the furniture business is a rock ribbed American institution here to serve an eager public, a fundamentally sound, big business, not for pikers or promoters, then as an industry we'll quit topping our drives and slicing into the red—and start shooting par."

No advance in price, generally speaking, will be occasioned by the addition of the free wheeling feature to beds, since the cost is about equal to the amount saved on casters, sideboards and slats. To save varnished floors and carpets when pushing the bed around to make it up or clean beneath it the manufacturers have added four strong steel wheels, rubber tired, set on the springs near each corner, and lifting the entire bed off the floor half an inch or so. It moves quickly and easily.

Midget Washer Shown.

The midget washer, equally new to the buyers, is about the size and general appearance of a steam pressure cooker, and is intended for the use of small families. Its novelty centers in the drying feature—a colander metal basin which holds the clothes at the top of the washer, well above the water line. A solid metal lid fits over the clothes and clamps on the rim of the machine, which has a thick rubber bladder inside, which when inflated with water from the faucet presses the garmets "wringer dry."

A gaily painted garden chair of wood displays the same "spring" feature shown formerly in metal chairs. The supporting piece, beneath the seat, is set on diagonally on the flat standard below, and sturdy metal bands clamping the pieces together provide the necessary resiliency.

Two floors of furniture exhibits at the Merchandise mart also attracted buyers yesterday for the annual lamp and furniture market there. Early reports indicated an encouraging increase in orders at both places over those of the January market.

UNHURT IN CHINA, FOUR U. S. GUARDS INJURED ON SHIP

MANILA, July 6 (Wednesday.)—(AP)—After five months' guard duty in battle scarred Shanghai without casualties the 31st United States infantry returned here today to meet with an accident that injured four enlisted men.

As approximately 1,200 officers and men were disembarking from the transport Republic an insecure gangplank slipped and fell about 50 feet. One enlisted man received a broken leg in the fall.

The soldiers were returning from guard service in Shanghai's international settlement during the Sino-Japanese fighting there several months ago.

Only Listerine guarantees that your breath will be agreeable

Instantly kills odors that ordinary mouth washes can't hide in 12 hours

One thing you never should guess about is the condition of your breath. It must be sweet and agreeable to others. It dare not offend.

Be Sure of Your Mouth Wash

Are you sure that you are using a mouth wash that prevents and corrects halitosis (unpleasant breath)? Are you positive that the mouth wash you are using has a definite deodorant effect?

For your own protection, avoid questionable mouth washes and use Listerine before any social engagement. It is your assurance that your breath will be sweet, clean, and wholesome.

Doctors Know It

For the past 50 years, physicians and surgeons have prescribed Listerine above all other antiseptics because it combines marked deodorant effect with certain, safe germicidal action.

Recent laboratory and clinical tests also clearly establish Listerine's superior deodorant power, when used in the mouth.

They proved that Listerine instantly gets rid of odors which ordinary antiseptics cannot hide in 12 hours.

A second series of experiments to test Listerine's power to overcome the odor of onion, once more showed Listerine's superiority. Used as a mouth wash, Listerine overcame the onion odor immediately, while another antiseptic, used in the dilution of three to one, failed to overcome the odor in 24 hours.

Listerine's Double Action

Listerine's value as a preventive and remedy for halitosis lies in its double action. 90% of all halitosis is caused by the fermentation of tiny bits of food in the mouth. Listerine immediately halts such fermentation—in other words, strikes at the cause of odors. Then, it destroys the odors themselves. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Missouri.

RADIO NEEDS A CHARLIE DRYDEN TO FLOUT BAN

Broadcasts Would Go On with Him.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 5.—If the newspaper reporters were to be barred from the football arenas next fall as the radio broadcasters have been barred by a recent order of some of the schools, the newspapers would cover the football games nevertheless with stories and pictures.

WILLIAM MULDOON

It is part of the art of newspapering to crash the gates and come in with stories and pictures that are hard to get. And, although conditions are not as difficult for reporters as they used to be, it needs only a challenge of this kind to revive the old mischievous daring and resourcefulness of the craft.

The photographers never have softened up. Their part of the business is still as tough as it ever was, and they never have ceased to come in with the pictures, including the kind that are hard to get.

Radio Off on Wrong Foot.

But, of course, the broadcasters cannot do anything of the kind. There are too many practical difficulties and, anyway, radio, as a news agency for the public, started out wrong. Radio began by asking people's very kind permission to cover this or that event of news interest and, in many cases, paying heavily for the privilege.

Consequently, radio has been notoriously sweet to everybody, and it has no adjective but "lovely" and its variants. Mr. Ted Husing used another word in describing a Harvard football game last fall, and you will remember what happened to Mr. Husing for that.

On the other hand, a writer covering the last game of the Harvard-Princeton series gave an intimate description of the incident which caused the booing and the subsequent severance of football relations. A minor official at Princeton took offense at that and when the same reporter showed up at Princeton the next Friday to cover the game with Yale he was told that he could not come to the game.

Princetons Got Smart.

But, one hour before game time he was forgiven because meanwhile he had obtained five different spectators' tickets and seemed pretty certain to get in any way. In addition to all of which he remarked very casually to the minor official that he was planning to write a story on the policy of censorship which the minor official, of course, had no authority to impose.

The newspapers have established that it is not their privilege but their right to cover football games and certain other events, with freedom to record them as their reporters see and interpret them. Radio neglected to establish this principle and that is why today the New York prizefight commission is able to impose an iron censorship on the broadcasts of big prizefights and certain colleges are able to bar the radio and get away with it.

What Is an Expert?

Radio censorship in prize fighting in New York was established today following the commission's disagreement with Mr. Charles F. [Socker] Coe and Graham McNamee in their description of the Sharkey-Schmeling fight. Mr. Coe and Mr. McNamee, displaying rare prize fight intelligence, declared for Schmeling. The commission declared for Sharkey, because one of its judges and the referee, Gunboat Smith, guessed Sharkey had won.

The censorship as outlined to the press bars every one but an "expert" from broadcasting a fight in New York. An expert, the commission said, is a "sports writer, a judge or a referee." There may be some more difference of opinion with the commission on their designation of judges and referees as experts, but we will save that for the subject of a series of ten articles some other time.

I cannot imagine any newspaper

POTPOURRI.

ELLSWORTH VINES' victory in the Wimbledon singles, often called the unofficial world's title, gives ground for hope the Yankee tennis team will survive and become challenger of the French for possession of the Davis cup.

This hope grows more roseate because of the ease with which the lanky Californian outplayed the British star, Bunny Austin, one of the best of the newer crop of Britons. Also this triumph showed that Vines has overcome a tendency to be erratic which was commented on when he arrived in England, where he was unaccustomed to the turf courts. Vines will play better on the hard French courts with their higher bounding balls. But so will the French, for that matter.

That France won the doubles with Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon was not so encouraging. Borotra, most picturesque of the French, was supposed to be waning. Brugnon never has been a strictly top-flight performer, although at his best in doubles.

Davis cup play consists of four singles and one doubles match. Even should Vines win two singles contests, still another singles or the doubles match would be necessary to lift the cup. Of course, even that is predicated on defeating the British first.

To those with whom sentiment for a veteran is a tradition, Walter Hagen's victory in the western open golf championship at Cleveland was gratifying. It came at a time when some of us were about to regard "The Haig" as possibly waning, the Hagen whose four-times victory in the British open and whose indomitable match play were ever more fame-giving than his successes in the American open.

Hagen proves he is likely to have something to say about any contest which he elects to enter. Incidentally, this Olin Dutra of California by his play in the national and western open is some one to be watched in the future.

In fact, in most sports except boxing one knows the score as the game or contest progresses. In boxing, none except the judges and referee know what the decision will be until the contest is over.

Why should spectators and fans be in doubt about the result of such affairs as the recent Sharkey-Schmeling affair? Why not have a visible scoreboard system similar to that used in baseball and post the result of each round as soon as it is completed?

TORONTO SENDS HAL ANDERSON TO RED BIRDS

Columbus, O., July 5.—[Special.]—Outfielder Harold Anderson, property of the Chicago White Sox, has been obtained by the Columbus club of the American associaton from the Toronto International league club on option, it was announced today.

Pitcher Walter Miller, Infielder Stuart Clarke, and Joel Hunt, outfielder, were sent to Toronto in the deal.

RED WHISK WINS JUVENILE SPRINT; SIXTH VICTORY

BY FRENCH LANE.

Red Whisk, the flying chestnut 2 year old from Kentucky, was the big showman at the Arlington Park races yesterday. He showed them some of that old blue grass speed while he won the River Forest stakes by three and one-half lengths from Clarify. Poppyman, a fleet one from the east, was third.

The race brought together some of the best juveniles now racing and was at 5½ furlongs. Most of the starters will be fighting for Futurity gold and glory later on in the season. Red Whisk's victory brought considerable cheer to the western turfmen, who were beginning to fear that all of this year's Arlington championships would go to the east.

Red Whisk performed so brilliantly, moving up from fifth place to first while the field was turning into the stretch, that the westerners think the Kentucky colt may give them the 2 year old championship. They are not confident that any of the other titles will remain in this section.

Thirteen Parade to Post.

After Silent Shot from Kentucky and Strideaway from Texas had been scratched, 13 were left in the parade to the post for the $4,490 sprint. Half of them were highly regarded youngsters from the east, but despite the east's heavy representation, the westerners backed Red Whisk so stoutly he went to the post as the favorite.

Red Whisk was away from the barrier first, but the cheers of the westerners changed to groans when Poppyman came up with a rush and Snaplock also ran past him before the field had gone half a furlong. Then Clarify also rushed past him and had sailed into a lead of two lengths by the time the field hit the turn and started rounding the lower bend.

Jockey Jones was picking a careful path with Red Whisk. He had the red colt on the outside as they neared the head of the stretch. It was then that he tore after the leaders. He went past them with little or no effort. When Clarify finally was whipped he took things easy.

Out of Money Once.

Red Whisk races for Charles Van Meter of Lexington, Ky. Early in the spring horsemen picked him out as an exceptional colt. Some high and fancy offers were made for him. Reports were heard that Van Meter turned down one offer of $25,000 for the son of Whiskalong-Spider. He has started 11 times this year and only once has been out of the money. He has six victories, three seconds and one third.

Red Whisk's time was remarkable yesterday. He ran the five and one-half furlongs in 1:05 4-5 on a track fast drying out but which nevertheless was dull.

In the mutuel Red Whisk paid $6.46 to win, $4.70 to place and $2.90 to show. Clarify was a long shot at $23.18 to place and $9.56 to show. Poppyman's show price was $3.72.

Many Close Finishes.

So many close finishes came in the other races that most of the folk in the gathering of 6,500 went dizzy from watching the closely grouped horses charge past the winning post.

It started in the first race when Mintogee, a field horse at 7 to 1 in the betting, nipped Edward R. Bradley's Algeria, a top heavy favorite, in the final strides. It kept right up in the second event when Rehoboth, a long shot at 15 to 1, whipped the favorite, Watch Him, from Mrs. John Hertz's stable, by a narrow margin. In the third Gala Flight, a filly closely related to the once mighty Gallant Fox, had all she could do to hold Blackstrap, the favorite, safe in a desperate drive which lasted all the way down the stretch. Jambalaya, from the east, was also close to the two leaders most of the way.

The real thrillers came in the fifth and sixth races. Peace Lady, Garlic, Culloden and Stone Martin raced down the stretch in the mile and a furlong sixth only inches apart. At the end Peace Lady got the decision, but the other three were so close together that only the placing judges could tell the order of the finish.

Gabbo from A. A. Baroni's stable got up in the last jump and beat the favorite, Finic, in the mile and an eighth sixth race by just two or three inches.

WORKMEN START RINGSIDE CONSTRUCTION FOR GERMAN BOUTS

Burke Breaks 400 Meter Record for Olympic Hurdles

Berkeley, Cal., July 5.—(AP)—Victor Burke, Georgetown university, won his 400 meter hurdle heat in the post I. C. A. A. A. A. Olympic tryouts in Edwards stadium here today in 53.2 seconds, clipping two-tenths of a second off the Olympic games record of 53 2-5 seconds, set in 1928 by Lord Burghley, British star. The world record is held by the American, F. Morgan Taylor, at 52 seconds flat.

Burke, holder of the National A. A. U. 440 hurdle title, by virtue of his performance, becomes eligible for the final American trials at Palo Alto, July 15 and 16.

Second best time was made by Joe Healey of New York university. Healey won the second heat in 54.2 seconds. Daniel Dean, Pennsylvania, won the 5,000 meter run in 15:21.1. He outsprinted John Kearns of Massachusetts Tech in the last 100 yards and finished five yards ahead.

HARPER DIRECTS FRIEND'S DRIVE FOR SENATORSHIP

Topeka, Kas., July 5.—[Special.]—Jesse C. Harper, Notre Dame university athletic director, has started a political career. It was announced today that Harper will direct the campaign of Joseph H. Mercer for the Republican nomination for the United States senate.

Mercer, in addition to being the Kansas state live stock sanitary commissioner, is secretary of the Kansas Live Stock association. Harper, owner of farmland and livestock near Ashland, Kas., formerly was president of the association.

LEVINSKY GETS 4 FIGHT OFFERS; TWO IN CHICAGO

Reno, Nev., July 5.—(AP)—Despite his defeat by Max Baer in yesterday's 20 round fight, King Levinsky received offers for fights today from four eastern sources—Jimmy Johnson of Madison Square Garden; Nate Lewis, matchmaker for the Chicago Stadium; the American Legion of Chicago, and Muggsy Taylor, Philadelphia.

Harridge Sets Down Dickey Indefinitely

William Dickey, catcher for the New York Yankees since 1928, was suspended indefinitely by President William Harridge of the American league yesterday. The suspension was placed on Dickey for assaulting Carl Reynolds, Washington outfielder, in the Yankee-Senator game at Washington on Monday.

Reynolds, former member of the Chicago White Sox, suffered a fractured jaw from a blow by Dickey and it was announced that Reynolds will be unable to appear in the lineup for several weeks.

President Harridge refused to state how long Dickey will be kept off the field, but it is believed that Dickey will be under suspension until Reynolds recovers.

Dickey struck Reynolds after the Senator outfielder had charged into him at the plate. Reynolds, sprinting home with the tying run on a squeeze play, collided with the catcher, who was blocking the plate. Dickey then struck Reynolds.

Immediately after the fight President Clark Griffith of the Washington club wired President Harridge demanding that Dickey be fined and placed under suspension until Reynolds recovered.

J. J. McCAFFERTY, TURFMAN, FOUND A SUICIDE IN BED

Havre de Grace, Md., July 5.—[Special.]—John J. McCafferty, 74, race horse owner, was found dead in his bed today with a bullet wound in the right temple and a revolver beside him. Coroner Joseph Hamburger gave a verdict of suicide.

McCafferty was once a jockey of renown on Chicago and New York tracks. Later he became a trainer, handling the horses of Helen Nichols in the late '80's. Recently he has been racing his own string on the smaller Maryland tracks and in Cuba. Outstanding in his stable were Vice Chairman and Dextrose.

Berkeley Meet Deficit to Cost 3 Universities $8,000

Los Angeles, Cal., July 5.—[Special.]—The three far west universities—California at Berkeley, Stanford and Southern California—which agreed to underwrite expenses of last Saturday's I. C. A. A. A. A. meet at Berkeley, have been assessed $8,000 each to carry the deficit from the meet.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

FIVE thousand miles from Chicago eight young men are preparing for the big moment of their lives. They are the amateur boxing champions of Germany who sail Sunday to battle the strongest and bravest boys of that vast area in the heart of another continent known as Chicagoland.

The German team has been assembled in Berlin for final instructions. Their Chicago opponents are packing up their fistic paraphernalia preparatory to the start for their training camp at Lake Wawasee, Ind.

Two hundred workmen today are unloading 15 cars of lumber and starting construction of the arena at Soldiers' field. Meanwhile thousands are purchasing tickets. Regardless of the general situation, there apparently is no depression in Golden Gloves. The demand for seats is the heaviest in the history of the tournament.

Among the first to obtain ringside seats was Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the National Boxing association. He predicts Chicago will have a much harder time defeating Germany's boxers than it did the French a year ago.

"When American troops were quartered in Germany after the war," Gen. Clinnin said, "they taught the Germans how to box. They became very proficient, as you may judge by the rise of Max Schmeling.

"Although the Germans have adopted boxing as a major sport only since the war, they have been athletically inclined for centuries and have made more progress in the sport than any country in Europe. You will find Germany represented at Soldiers' field by a team that will require superlative work by every American to defeat," he predicted.

Barry Wood, the young man who helped put Harvard back in the football limelight the last three years, breaks into print again, probably for the last time as a Harvard student, with an account of his marriage.

College football fans regret to have a man of Wood's attainments pass from the scene. Still it may be all for the best.

In addition to being one of the finest all around athletes in Harvard's history, he was one of the smartest students in the university. Obviously Wood's career as a pattern for young men who have not yet arrived in college is fraught with peril. It would be a terrible thing if the idea became prevalent that a good football player must be equipped with a keen intellect.

It is not altogether improbable that if Wood remained at Harvard another year brains would become popular and educators would come to believe that it was possible to be a good football player and a good student at the same time.

The fact that Wood has won recognition as a student possessed of high powered intellect indicates he must have visited the class room occasionally. If this becomes fashionable, it might lead to a complete collapse of the football structure.

Rumors are being revived that Charles Stoneham is ready to listen to any one desiring to purchase the New York Giants. Owners of the Indianapolis club sounded out Stoneham a year ago in an effort to buy the Giants, but their offer was turned down. Many a rusty turnstile since then has changed Stoneham's frame of mind, it is reported.

The change in managership, which put Bill Terry at the helm in place of John McGraw, has added no new patronage. The Giants' home attendance has fallen off nearly 45 per cent from the 1931 figures. They drew less than 10,000 customers Sunday against Boston, one of the strongest clubs in the league.

Loss of the colorful McGraw and failure of the club to show a sustained spurt under Terry is said to have depressed Stoneham to such an extent that he is ready to rid himself of a costly piece of property.

'STOP CHICAGO BOXERS AND FOIL JUDGES,' SLOGAN

Schmeling Assures Fair Decisions.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 5.—Germany's team of amateur boxing champions today brought to Berlin assurances that there will be no questionable decisions such as that which deprived Max Schmeling of the world's heavyweight championship when they step into the ring against Chicago's Golden Gloves fighters in Soldiers' field, Chicago, on the night of July 26.

Interest in what the Germans regard as unsportsmanlike conduct on the part of American fight officials was stirred anew by the arrival of Max Schmeling to visit his mother, although the former champion did his utmost to convince his compatriots that the decision which cost him his crown was not typical of American sporting events and that the German team has nothing to fear in its matches with the Chicagoans. Max's arrival was coincident with the assembling of the amateur team for its final intensive period of training before sailing for the United States.

Kohlhas Interests Schmeling

Schmeling watched the amateurs work out and displayed especial interest in Heinrich Kohlhas of Muenster, the heavyweight champion, who is now following the trail which Max himself once trod as an amateur boxer. He even gave Heinrich a few pointers on boxing and how to conduct himself against his opponent.

"You have nothing to fear from the officials in Chicago," Max said. "I saw the French team fight the Golden Gloves boys last year in Chicago's great arena, and I know that the German boys will receive the same fair treatment and courteous consideration that the judges and the referees gave to the French. It was wonderful, that fine spirit of international friendship which they displayed at that boxing exhibition, and I can assure you that you, too, will be treated with every respect for your courage and ability and need not fear that you will not get every decision which your fists can win for you."

"That will be the judge of my fight," he said. "They cannot keep me from winning my bout after that has spoken for me. It will outvote all of the judges, even if they should be against me. They cannot give a wrong decision on a knockout."

Many Knockouts on Record.

And Kohlhas was speaking only half in jest, for the chances, based on his record, are better than even that his bout with the Chicago heavyweight will end in a knockout. Of the 60 bouts he has won since taking up boxing, 35 have been by knockouts.

All of the other boxers on the team echoed Kohlhas' sentiments, vowing that there would be no doubt about the winner in any of the bouts.

"The Americans can't rob us of the decision if we win by knockouts and that is what we expect to do," was the substance of their remarks.

Actually, however, the Germans expect no trouble from the officials and know that they will receive fair treatment in Chicago. From the French boxers who participated in the international tournament in Berlin last winter they heard wonderful stories of the splendid welcome accorded France's team in Chicago last year.

Sebenq Spreads Good Will.

Through Dr. Charles Sebenq, vice president of the French boxing federation who represented the federation at the Chicago bouts last year, sportsmen of all Europe have learned of the success of the French trip and German boxing officials were delighted with the opportunity to take a team to America under similar conditions.

"If the French, who lost to the Chicago team, were pleased with their treatment in Chicago, we know that we shall receive every consideration due us," said Werner Spannagel of Barmen, the 22 year old flyweight on the German team. "If a defeated team can be so enthusiastic about its visit to Chicago, we will be doubly so, because, you know, we intend to win. The French could praise American sportsmanship even in defeat. Well, then, think how we can praise it in victory."

Kenosha Germans Coming to Bouts in Chartered Car

The German-American club of Kenosha, Wis., has chartered a special car for 40 of its members who will attend the international amateur boxing bouts at Soldiers' field July 26 between the champions of Germany and the Chicago Golden Gloves team. The ticket request was made by George Anderson of the German-American club.

There will be six preliminary bouts at Soldiers' field on July 26, followed by the eight international fights. All seats from the $3.30 ringside section to the 55 cent seats are reserved.

Tickets also are on sale at the Bismarck hotel; the German club, 178 West Jackson boulevard; the Germania club, 108 Germania place, and at Klein's restaurant, 304 West Jackson boulevard.

EQUIPOISE BEST HORSE IN WORLD, TURFMEN AVER

Trainer Believes He'll Set Record on Saturday.

Horsemen at Arlington Park, and most of the shrewd turfmen of the country are assembled there, are unanimous in their belief that Equipose is the greatest horse in the world today.

Some go so far as to declare that he is better than Man o' War was at the peak of his career. "They picked spots for Man o' War," one of the veteran horsemen said yesterday. "Equipoise takes 'em all on just as they come."

Fred Hopkins, the youthful trainer of Equipoise, believes the great Whitney racer will go undefeated this year even if he accepts all the engagements mapped out for him.

Hopkins is looking forward to the running of the Arlington cup, another $20,000 race, at Arlington on Saturday. He is not only confident of victory, but also believes Equipoise is good enough right now to set a world's record for the mile and a quarter if the Arlington course is at its best.

The world's mark is two minutes, held jointly by Whisk Broom II., who carried 139 pounds; Top Gallant with 126 pounds up, and Hark Forward with an impost of 98 pounds. The last two raced in England. Equipoise will carry 126 pounds in the cup. If he runs back to his world's record mile in 1:34 2-5 of a few days ago, all he will have to do to shade 2 minutes is run the last quarter in :25 2-5, which should not be much of a task for Equipoise.

A. Robertson, another of the star jockeys of America, joins the riding colony at Arlington today. He is a Whitney contract rider. H. Callahan, another New York rider, reached Arlington yesterday.

The Arlington cup field, aside from Equipoise, will likely include Jamestown, Yonkel, Plucky Play, Polydorus, Spanish Play, Pittsburgher, and one or two others. Jamestown was on the track yesterday morning for an easy three-quarters in 1:16.

Prince Hotspur, owned by the Joe Leiter estate, turned in the best training move of the day at Arlington. It was a mile in 1:39 3-5. He is getting ready for the Classic.

Hawthorne to Cut Prices for Race Meeting

A new policy has been adopted by the Hawthorne race track management regarding admission prices for the race meeting which opens next month.

Under the new plan the paying customer will find the cost of a clubhouse ticket will be $2.50. General admission to the grandstand section has been set at $2. Both of these prices include all tax charges.

The recipient of a pass probably will not cheer the Hawthorne plan, for if the pass holder cares to be seen in the clubhouse enclosure he must pay $1.

There will be no clubhouse badges, all tickets reading for the grandstand. The holder of such a courtesy badge must pay a service charge of 50 cents to enter the grandstand. The new government tax is included in the half dollar. If the badge holder then wishes to enter the clubhouse it will cost him another 50 cents a service charge, the latter half dollar also taking care of the added government tax.

There is a state tax of 20 cents per admission regardless of the price of the ticket. This tax also is included in the new Hawthorne admission and service charge.

106 TO TEE OFF TOMORROW IN CANADIAN OPEN

OTTAWA, Ont., July 5.—[Special.]—Led by Walter Hagen, the defending champion, 106 of the leading golfers of the North American continent will tee off Thursday for the first round of the 72 hole medal play leading to the Canadian open golf championship.

Cene Sarazen, winner of the United States and British open titles, is the only outstanding player missing from the draw of 85 professionals and 21 amateurs made today. Sarazen has announced his intention of staying out of major competition until the U. S. professional championship.

Despite the absence of Sarazen, the invading contingent from south of the border line is as imposing as ever. Leo Diegel is returning in quest of his fourth Canadian championship. Supporting Hagen and Diegel will be Billy Burke, 1931 U. S. open titleholder; Phil Perkins, who tied for runner-up honors in the last U. S. open; Tommy Armour, Olin and Mortie Dutra of California, MacDonald Smith, and Johnny Farrell.

Play on the opening day and Friday will be over 18 holes. Saturday the field will be reduced with elimination of all more than 20 strokes back of the leader, and those left will play 36 holes.

Marriage of De Palma and New York Girl Disclosed

Las Vegas, Nev., July 5.—(AP)—The marriage Sunday of Ralph De Palma, 42, noted automobile racing driver, and Marian Leggett, 36, also of New York, was disclosed here today. The racer and his former wife were divorced in Los Angeles last spring. His bride was divorced in Reno in 1922.

Sommerfield to Pitch for Weaver Cooneys Tomorrow

Jake Sommerfield, pitcher for the University of Wisconsin this season, has been named by the Weaver Coneys to face Mike Delaney's Sheridans tomorrow night in a twilight semi-pro baseball game at 6:30 o'clock on St. Rita High School field, Oakley avenue and 63d street.

Blabber Beats Irish Bullet at Aqueduct

New York, July 5.—[Special.]—Blabber, favorite over his eight maiden rivals in the Grandpa steeplechase, 2 mile feature of the closing program at Aqueduct today, scored a hollow victory over Irish Bullet, with Bo Ballot third. Of the nine to face the barrier, casualties reduced the field to three which negotiated the gruelling test.

Irish Bullet and Sun Wrack cut out the early running on the first turn of the field, with the others strung out. Chicatie went down at the fourth jump, and his jockey barely escaped serious injury when the rest of the field pulled up to avoid him. Once straightened out for the final test, Blabber moved up to Irish Bullet, and the former, fencing well in the concluding jumps, drew away from his rival to score by ten lengths. Irish Bullet easily saved the place from Bo Ballot, a distant third. The winner was quoted at 2 to 1 and negotiated the route in 4:13 2-5.

Marcasite gave Jockey Mills his second triumph of the afternoon when the Runantell filly outfooted a field of six other platers in the closing mile and an eighth gallop. Call Play, forcing the pace, finished second, two lengths behind the leader and a length in front of the fast closing Negopoli. The winner was held at 13 to 5 and was timed in 1:52 3-5.

Slow Timing Is Charged at Berkeley Meet

San Francisco, Cal., July 5.—[Special.]—Slow timing was charged at the intercollegiate track and field championship meet at Berkeley, Cal., last Friday and Saturday by several writers today. Among those who commented on the timing was R. L. Templeton, Stanford university coach and a staff writer for a coast newspaper.

"I do not think it was a wise move on the part of the east to enter into a conspiracy to attempt to show up the western timers," Templeton wrote. "Wykoff ran as good a race as he ever ran in his life and was given 9.9."

Wykoff, joint holder of the recognized world's record of 9.5 for the 100 yard dash, was caught in 9.6 by Ralph Proctor, the only western timer who worked in the meet.

"The easterners are openly gloating over the fact our timers have been shown up. I believe they came out here with the idea of showing up our timers firmly fixed in their minds," Templeton charged.

THREE MICHIGAN GRID PLAYERS ARE RULED INELIGIBLE

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 5.—(AP)—University of Michigan football prospects were dealt a severe blow tonight when athletic authorities announced the loss of four athletes through scholastic failures.

Coach Harry Kipke said that Du Val Goldsmith, Christianburg, Va., and Claire Purdum, Beaver, Pa., tackles, and Estil Tessmer, Ann Arbor, a quarter back, all virtually certain of regular berths with the varsity eleven in the fall, are ineligible.

At the same time Fred Hosler, Huntington, Ind., a freshman baseball pitcher, has been placed on the "home" list and will be unable to accompany the Wolverine baseball squad when it leaves Aug. 14 for Japan. None of the football casualties would be able to make up his scholastic deficiencies through summer school work, Coach Kipke said. Each is a senior.

McMILLEN SIGNS FOR MARIGOLD SHOW TUESDAY

Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football player, has been signed for the semi-windup to the Hans Steinke-Joe Stecher wrestling match at the Marigold Gardens next Tuesday night.

McMillen will meet George Zaharias or Ray Steele. McMillen has been among the topnotchers for three years and still is confident that he will capture the title. Both Zaharias and Steele have performed here many times in the last two years.

Steinke has started drilling for his test with Stecher. The Nebraskan is due in Chicago today and will go through daily exercise.

The rivalry between Steinke and Stecher dates back several years when Stecher, as champion, refused to meet Steinke. They never have met.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Four losses in a row over the week-end holidays brought the Cubs back to Chicago yesterday in no mood to be nice to such of their old pals as took the trouble to go down to the station with the fife and drum corps for the welcome home.

The fact that the fading brethren are in a mean mood may help them in their endeavors during the impending invasion of the eastern baseball clubs, which opens at Wrigley field this afternoon with the appearance of the Phillies. And it is certain, if history means anything, that the home surroundings will bolster their fluttery spirits and administer balm to their so recently blistered hides.

A licking at the hands of the Cincinnati Reds, followed by three bust-ups at the hands of the first place Pirates, all in a span of three days, is a rather terrible experience for a team that has spent most of the year leading the pack. But the horror of the situation is tempered by the fact that the Cubs are now home for a long stand.

Win or—Else.

If the Cubs can't gain ground in a long stay at Wrigley field they are not going to get any place while flitting hither and thither. So this 15 day stand at home ought to tell the bugs whether to keep hollering for 1932 or start dreaming about 1933. At least they ought to get a clew.

The Phillies, current guests of the Cubs, aren't so sassy themselves as a result of the Independence day carryings on. They scarcely expected to get a double barreled trouncing at the hands of the Boston Braves as their share of the holiday observance. But that's what they got.

The Phillies, perhaps, will take some heart through the recollection that less than two weeks ago they bumped the Cubs in three games out of four. But the Phillies are like the Cubs—they do their best playing at home.

It's Warneke's Turn.

The Phils will stick around for only three days. The other eastern teams will linger four days each, arriving as follows: Boston, Saturday, July 9; Brooklyn, Wednesday, July 13; New York, Sunday, July 17. The New York series will include a double header on July 20.

After the eastern visitations the Cubs will have a chance to get even with the leading Pirates before undertaking their second seaboard campaign. The Cubs and Pirates will play in Pittsburgh July 22 and 23, then move to Chicago for a double header on Sunday, July 24. After that both teams go east.

Lon Warneke is scheduled to go after his No. 11 victory this afternoon. The Phils will start the fellow who seems to be rested the most.

Wheaton-Glen Ellyn Leads Tennis League

The Wheaton-Glen Ellyn team still is leading the newly-formed West Suburban Tennis league with three straight victories. It has defeated Hinsdale, Elmhurst and La Grange. Riverside is in second place with two victories and one defeat, while Elmhurst and Hinsdale are tied for third with one triumph and one defeat. The fourth round games will be played Saturday.

Cambridge Still Leads Oxford in Cricket Play

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, England, July 5.—Cambridge still leads Oxford in the intervarsity cricket series by 295 runs. Oxford finished the second day's play with four wickets for 136 runs, while Cambridge scored 431 runs. The match will end tomorrow. A. T. Ratcliffe and D. R. Wilcox starred for Cambridge today, the former scoring 124 runs and Wilcox 157.

DICK TRACY—On Watch

THIS IS TRACY TALKING, MR. WALDORF. I JUST WANTED TO REPORT THAT I MAY HAVE SOME NEWS FOR YOU SOON REGARDING THE COUNTERFEITERS OF THOSE BONDS OF YOURS. BY THE WAY, DO YOU KNOW A MR B BELLAS, OWNER OF A PRIVATE ZOO ON NOYES AVENUE?
WALDORF DOESN'T KNOW BELLAS—IN FACT I CAN'T FIND ANYONE WHO DOES. WELL, COME ALONG, PAT, IT'S ALMOST DARK AND WE HAVE AN IMPORTANT JOB BEFORE US.
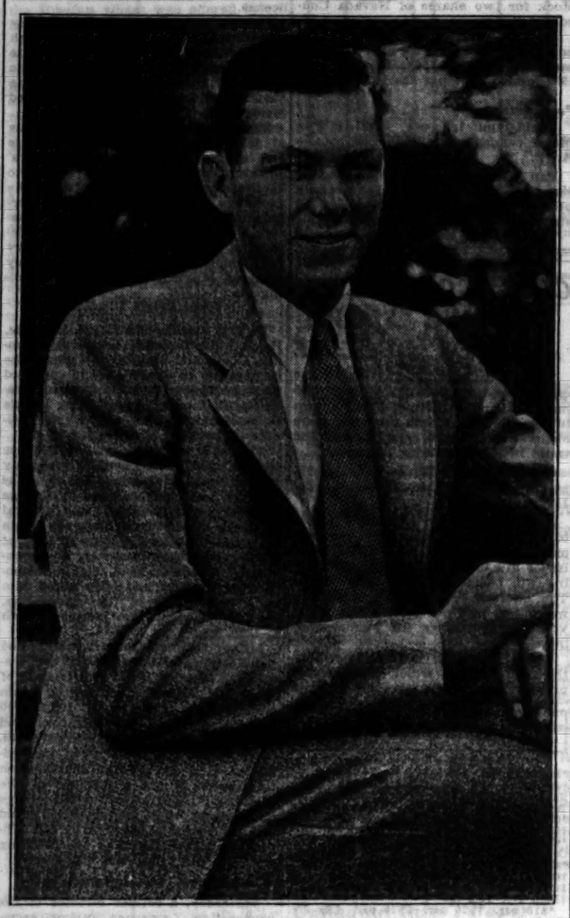
DON'T MAKE A SOUND, PAT. OUR SUCCESS WILL DEPEND UPON OUR SECRECY.
LET'S HIDE HERE BEHIND THESE SHRUBS WHERE WE CAN GET A PERFECT VIEW OF THAT LIONS' CAGE. I THINK THIS NIGHT WE SHALL SEE SOMETHING VERY, VERY STARTLING.

NOW HE'S OUT, TOO



When Bill Dickey, New York Yankees' catcher (above), cracked Carl Reynolds, Washington outfielder, on the jaw Monday, he put the Senator slugger out of the game for six weeks. Yesterday President Harridge of the American league cracked a suspension on Dickey which will keep him from playing until Reynolds recovers.

East Welcomes Sox as Group of Good Losers; A's First Foe

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 5.—The White Sox are back in the east, much to their sorrow, but probably to the delight of the teams they are going to meet. When the pale hose were parading along the seaboard a month ago they mustered sufficient strength to hang on to three victories while losing seven. That is why the prospective enemies are joyfully contemplating the kind of entertainment they will provide for their guests from Chicago.

The trip itself is enough to make the Sox long for that day in October when they can dig in for the winter, but it has complications in the form of double headers. Two games here tomorrow against the champion Mackmen, who are tough even for good teams, inaugurate the eastern invasion. And there probably will be another bargain bill before the Sox leave here. Then they can subsist on a mere game per diem until they reach New York, where are Yanks are already figuring on winning the bulk of six games which are scheduled for four days.

More Chances to Juggle.

One thing about the double header is that they will increase Manager Fonseca's chances to come up with a different lineup every time he starts. He's been doing that almost daily for the last month, but with 23 men to juggle over nine different positions you can easily figure that his supply of possible combinations will not be even close to exhaustion by the time the season closes.

Now that summer is well along on its way the Sox are beginning to have a new interest which is bound to sustain them, daily defeats notwithstanding. Their interest will be in the Cubs. Not that the Sox are going to hope their north side rivals win a pennant. Quite the opposite. The Sox, without wishing anybody any bad luck, will be hoping that the Cubs do not do anything that will make impossible a city series with its attendant purse. This hope, however, will be pursued in secret. Only a few years ago some of the pale hose players tossed their bats and leaped gleefully around the field whenever the Cubs lost. The officials of the latter club heard of it and there was no city series that fall.

Any One Liable to Pitch.

There is no way of telling just who will be who in the shape of White Sox pitchers for tomorrow's double barreled affair, but the fear is that a lot of fellows will be involved. Mr. Fonseca's pitchers, barring Milt Gaston, Sam Jones, and Ted Lyons, have been doing so many nose dives of late that even the manager himself would be shocked if one of them should squeeze through an entire game, win or lose. That he starts them time and again with the same disastrous results is not a matter of choice. There are only so many pitchers on the staff and the rules make it mandatory that one of them be present whenever a game is started.

After finishing their chores here, the Chicagoans will jump down to Washington for four more days that may prove strenuous. Then they'll get a breathing spell in a series against the still more feeble Red Sox. From there they will move into the Yankee stadium. On the way home the team will stop for an exhibition at Montreal where a tired, weary ball player can find something with which to refresh himself. The Sox will be plenty tired by that time.

Pirates Whip Giants, 4 to 3, in 10th Inning

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 5.—[Special.]—The Pittsburgh Pirates fought through 10 innings today to defeat the New York Giants, 4 to 3, in the first of a six game series. Bill Swift, young right hander, went the entire distance to best Bill Walker in a pitchers' duel, and sent home the winning run with a single after two were gone in the 10th. It was his seventh victory.

Both teams scored in the first and seventh. The Pirates had counted in the sixth, but the Giants tied it up in the eighth when Hughie Critz hit a fluke double, moved to third on an infield out and came in on Lindstrom's long fly.

The score was tied until the 10th which opened with a single by Suhr. Piet sent him to second on a sacrifice and he ran to third on Grace's infield out. Swift took his turn and whacked a single between third and short to win the game.

REDS ROUT CARDS, 12-4.

St. Louis, Mo., July 5.—(AP)—Red Lucas pitched Cincinnati to a 12 to 4 victory today over St. Louis, giving the Reds the final game of the series.

The Cincinnati pitcher, who yielded the Cardinals ten safeties, was given strong batting support, the Reds driving in seven runs in the first inning to give them a margin which proved ample the rest of the game. Jim Lindsey lasted but a fraction of this inning.

State's Ring Profits for Year $50,000

Boxing and wrestling showed a profit of $50,215.81 for the state in the period between July 1, 1931, and June 30, 1932, according to figures issued yesterday by Gen. John V. Clinnin in the annual financial report of the Illinois athletic commission.

Total collections were $88,510.41, plus an unexpended balance of $19,359.45, making $107,869.86 in all. Gross receipts, minus the expenditure of $57,654.05, leaves a net gain of $50,215.81.

The year previous the Illinois commission collected $104,904.61, plus the unexpended balance of $13,512.99, making a total of $118,417.60. Expenditures for that year were $62,069.79, leaving a net gain of $56,347.81 for the state, $6,132 more than the year just ended.

The boxing commission yesterday sanctioned Tuesday, July 12, as the date for the West Side Boxing club's show at Sparta stadium. Tommy Davenport, Arkansas heavyweight, has signed to fight on the card. George Neron will meet him. Davenport recently returned to Chicago from Birmingham, Ala., where he fought ten rounds with Battling Bozo.

Mique Malloy, south side promoter, has received word from his father in Ballina, Ireland, that his mother has died. Mrs. Malloy was 75 years old.

Sportsmen to Launch Game Sanctuary Plan

Bloomington, Ill., July 5.—[Special.]—Members of the Sportsmen's Mutual Club of Illinois designated Camp Lantz at the Mackinaw river as the permanent headquarters of their organization at the close of the association's first convention today. New plans were outlined for an extensive conservation and game propagation program concentrated in central Illinois.

A committee was appointed to work out the conservation plan, which is proposed under the title of "The Sportsmen's Mutual Acre Sanctuary Plan." By the plan coöperation of farmers in an active manner will be sought to further the propagation of game.

50,000 Acres Under Lease.

In concentrating their efforts toward propagation in central Illinois it is pointed out by Mutual officials that in the Camp Lantz location there are 30,000 acres under lease, and in Piatt and the southeastern part of McLean county 20,000 more acres, where pheasants are being planted to replace the prairie chicken, which formerly roamed through these sections in abundance. On the Illinois river there is a block devoted to propagation of ducks, quail, and pheasant, and at Camp Lantz a number of deer are placed, later to be turned loose in the timber.

New officers of the club are: President, the Rev. Walter Henry MacPherson, Joliet; vice president, Robert Kuhne, Rantoul; vice president, John T. Hall, Chicago, and Charles Mansfield, Springfield, secretary.

State Officials Present.

Lieut. Gov. Fred Sterling, C. Wayland Brooks, Republican nominee for state treasurer; Rodney H. Brandon of the state department of conservation; State Senator Simon E. Lantz, and other important state officials were among the members present.

BROOKS, WARD, MICHIGAN STARS, LEAVE FOR TRIALS

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 5.—[Special.—Brooker Brooks, discus star, and Willis Ward, high jumper, left tonight for the coast to compete in the final Olympic trials on July 15 and 16. The pair are the last to leave of the quintet of present and former Michigan track stars eligible to compete.

Brooks, Ward, and Edwin Russel, quarter miler, won their way to the finals in the recent N. C. A. A. meet at Chicago. Ned Turner made his bid by finishing as runner up to Ben Eastman of Stanford in the 880 yard run of the I. C. A. A. A. meet Saturday and Eddie Tolan, sprinter, became eligible when he won the 100 meter run in the central A. A. U. meet at Evanston Saturday. Tolan finished here last year.

Illinois Seeks 3 Month Open Duck Season

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois sportsmen should hear the 1932 edict regarding duck hunting seasons within a short time. The advisory board, which counsels with the secretary of agriculture on dates and length of hunting seasons, is scheduled to hold a meeting with that cabinet officer on July 8. It is expected that 1932 migratory waterfowl hunting regulations will be decided at this meeting.

For several months members of the advisory board have been gathering data and opinions on the duck situation and what sportsmen want in the way of a hunting season. Moreover, the biological survey has asked state departments of conservation to fill out a questionnaire on this subject. Thus everybody on the advisory board will move into Washington with both barrels loaded for the meeting.

Ask Three Month Season.

The Illinois department of conservation, according to a communication received from Ralph Bradford, the director, wants a three month open season this fall. The months desired are October, November, and December. In asking for such a season the department opposes the idea of a thirty day season spread over a three months' period. The Illinois department also registered an opinion for sunrise to sunset daily shooting hours and for the continuance of the practice of feeding ducks. The present limit of fifteen per day also was favored.

The Illinois representative on the advisory board is Edwin H. Steedman of St. Louis, who represents more than one state on the board. Walter C. Peacock, the Chicago sportsman, who has been working hard to obtain a ninety day open season this fall, is urging Illinois duck hunters to write Steedman in order to make their duck hunting wants known.

It's Anybody's Guess.

Although there is no doubt that nature has been kinder to the waterfowl this nesting season than she was in 1931, and we should have more birds down this fall than made the migration last autumn, we have a hunch that the advisory board and the secretary of agriculture will establish a hunting season shorter than ninety open days. On the other hand, we are willing to wager that Illinois will get more than thirty days of hunting.

At this time anybody's guess is good, since those close to the situation have refused to hint at what may happen. However, when Stanley P. Young, acting chief of the survey, says that he believes there has been enough improvement in the duck situation to warrant a possible recommendation for a longer open season this fall it looks as if the 1931 thirty day season will be lengthened this year.

EASTMAN WILL RUN 400 METERS IN OLYMPIC TEST

San Francisco, Cal., July 5.—(AP)—Although Ben Eastman, Stanford university's middle distance runner, is considered an outstanding prospect in the 400 meters and 800 meters for the American Olympic games team, he will compete only over the shorter distance during the final trials at Stanford, July 15 and 16.

This was reiterated today by R. L. Templeton, Stanford track coach. Eastman is an applicant for new world's records in the 440 yard dash and 880 yard and 800 meters runs. Because of his record, Coach Templeton feels the American track and field committee should arbitrarily select Eastman as a competitor in one of these races at the coming games in Los Angeles.

AUSTRALIANS TO SHOW CHICAGO CRICKET JULY 23

BY WICKET KEEPER.

Two weeks from next Saturday, July 23, the world champion Australian cricket players will play a picked team of 18 players from the Illinois Cricket association in Grant park, just south of the Buckingham fountain. A series of four games is to be played in as many days. All games will start at 11:30 a. m. and continue to 6:30 p. m., with a luncheon interval of an hour and a half.

The south park commission has provided an excellent playing field, equal in every detail to the best fields in England and Australia. This is the first opportunity for cricket fans to see the British national summer pastime played in the heart of Chicago.

Baseball fans will find cricket almost a second cousin to the American game. There are many similarities in the two games, chief of which is the fielding. In cricket this department must be as fast and as accurate as that of baseball.

Like Baseball—Only Different.

Several of the fielding positions are about the same distance from the batsman as in baseball. One fine point which the baseball enthusiast will fully appreciate is the fielding of hard hit balls by cricketers with their bare hands. Only one fielder, the wicket keeper, is permitted the use of gloves and leg guards. He is the "catcher" of the team.

Batting in cricket is more scientific than in baseball, as for every ball bowled down there is a distinct and necessarily accurate stroke. Pitching in cricket is quite similar to bowling, except that the bowler in cricket delivers the ball to the batsman on the first bounce. A full toss such as a baseball pitcher offers is considered easy to hit in cricket.

Australians Are Stars.

The Australian team includes eight of the premier players of the Antipodes. These stars were members of the famous 1930 Australian team which wrested the world's championship from England and South Africa.

In Don Bradman, one of the younger players, the Australians have the most prolific run getter in the history of the game. Stan McCabe, the baby of the team, is regarded as one of the longest hitters in cricket. Vic Richardson, captain, is probably the best all-round athlete in Australia. He excels at cricket, soccer football, lacrosse, tennis, swimming, short distance running, and is regarded as the best baseball player in the country.

CAMBRIDGE CREW NAMED ENGLAND'S OLYMPIC EIGHT

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 5.—The Amateur Rowing association today selected as British representatives in the Olympic regatta the Leander Rowing club eight, the Thames Rowing club four and H. R. A. Edwards and L. Clive of Christchurch, Oxford, as a pair.

It was generally anticipated that the Leander club, winner of the grand challenge cup in the Henley, would be chosen. It is the Cambridge crew, which won this year's university race.

The Thames four won the Steward's cup.

STEADY BUYING LIFTS FOREIGNS IN BOND MARKET

U. S. Securities Advance; Tone Is Cheerful.

New York, July 5.—(AP)—Sustained buying appeared today in United States and foreign government obligations, which imparted a cheerful tone to the bond market. Domestic corporation issues were steady but rather featureless. Gains in the foreign list were widespread, with German government bonds running up 2 to over 4 points. Prussian Free State securities were up more than 6 points. German 7s soared 4¾ and the 5½s gained 5¾. Berlin and other German municipals were also buoyant.

Australian government securities were in brisk demand, New South Wales bonds rallying more than 6 points.

Hope for Lausanne Results.

International bankers attributed this performance to belief that the Lausanne conference, regardless of the rapidly shifting nature of reports, would contribute some measure of hope for an eventual settlement of present debt problems. They also felt the firmness of European loans here represented. In part, belated buying for European account for the New York market was closed on Monday when these bonds advanced briskly in London.

U. S. government loans were uniformly higher, gains varying from 1-32d to 15-32ds point. The Liberty 3½s went to a new high for the year. Investment bankers reported that considerable money was now finding itself into the tax exempt field. The quick oversubscription of the $16,000,000 Federal Intermediate Credit bank offering was accepted as an indication of this.

Curb Trend Mixed.

Curb market stocks followed divergent and uncertain trends as trading was resumed after the holiday today. Some brokers were inclined to attribute selling of electric power issues to the Democratic nomination of Gov. Roosevelt, whose convictions on power regulation are well known, but there was no unanimity of opinion on that score.

American Gas and Electric lost nearly 2 points, and Commonwealth Edison declined 3. Electric Bond and Share sagged ¾ to within ⅝ of its low. Niagara Hudson, at 3½, was off ¼ and at a new bottom. Brazilian Traction, a Canadian issue, rallied a fraction on news from Toronto of declaration of a dividend in stock. United Light and Power A, which reported earnings of 97 cents a share in the 12 months ended May 31, closed at 3, up ⅛. In the previous 12 months earnings were $1.63 a share.

Lackawanna securities rose 3 points to 28 on news of the plan to liquidate the company through exchange of $1,000 principal amount of Glen Alden Coal bonds for each 16⅓ shares. Industrials and specialties generally remained all but neglected. A trace of speculation for the advance appeared in some gold mining issues, here as well as on the big board. Teck Hughes, Hollinger, and Pioneer gained small fractions.

NATURAL LAW EXPLAINS RISE IN HOG PRICES

Public, Able to Buy, Clears Supply.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Behind the bare figures showing a steady and sustained increase in live stock prices during the last month lies a story of the workings of the law of supply and demand.

Hog prices yesterday continued to advance, reaching the highest level for eight months. Yesterday's peak of $5.20 represented a gain of $1.90, or 57 per cent, from the low on May 28. The general average was 52 per cent above the low point.

Cattle, with small supplies coming in, set new highs in both the steer and yearling classes. Even lambs registered gains of 25 cents in best grades.

Men of long experience in the live stock and meat business say that there is nothing unnatural about the recent advance in prices. They contend that it is due entirely to natural causes.

Consumption Goes Up.

"Meat was being moved into consumption in good volume last winter because prices were geared down to a place where they would move it," says one well qualified observer.

"For instance, I was buying sliced bacon as low as 11 cents per pound and the better grades were selling for 13 or 14 cents. Hams, picnics, roasts, and other cuts of meat which required cooking were put down in price so that poor people turned to meat as a staple. They were getting ample food at a low price.

"This moved meat into consumption. Prices were low, people ate meat and the supplies were used up."

Packing companies in their annual reports have pointed out that meat is always in demand at a price in times of depression. The volume of business done by such concerns declines less than that of most other industries when times are hard.

Dairy Products Move.

Dairy products also were moved into consumption last winter by low prices. Butter at one time was selling at two pounds for 26 or 27 cents. People were turning to butter instead of butter substitutes.

The farmer's live stock supplies have been pretty well cleared out by this process of selling at a low price and getting the consumer to eat meat. And it has all been done on a domestic basis, because the export trade has been falling off sharply.

During the last month prices have shot upward because the demand exceeds the supply. The shortage is likely to continue for many months. To produce live stock or dairy products requires capital and time.

This fall, experts say, there will probably be an increase in hog production. An increase in cattle feeding is also looked for as a result of higher prices due to the fact that cattle supplies this spring were almost 20 per cent under normal.

At Opportune Time.

Greater live stock production will occur at an opportune time because prospects are good for a bumper corn crop this year. The Chicago area and the northwest are promised the best crops in years, not only in grains but fruits and vegetables as well.

Railroads are expecting hauls of agricultural commodities just as great, if not greater, than in either 1930 or 1931. Heavier production in the northwest is expected to compensate for smaller grain crops in the southwest.

A large part of these crops will be handled through Chicago and there-

Russian Wheat Offer Affects Chicago Price

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Russia furnished a sensation for the wheat traders early yesterday by offering wheat in Liverpool at 51⅝@52⅜c for September shipment. That came as a surprise and started a selling movement, carrying prices in all American markets sharply lower. It also had its effect on Liverpool. In fact, all foreign markets, as well as the Canadian, were affected, especially as the Russian wheat was offered below the price of the Canadian.

As an offset to the bearish foreign reports there were rather heavy general rains over the southwest, causing further interruption of harvesting and damaging of harvesting which already has been delayed about a week or more and somewhat reducing quality.

Wheat Receipts Are Large.

At the same time, receipts of wheat at leading southwestern markets for the last three days, were heavy, 4,370 cars showing that farmers are anxious to move part of their crop at least, to get ready money. In the face of all the depressing influences, which carried prices down to new low levels that go back into ancient history, July in Chicago down to 46⅝c and September to 49¾c, the close on July was 47¼@47⅜c; September, 49⅞@50c; December[53⅛@53⅜c.

Good rallies followed the decline and it was strikingly noticeable that there was a ready absorption of the offerings of September at 50c and under, while at above 50c, there seemed to be plenty for sale. The market had to absorb a great deal of wheat in the way of hedges in the southwest, where millers and cash handlers were buying the heavy receipts and hedging them by sales of December and September in Chicago and in their own market. An absence of export business was rather against the market but the traders apparently gave it little attention.

Farm Board Letting Go?

There are more indications of the farm board getting out of the market as the Red Cross is to absorb 45,000,000 bu. of the government wheat leaving the farm board companies with holdings that attract little attention of the trade and are not sufficient to be an important factor. The visible supply decreased 1,934,000 bu. the last week and is 168,161,000 bu., as compared with 188,523,000 bu. last year. World shipments for the week were small and below foreign requirements. Supplies on ocean passage showed a heavy decrease, but are slightly above last years.

Corn traders were unanimous in their opinions that the crop prospects are good and that conditions are better than a year ago. Many operators were out in the country over the three holidays and came back with the impression that corn prices were too high, based on present crop conditions. The weakness in stocks and in the moderate call for cash grains were depressing influences. July dropped down to 27c but rallied and closed at 27¾c, a net loss for the day of ¼c. September, closed at 30¾c, off ¼c, and December at 27⅞@31¾c, also ¼c lower. The visible supply decreased 877,000 bu, against 15,964,000 bu. or about double last years.

Oats were under pressure with July down to 19c, closing 19¼c or the same as Friday, while September was at 19⅝c and December, 21¾c, both gaining ¼c. Trading in rye was largely by elevator interests, who bought July and sold September, and the close was ¼c higher for July at 28¼c and September unchanged at 31¼. December, ¼c higher at 34¾c, a net gain of ¼c.

COURTS IN PARIS ATTACH CASH OF NEW YORK BANK

PARIS, July 5.—A decision was handed down today against the National City bank in litigation over an account with the Franco-Asiatic bank, and as a result 10,000,000 francs [about $393,000] has been attached by the French bank.

The suit arose over an account with the National City bank in New York, deposited by the Russo-Asiatic bank before the soviet revolution. The Russo-Asiatic bank held funds in rubles for the National City bank. After the revolution, the National City's account became worthless. Later the Russo-Asiatic bank's assets were taken over by the Franco-Asiatic bank, which began a suit to collect old deposits in the National City bank from the branch here.

The Paris branch, however, said it was not responsible and that the case should be tried in New York, but two French courts have now upheld the unity of the Paris organization with the New York bank and the money has been attached pending a court decision regarding the validity of the debt.

Canadian Inter'l Paper Reports $755,900 Income

New York, July 5.—(AP)—Canadian International Paper company and subsidiaries report for the year ended Dec. 31, 1931, net income after all charges of $755,900, compared with $1,859,745 in 1930. The earnings do not include New Brunswick International Paper company and International Power and Paper company of Newfoundland, Ltd., which were acquired as of Dec. 31, 1931.

SHORTS FINDING WAY TO AVOID TAX ON STOCK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 5.—In many instances the new federal tax on borrowed stock, which must be paid by the lender and in turn collected from the borrower or short seller, is being evaded by failure to deliver the stock sold short. At least that is true, according to information in brokerage circles today.

Ordinarily a speculator who sells short makes delivery by borrowing the necessary stock, but where the purchaser consents, it is a simple process to "fail to deliver." The brokers have no interest as long as the purchaser does not demand immediate delivery of the stock sold.

By failing to deliver the securities the seller escapes the tax, which amounts to 4 cents a share, or $4 for every 100 shares, regardless of the price at which the stock is selling or whether the stock has a par value.

It is understood that the great increase in "fail to deliver" and "fail to receive" items has added to the clerical work of commission houses.

Two Broadcasting Chains Reduce Pay, Personnel, Too

New York, July 5.—(AP)—Both national radio chains have reduced staffs and salaries.

The National Broadcasting company on July 1 placed in effect a general 10 per cent salary reduction. Several months ago the staff was cut down in an effort to make pay cut unnecessary. At present 1,246 names appear on the N. B. C. pay roll.

The Columbia Broadcasting system recently reduced salaries 15 per cent, after dropping about 75 employes from a personnel of 600.

35 Story Tower Fails to Pay Taxes.

BY AL CHASE.

Interest on $8,118,000 first mortgage bonds of the Willoughby tower, the thirty-five story office building at the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and Madison street, has defaulted and bondholders have been asked by the bondholder's protective committee, of which Augustus S. Peabody, is chairman, to deposit their securities with the Central Republic Bank and Trust company. Prepayments on the principal have not yet defaulted, but is expected the next installment due in January, 1933, will not be paid.

E. M. WILLOUGHBY.

The original loan, underwritten by Peabody & Co., was for $2,400,000, of which $200,000 were subordinated. The total of first mortgage unsubordinated bonds outstanding now is $2,118,000. The fee is owned by the Willoughby estate and the building and ninety-eight year leasehold are owned by the Willoughby Tower Building corporation, the principal stockholder of which is Edward M. Willoughby, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board.

Agreement is Made.

The terms of the ground lease provide that in the event of a default being in existence and unremedied for a period of sixty days after notice, the lessor may obtain possession of the property. At present the annual ground rent is $125,000. On May 1, 1933 it increases to $150,000 for five years; then for five years it's $160,000 and thereafter $175,000.

Mr. Peabody stated, however, that an agreement has been made by which the borrowing corporation promises to place all net income in a special fund for the following purposes: First, payment of ground rent; second, accumulation of the reserve fund for taxes; third, payment of interest on the bonds.

"While the situation with respect to taxes is serious," said Mr. Peabody, "the estimated annual income from the building, based on present operations, is sufficient to pay ground rent and accruing taxes and to apply a substantial sum each year on delinquent taxes. There seems to be some

Lower Rate Will Be Paid by Palmolive

Directors of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company yesterday authorized the distribution of a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common. The action places the stock on a $1 annual dividend basis as compared with $2.50 heretofore. Stockholders have already received $1.25 a share in dividends this year.

The reduction was decided upon rather than a curtailment in the national advertising of the company products, officials explained.

"The company contemplates continuing its advertising campaigns on a basis that will keep the position of the company in the industry and the reputation of its advertised brands in the minds of the consuming public, Charles S. Dewey, vice president in charge of finance, stated.

To Conserve Resources.

"As no one can foretell for how long a period present conditions may last, the company intends to conserve its resources and maintain itself in a liquid condition," he added. "This policy," he said, "will benefit stockholders in the long run."

The present low prices of fats and oils are the lowest encountered in the 40 years of company's history, Mr. Dewey stated. As the management feels the present level of prices cannot continue indefinitely the company by maintaining a liquid position will be in a favorable position to make substantial earnings with an improvement, Mr. Dewey believes.

Regular dividends were declared yesterday by the directors of several companies. Central Illinois Securities corporation voted the usual quarterly dividend of 37½ cents a share on the $1.50 convertible preferred stock. National Tea company directors authorized the regular 1¾ cents dividend on the preferred.

Melville Shoe Dividend.

Melville Shoe company common common stock was placed on a $1.20 annual basis through the declaration of a quarterly dividend of 30 cents. Three months ago the company paid 40 cents prior to which the quarterly rate was 50 cents.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 5.—Stocks were down today. Some diagnosticians thought the market was suffering from an attack of political indigestion. The theory was that the street was upset over the nomination of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt to head the Democratic ticket.

It is no secret that many stock traders are not overly fond of the New York governor and the tenets he professes.

The market has been "on the run" for so long that its natural course nowadays seems to be toward easier levels. Today few issues lost more than 3 points.

News Brings Other Declines.

Moreover, there were a number of items in the industrial news of the day to dampen enthusiasm here and there. The decision of the Wisconsin public service commission ordering the Wisconsin Telephone company, an American Telephone and Telegraph subsidiary, to cut rates was made the excuse for a drop of more than 2 points in A. T. & T. stock. Further discouraging figures on steel output had a depressing effect. Dividend and second quarter earnings prospects went against Eastman Kodak, Corn Products, National Biscuit, and other so-called "blue chip" issues.

Eastman broke 4½ points on selling which bore all the earmarks of liquidation before it found a steadying point. The closing sale was recorded at 81⅝, off 3¼ from Friday's final.

A sizeable list of new lows for the bear market were recorded in different departments of the market. General Motors equaled its former minimum and U. S. Steel common sold within a small fraction of its low before firming up. Union Pacific broke through its old level. Consolidated Gas, American Can, Allied Chemical, and other favorites receded from 1 to 2 points.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT

by

The First National Bank of Englewood

347 West 63rd Street - Chicago

BEGINNING July 1, 1932, interest on all savings accounts will be computed at the rate of 2% per annum.

Under existing conditions the highest types of investments to be had are yielding only 2½% to 3½%.

Our policy has been and will continue to be the maintenance of an extremely liquid banking institution.

It is our belief that the depositor would prefer to have us continue this policy, but in order to do so it has become necessary to reduce the interest rate on savings to 2%.

Backing these assertions of liquidity, we shall continue to publish a checkable detailed statement, listing every item of investment on our books.

basis for the hope that an arrangement may be made for the gradual payment of such taxes, thus avoiding the necessity of assessing bondholders for the funds necessary to protect the security of their investment."

Blame Ever Mounting Taxes.

Ever mounting taxes, it is pointed out, were the main causes of the present financial difficulties into which the property has been plunged. For instance, it had been estimated that the 1929 taxes would be less than $58,000 and for 1930 less than $68,000. Instead, the tax bills for 1929 called for $102,600 and for 1930 $112,443.

The Willoughby tower has had an occupancy of approximately 80 per cent, Mr. Peabody's statement points out, but the necessity of granting concessions in rent during the last eight months has reduced the net income. Meanwhile the corporation has failed to pay either the 1929 or 1930 taxes and is without funds to pay them or taxes for 1931. As nonpayment of taxes constitutes a default under the terms of the lease, the situation, Mr. Peabody points out, is extremely serious.

The bondholders' protective committee, headed by Mr. Peabody, comprises the following: O. P. Alford of O. P. Alford & Co., insurance; John H. Brinkerhoff of Brinkerhoff & Co., of Springfield, Ill.; Theodore E. Joiner of Hill, Joiner & Co., Inc., investment securities, and John W. O'Leary of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company. Harold Bray is secretary.

BANKS OF NATION ARE INCREASING CASH HOLDINGS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 5.—A continuing tendency toward increases in the holdings of cash and government obligations by banks of this city and other leading financial centers despite declines of moderate proportions in outstanding liabilities of the banks to depositors is shown in the June 30 statements.

A number of moderate increases in deposits in some of the institutions are, however, shown by these statements of condition.

Another fact of interest is that a substantial number of the banks of this city are continuing their policy of writing down their assets to take into consideration the exceptional conditions now prevailing in the securities markets and surrounding the loans that they have in their portfolios.

As is generally known, several of the banks have reduced their dividends with this same end in view,

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 5.—A block of securities of several operating subsidiaries of the National Electric Power company will be offered for sale at public auction July 13 by the New York Trust company. The securities were pledged as collateral for a loan of $3,000,000 to National Electric power, eastern holding company of the Middle West Utilities group, which went into receivership last week along with National Public Service, its principal subholding company.

The properties are to be sold a week from today by Henry J. Leake, auctioneer, of Adrian H. Muller and Son. The holdings consist principally of 166,589 common shares of Penn Central Light and Power company, 36,181 common shares of Michigan Electric Power company, a $750,000 demand note of Seaboard Public Service company to National Electric Power company secured by 115,742 common shares of Tide Water Power company, and a $750,000 demand note of Seaboard Public Service company to National Electric Power company secured by 449,991 common shares of Florida Power corporation.

These blocks consist of all but directors' shares of the Penn Central and Michigan companies, direct subsidiaries of National Electric Power, and of the Tide Water Power company, and a substantial majority of Florida Power shares; the two latter companies are controlled by Seaboard Public Service, subsidiary of National Public Service.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 11,000; sheep, 8,000.

The hog market yesterday went into the 27th day of the longest uninterrupted advance in many months. Prices were the highest in 8 months and they were equal to the highest level since Oct. 29, 1931. Yesterday's peak soared to $5.20, showing an advance of $1.90, or 57 per cent over the low day, May 28. The general average moved up to $4.80, showing $1.85, or 53 per cent advance since the low spot.

Unevenness in yesterday's market ranged from steady to 25c higher, compared with the close of last week, packing grades of hogs taking the lead on the upturn early in the session. Packing sows are unusually scarce for this season of the year when the movement of old sows is generally in full swing. According to most reports sows were turned on grass earlier in the season when prices were extremely low, and only recently, since the advance in the market, has much corn been fed to "packers" intended for slaughter.

There was a good clearance for all classes yesterday, particularly after an advance estimate of only 11,000 for today was released. High quality 170@230 lb averages made the new $5.20 top, while most 250@300 lb averages sold at $4.90@5.10. Light and handyweight sows sold at $4.40@4.65, and most 400@500 lb averages at $3.85@4.25.

Cattle Also Advance.

The cattle market was not to be slighted. New highs were made in both the steer and yearling classes, with the trade buoyant all day for best grades. Supplies were exceptionally low for a two day run and all buyers were eager to replenish their beef holdings despite reports of slowness in the wholesale trade at some distributing centers. Cattle arrivals at Chicago at 12,000 compared with a two day total of 19,286 a week ago and with 34,158 a year ago.

Swift was a lively bidder in top grades of steers and yearlings. More than 100 cattle averaging in loads from 942 lbs to 1,492 lbs, established the new top of $8.75. A large share of the day's total arrivals sold at $8.00 and above, with $8.50 the popular price for choice 1,000@1,500 lb averages. Mixed yearling steers and heifers averaging 816 lbs, reached $8.25, and 902 lb yearling heifers, feedlot mates to some of the $8.75 steers, raised the heifer top for load lots to $7.60.

The rank and file of cattle have fared best since the advance started in May and bulk of sales are at the highest point since Christmas week of last year, while the peak prices are highest since middle of March. While a big part of the run cashed at $8.00 and above, there was also a good showing of plain kinds including grassy stock at $6.00 and below, some of the poorest going at $5.00 and occasionally below. A string of 14 carloads of Texas cattle met slow sale at $5.00@6.00. Butcher stock ruled steady to strong. Calves were firm. Stockers and feeders attracted little interest, but the few here held steady to strong.

Few Lambs Arrive.

Last week's unsatisfactory market for lambs curtailed the movement and only 7,000 head showed up in the yards yesterday. The market perked up a little, and best grades recovered about 25c of last week's losses. Other classes sold steady. City butchers paid up to $6.75 for handpicked native lambs, taking the majority of the good grades. They also obtained two carloads of Idaho range lambs at $6.55. Yearlings sold for shipment east at $4.85@5.10.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 8,000 cattle, 11,000 hogs, and 8,000 sheep, against 7,647 cattle, 14,142 hogs, and 8,938 sheep the previous Wednesday and 7,802 cattle, 14,589 hogs, and 14,383 sheep a year ago.

NITRATE 'TRUST' WINS A DELAY IN MONEY CRISIS

Awaits Stand of New Chilean Government.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 5.—Several million dollars in short term acceptance credits of Cosach, the Chilean Nitrate combine, have been renewed. That provided working capital to carry on until reorganization plans have been completed and the attitude of the new Chilean government toward the combination has been more clearly defined. This was learned here today.

The credits, backed by nitrate as collateral, expired July 1. They were extended by London and New York banking interests. The exact amount involved was not divulged.

Meanwhile, Medley G. B. Whelpley, president of the organization, who is in London in connection with the efforts to effect recapitalization and scaling down of its heavy debt burden, is expected to go to Chile later on.

In Wall street, it was thought unlikely that the Chilean government would make any definite moves until Mr. Whelpley arrives, despite dispatches that the government had decided on liquidation of the combine and to throw its support behind small independent units.

The Chilean government owns 50 per cent of the stock in Cosach, sharing control chiefly with the Guggenheim interests of New York.

The immediate future of the Chilean nitrate industry also will be importantly influenced by the outcome of renewed efforts to organize a world nitrate cartel among the natural and synthetic producers.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Steady absorption of wheat on all breaks on September delivery under 50c attracted attention. Another factor that is creating a great deal of gossip is the pressure from hedges against purchases of cash wheat in the southwest.

The disposition to put wheat hedges in December instead of September as is usually the case is said to be due to the movement to get away from the tax, as the turning over of hedges from nearby to distant months that has been the custom for years, is eliminated.

Trade sentiment favors the sale of wheat on bulges, the impression being that under present conditions there is little disposition to take hold of the market except on extreme breaks, especially with the possible hedging movement in the southwest reaching fair proportions in the next thirty days.

Corn traders say they see nothing in the crop situation to induce buying other than covering shorts for a small upturn. Crop prospects, they think, are too good to warrant, especially with the trade almost entirely local.

"The burdensome tax which is now being paid by all traders in grains, including hedgers and others, is having an adverse effect on prices and unquestionably results in a lower level than otherwise might exist," says S. C. Harris, vice president of the Chicago Board of Trade. "The market finds it difficult to fulfill its normal function of discounting future conditions. One of the very first corrections in order to help the price," he continues, "is the elimination of this unjustifiable burden. We are approaching the period when damage to northwest crops is an annual occurrence, but if the market is to reflect deterioration it must be freed from the limitations which now militate against buying power. Let us hope that quick action will be taken in this respect."

COTTON AT NEW HIGHS

Cotton prices advanced to new high levels on the present upturn, but failed to hold the entire gain due to profit taking by the buyers who loaded up last week. At the top, prices were up 85 points above the recent low level made early in June and an advance of over $4.00 a bale.

At the close, futures in Chicago were 2 to 14 points higher, while other markets were 1 point lower to 3 points higher, the latter being in New Orleans while the New York market was 1 to 2 points net lower. Futures were unchanged with New York 5.95c, New Orleans and Galveston, 5.75c, and Houston, 5.70c. Liverpool was 12 to 13 points net lower.

There are indications of a decline in consumption of cotton which is still relatively high, according to reports from New York interests. The trade in the way of small orders continues good sized, but business is handled on narrow margins. Exports last week were 62,917 bales, against 79,683 bales last year. Since Aug. 1 they were 8,300,000 bales, against 6,000,000 bales last year. Prices follow:

Canadian Crop Outlook Mixed

Crop conditions throughout western Canada at the end of June were rather mixed, says a report from Winnipeg. The Canadian west as a whole has had a fair supply of moisture though it has not been as general as has been frequently reported, and the end of June found a considerable portion of the Saskatchewan areas that had suffered so much from drought and drifting last year, complaining of dry hot winds which were rapidly evaporating surface moisture, and that section had no reserves. Alberta had severe storms and destructive winds that also were felt eastward through a large part of Saskatchewan. In Manitoba the fight against grasshoppers continues, and farmers are making headway against the insects, but the loss will be heavy in some sections.

LARD PRICES ADVANCED

Hogs advanced to $5.20, a new high on the present upturn and about $2.00 above the recent low level. The advance in hogs was the basis for improved buying of lard and bellies with an appreciation in prices and closed around the best of the day, with lard futures all the same price, $4.80 showing net gains of 7½c to 25c, near deliveries leading the upturn. Bellies were up 17½c. Cash interest were buyers of both lard and bellies with scattered selling by profit takers, which was well absorbed. Cash trade was fair with regular lard, $4.80. Loose was $4.55 and leaf, $4.75. Short ribs and bellies were $5.62½. Liverpool lard was 6d to 1s higher. Export clearances of lard for the week were 8,122,000 lbs, as compared with 6,379,000 lbs last year. Clearances of bacon were 2,389,000 lbs, against 4,440,000 lbs last year. Hog receipts were materially more than a week and a year ago, being readily absorbed. Prices follow:

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The nationally known HOUSEHOLD LOAN PLAN offers cash loans of $300 or less to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate less than the usual small loan rate.

If you are working and keeping house you have all the security needed for a Household loan.

Commonwealth Customers—PAY LESS—for LOANS

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

You get the full amount of the loan, and up to 25 months to repay. Interest at the reduced rate is charged only while you keep the money.
